Decision to launch a so called campaign of confidence in the city of Salem was made by the Salem Kiwanis club this noon. The decision was based on the belief that the people of the city need more confidence in their community. Los Angeles was cited as an example of the progress that can be made by a city in which its residence have confidence.

"The trouble with Oregon is that we've been asleep at the switch," was one statement made. "Our people ought to be more like those of California, particularly Los Angeles," said another. "They think there are just two communities in existence, Los Angeles and the rest of the world." The general trend of the opinion expressed was that the main thing holding Salem back is the psychological attitude of its people.

The idea of the campaign was approved unanimously by the club.

FORMER HEAD OF STATE HOSPITAL FOR INSANE DEAD

Portland, Mar. 3.—Dr. Walter T. Williamson, Portland physician and alienist, for many years connected with the state hospital at Salem, who for 23 years had been prominent in medical and fraternal circles of Portland, died yesterday after an illness which became grave but a short time before his death. Dr. Williamson was 74 years of age and for a number of years had made his home at the Waverleigh sanitarium, which he conducted.

He was born at Peterboro, Ontario, Canada, and received his medical education at the University of California.

During the administration of Dr. S. E. Josephi as medical superintendent of the state hospital at Salem late in the '90s he came to Salem from Weston, Or., as assistant at the solicitation of Dr. Josephi.

He remained at Salem for a number of years after Dr. Josephi left, coming to Portland after concluding his services for the state. He was a noted alienist, specializing in this work, and during the last 25 years frequently was called upon by the courts of the Pacific northwest to pass upon the sanity of criminals.

Dr. Williamson was a member of the Oddfellows for more than 60 years. He was a 32d degree Mason and a member of the Mystic Shrine. Dr. Williamson took an active part in medical associations and at the time of his death was chairman of the board of trustees of the American Medical association and of the city and county organization.

Dr. Williamson is survived by his widow, Nettie Powell Williamson, a daughter, one of Oregon's leading pianists, a son, Dr. Hugh Williamson, and two grandchildren, Walter and Josephine Williamson.

QUAKE DAMAGE STILL UNKNOWN

Ottawa, Ont., March 3.—Eastern Canada today was endeavoring to ascertain the extent of the damage caused by the earthquake of Saturday, Sunday and yesterday. Some points were still isolated, telegraph wires being put out of commission by the tremors.

The latest quake, recorded at 10 a. m. Monday, was slight and caused little damage. Reports from all sections of the province of Quebec show that in addition to the heavy property loss and numerous injuries to residents, seven deaths were recorded, a majority being caused by shock. The property loss was exceptionally heavy in the valley of the Ottawa river and the St. Lawrence and the Saguenay basins.

The town of Tadoussac, 25 miles from Murray bay, in the quake region, has not been heard from since the first shock rocked the district. Telegraph and telephone communication to the settlement was crippled.

ESCHWIG SPREADS SELF IN VAIN; COED RULE RUIN

Connie Eschwig, deputy county clerk, clerk of the circuit court, and attendant at Willamette college of law, is the victim of a strategy. Connie contemplated attending the DeMolay dinner dance tonight, and with his usual foresight purchased the tickets well in advance—at expense of $2.50. Yes, there is a woman in question is a fair young co-ed at Willamette who had consented to accompany Connie.

In addition to the tickets Connie had his trousers pressed, secured a new shirt, a "boughten" shave, and indications pointed suspiciously to a tailor-made shampoo. Anyway the outfit was considered to be a law student.

After all the expenses were in he bumped into a campus regulation at Willamette that no co-ed may attend a dance with a student.

Being a law abiding citizen Connie is up against it. But if he goes to the dinner dance he will go alone.

COOS ROAD BOND ELECTION HELD VOID BY COURT

Coos county is permanently enjoined from issuing $250,000 in road bonds by an opinion of the supreme court today in the case of J. E. Norton against Coos county, appellant. The opinion was written by Justice Burnett and affirms a decree of Judge John C. Kendall of the lower court for Coos county.

The suit against the county was based on the statute which allows only one special election in a single year, and the question to determine was whether an election on the road bond issue held May 16, 1924, the date of the general primary election, was a special election. The supreme court holds that it was and therefore holds that an election called the following August was illegal.

Other opinions today were: Jessie M. Gray vs Hammond Lumber company, et al; appellants; appeal from Multnomah county on objections to cost bill of W. S. Lukins. Objection sustained in part. Opinion by the court.

Julia Douglas Richey, formerly Julia Douglas Aemleberger, appellant; vs Myrtle Jane Haley, formerly Myrtle Jane Hoffmeister; appeal from Clackamas county; suit to quiet title to real property. Opinion by Justice Burnett. Judge J. U. Campbell affirmed.

Brenard Manufacturing company, appellant; vs Warner Grocery company; appeal from Coos county; suit to recover money on promissory notes. Opinion by Justice Brown. Judge John C. Kendall reversed and case remanded.

JUDGE ASSERTS POLICE SHOULD SHADOW HUBBY

"What is needed in this case is an officer following this bird around the state with a warrant for his arrest, not a summons in a divorce complaint following him around in a letter."

This was the assertion of Circuit Judge McMahon today in continuing the case of Bertha Wilson against Loren Wilson for divorce.

"Nothing has been made out in this case that is a ground for divorce," said the judge. "Non support is not a ground for divorce. Morally I would like to give this woman a divorce on the evidence submitted to me. But I am not an autocrat and I must follow the law."

Mrs. Wilson charged that during the four years of their married life her husband had provided her only with one $10 dress, two aprons and a pair of shoes. Other allegations were made as to the husband going to Portland with other women.

"Nothing is shown here," said the court, "that these visits were other than social calls. No crime has been alleged or proved."

The case was continued with the understanding that when a year of separation has elapsed by next May a complaint charging desertion will be filed. The husband is alleged to have left his wife last May.
