OREGON FIVE IN POOR CONDITION FOR AGGIE GAME

Eugene, Or., March 5.—With the championship of the northern section of the Pacific coast conference at stake, the University of Oregon and the Oregon Agricultural college basketball teams will battle here at 5 o'clock this afternoon in the first of a three-game series. The winner of two of the three games will play California for the Pacific coast championship.

Oregon is not confident, though the team is determined. Okerberg, center, who is high point man in the northern section scoring for the season is suffering from a sprained ankle, sustained on the last trip of the Oregon team. Jost, guard, has been in the infirmary for two days with an attack of the flu. Gillenwaters, with whom Jost has alternated at guard, is recovering from a minor operation. Westergren, one of the flashiest guards of the conference, had two ulcerated teeth extracted, and is still feeling the effects.

With this tale of woe, the Oregon team is to go into the game, but close followers of the sport are of the opinion that the minor injuries will not seriously handicap the quintet when the play gets under way.

Oregon Agricultural college men, according to word sent here, are in good condition, with the exception of Brown, center, who is handicapped by a weak wrist. It is possible that he will not start the game, but that Diwoky may be used in his stead, it is said.

Ridings, one of the steadiest and deadliest forwards in the conference is at top notch form, according to the dope. Steele, who has been out of the Aggie lineup for a while with a sprained ankle, is back again, while Stoddard and Baker are in good shape for the crucial contests.

The second game of the series will be played in Corvallis, Saturday evening.

The probable lineup for this afternoon's game will be:

Oregon.		O. A. C.
Hobson	F.	Ridings
Gowans	F.	Baker
Okerberg	C.	Brown
Gillenwaters	G.	Steele
Westergren	G.	Stoddard

R. V. (Nig) Borleske, Whitman college coach, will referee and Bill Mulligan of Spokane will umpire.

FAILURE OF SENATE TO ACT COSTS LESTERMORE $50,000

New York, March 5.—Failure of the United States senate to adopt the Bok world peace plan during the sixty-eighth congress which ended yesterday, caused Dr. Charles Herbert Lestermore, author of the plan, to lose his chance—technically at least—to gain the second award of $50,000 offered by Edward Bok. The first award of $50,000 was given Dr. Lestermore upon acceptance of his plan by a special jury headed by Elihu Root.

Under the terms of the award, it was necessary for the United States senate to have adopted the winning plan by March 4, 1925, before its author could receive the second half of the $100,000 award.

lines, is speeding up the coast from the canal while, some two days astern and supporting it is the theoretical blue battle fleet, comprising a force equal to the black fleet.

Today the position of the oncoming naval forces of both fleets finds them six days on their missions. They are on the alert for each other, one in concentrated battle formation, and the blue fleet in extended scouting formation.

The officers and crews are at battle stations.

The maneuvering mass of the fifty-one vessels of the black fleet forms one of the rarest of spectacular sights.

To the lot of but comparatively few men comes the magnificent and inspiring view of the splendor of coordinated action manifested by the beautiful movements of this force of fifty-one glistening gray craft of the blue, blue waters.

The glamor and thrill of adventure in the lives of men who go down to the sea in ships reaches a zenith in the mammouth grandeur of the evolutions of a great fleet cruising in battle drills. Onward it moves. All the time onward, grooming itself, presening itself, perfecting itself for the instant it may need to strike, this great force glides through the trackless miles of blue waters.

The navy is moving on.

INJUNCTION ON DRAINAGE PLANS FACED

Walter Skelton, then city engineer, who pointed out to them the difficulties of securing passage through the city and scooping out dirt and disposing of it. These difficulties were so great the project was abandoned, stated Durbin.

It developed at the hearing today that both Treasurer Kay and Secretary Kozer have agreed to remain neutral relative to action taken on state lands, the majority opinion in the drainage district matter to prevail. An act was passed by the last legislature validating the signature of the governor to petitions signed for the board of control, but this act is not effective for 90 days following adjournment of the session.

KIWANIS DELEGATION BACK FROM TILLAMOOK

E. C. Patton, Ermo White, and Fred A. Erixon, Salem members of the Kiwanis club, returned yesterday from Tillamook, where they visited the Kiwanis banquet in commemoration of the third anniversary of the installation of the club in Tillamook.

A visit was also made at McMinnville on the return trip at the Kiwanis luncheon there, yesterday noon. Both organizations are flourishing, according to Mr. Patton. The three men will address the Salem Kiwanis club next Tuesday at their noon luncheon in the Marion hotel, giving their impressions of the two clubs they visited.

Mr. Erixon had not been in Tillamook in 17 years, and was surprised at the strides made by the coast city. Only three bad places in the highway were reported by the Salem men, which they ascribed to the cutting of deep ruts by heavy trucks.

FRANKLIN HIGH PERMITTED TO PLAY IN TOURNEY

With the acceptance by Franklin high school of Portland of the invitation to enter a team in the state basketball tournament at Salem, March 12, 13 and 14, the number of teams slated to enter the tourney will be increased to 10. Plans by Willamette authorities, under whose auspices the meet is to be held, had involved taking care of nine teams, but sudden action by the state board yesterday afternoon resulted in allowing a Portland team to enter. The invitation was extended to Franklin by virtue of its leading the Portland city league. There is a remote possibility that some other school may nose Franklin out, and in such an event the winning school will take Franklin's place at the tourney.

High school teams over the entire state are swinging into the home stretch in their district contests. In southern Oregon the fast Medford team, champions of the state last year, practically has its district title sewed up. Its team of a year ago remains practically intact, and has defeated Ashland twice and Roseburg twice. Two more games are slated with Ashland, but winning one of these will give Medford an undisputed right to enter the state meet.

In the lower Columbia river district two contenders, Astoria and Rainier are left in the running. The district title is to be decided betwen them this week. A district tournament is to be held at Marshfield, Friday and Saturday of this week, to determine which team of the numerous teams along the southern Oregon coast will make the trip to Salem. Either University high of Eugene or Corvallis high will be eliminated from its district running when the two teams clash in the Willamette gymnasium at 7:30 o'clock tonight. The winner of the two will play Eugene high for the right to enter the tourney.

McMinnville and Cloverdale, the two teams remaining in their districts, are slated to clash this week, the winning team representing the district at the state meet. Pendleton won the right to represent its district when the Pendleton team defeated Athena last week.

MYERS LOSES PENSION JOB WITH STATE

"The state would be better off if there weren't, especially since we don't know under the law whether it is a home or a school," Kay said.

"I quite agree with you on that," said the governor.

Kay declared that the salary of $200 a month paid Myers is about the same as a pension.

"It is a mighty big pension, too," the governor said.

State-owned Car Puzzle.

When is a state-owned automobile used for private purposes and when for state purposes is a question the board has to wrestle with as the result of the passage of a bill by the legislature and its approval by the governor limiting the use of such cars to state business only. The board will settle this question later.

"I read the bill hurriedly and I see a lot more trouble in it now than when I signed it," said the governor.

The governor discussed the act by asking several hypothetical questions. "If a superintendent's wife jumps into a state car and runs down town shopping?" "If she goes to a party in a state-owned car, is that private or public business?" were two of them. Nothing was said about state cars being used for electioneering purposes.

Action of the ways and means committee of the recent legislatur in slashing from the appropriations for the state deaf school and the girls' industrial school all moneys intended for farming purposes is causing the board trouble, inasmuch as the committee made no provision for dairy and garden produce to be purchased for the inmates.

Farm Operations Hit.

As a result of investigations made by Senator Beals the ways and means committee voted to recommend to the board of control that farming operations be dropped at the deaf school and that the dairy be dispensed with at the girls' school. Beals claimed he found that these activities were money losers. Although the money to maintain them has been cut off the board has received no advices from the ways and means committee on the subject. Secretary Carle Abrams said a bill was drawn by the committee directing the board of control to eliminate these activities, but that the bill was not introduced. Beals claimed to have found the same condition at the tuberculosis hospital, but did not favor eliminating the farm activities there because the patients needed the produce.

Mrs. Clara Matterson, superintendent of the girls' school, was at a loss to see how her wards could get along with no dairy and no money to buy milk and butter. The same handicap in a greater degree exists at the deaf school.

Governor Pierce said he was unable, in a conservation with Beals, to grasp his reasoning, but recalled that Beals said a bunch of "knot-head' Jerseys did not belong at the girls' school. This aroused Mrs. Patterson, who averred that she has no "knot-head" Jerseys and that when Beals visited the school he saw no cattle. "There wasn't a cow in sight anywhere," she said.

Dr. G. C. Bellinger, superintendent of the tuberculosis hospital, said that Senator Beals, while investigating at his institution, charged the budget estimate of increase in population against the production of two years ago, which he considered unjust. He reported a waiting list of 48 at the hospital.

O. L. McIntyre, superintendent of the deaf school, said Beals did not confer with him at all. Secretary Abrams recalled that Beals got his figures from the report of the board of control.
