FATHER OF COAST HIGHWAY SCHEME CALLED BY DEATH

Newport, Or., March 10.—Benjamin F. Jones, 67, Lincoln county's best known citizen, father of the Roosevelt highway, and for many years a member of the state legislature, died at his home here Monday, death occurring shortly after 11 o'clock in the morning as he was reclining on a couch, and was believed to be due to apoplexy.

One of the greatest gratifications that came to Mr. Jones in the course of a long life filled with constructive work for his community was to see the Roosevelt highway rapidly becoming a reality. He originated the movement for this roadway many years ago in the face of opposition and ridicule.

Among his notable achievements in the legislature were the passage of the Oregon City free locks bill, which caused a reduction of freight rates on Southern Pacific valley lines, and the parent-teacher law.

He served also at various times as mayor of Newport, Toledo and Independence, and was secretary of the United States land office at Roseburg and clerk of Lincoln county for three terms. He was a staunch supporter of the Oregon Normal school at Monmouth and consistently advocated compensation for Indian war veterans.

Mr. Jones was declared to be largely responsible for the harbor improvements of Yaquina bay, and had been active for many years in steamboating.

With his parents he came to Oregon from Kansas in 1870 and settled on a homestead where the town of Toledo now stands. He was graduated from the Oregon Agricultural college and studied law while operating steamboats. He later practiced here and at Toledo. He was interested extensively in lumbering.

QUEEN ELIZABETH and PHILIP GROSSMAN

Despite protests from her ladies-in-waiting, Queen Elizabeth of the Belgians has had her hair shingled, according to a London cable from Brussels. Lady Warwick, immensely wealthy Socialist, has withdrawn her invitation to Labor members of the British Parliament to take address to her "open house" at Easton Lodge. It is understood she wanted them there for serious discussions, but found too many "gay young sparks" who thought only of a good time. The Supreme Court of the United States has upheld the right of President Coolidge to pardon Philip Grossman, of Chicago, sentenced to prison for contempt of court in a liquor violation case. Federal judges in Chicago declared the President had no power of pardon in contempt cases. A shower of eggs greeted Eamonn de Valera, "Provisional President of the Irish Republic," during an election meeting in Dublin.

Mill City, Or., March 10.—Active road work is again being started by the United States Fidelity & Guarantee company on the new highway between Niagara and Detroit, several new station crews being put to work last week and more to be added immediately. Old man winter seems to hate to give up the host in this section, displaying his teeth again early Sunday morning by dropping quite a heavy fall of snow on the mountains surrounding here, with a light fall in the city. Snow continued to fall intermittently throughout Sunday and Sunday night, and Monday morning huge flakes were falling fast. By noon the sun had poked through and melted most of the snow here, but what appears to be a very heavy fall is noted on the nearby mountains.

MAN CARRIES SEVERED CHIN TO PHYSICIANS

Los Angeles, Cal., March 10.—It was an odd night at the receiving hospital here Sunday night. First Louis Garcia came in carrying in his hand a portion of his chin, which had been sliced off by an opponent in a night affray. Surgeons sewed the piece of chin back into place and told him they thought it would stick, then turned to take care of Homer Land, 25, who had walked in with a bullet hole through his head. Despite the fact that Land appeared only slightly worried by the bullet, which had entered his throat and came out at the top of his head, surgeons said his condition was critical. He had been shot in a street fight.

Will Test Commercial Planes for Mail Use Omaha, Neb., Mar. 10.—(By Associated Press)—Commercial aviation will move up another step in the ladder of progress March 15, when 10 airplane manufacturers, all of America, will offer their best airplanes for rigid inspection of the United States air mail service. The tests, to be conducted at Hazelhurst field, N. J., and at the San Francisco air mail field, will be to determine the best type of machine for carrying mail.

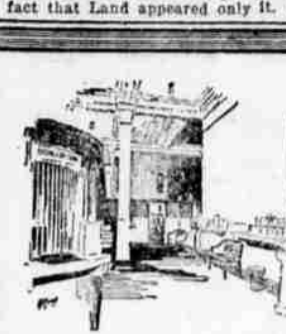

According to Superintendent Carl Edge of the air mail service at Omaha, the tests will mean a departure from the use of the old De Havilland type of army plane for carrying mail and will be one of the biggest forward steps in the history of commercial aviation.

Superintendent Edge expects that the tests will result in selection of a plane that will carry from three to four times as much mail and travel as fast or faster than the De Havilland types now used.
