CHILD HEALTH WORK QUARTERS ARE ESTABLISHED

The Marion county child health demonstration, which was secured for Salem through the work of the Chamber of Commerce, will have its headquarters in the residence owned by William Brown, 573 State street.

This child health work for children of all ages, is under the personal direction of Dr. Walter H. Brown, who is recognized as one of the leading child health specialists in the United States.

Six rooms of the residence to be used for headquarters, will be all occupied at the beginning of the work. The main double room will be used as the health center. The room will be properly equipped for the work, especially for the examination of children. The work will be in charge of a well trained physician who will not practice medicine but who will co-operate with local physicians.

Other rooms will be used by nurses, the statistician, stenographers and other assistants to Dr. Brown who will arrive within a short time. All work will be under the personal direction of Dr. Brown.

The first step in the work of the Marion County Child Health demonstration will be that of Dr. Emma Winslow who arrived in Salem a few days ago direct from New York city. She was formerly associated with Columbia University, New York city in child health work and holds degrees from the University of London, England.

The work of Dr. Winslow will be to assist Dr. Brown in the organization of the services of the demonstration and make preparations for the examination of children up to and including school age. All work will be in co-operation with the physicians of Salem and Marion county.

The Commonwealth fund of New York city at present finances a five year program of child health work in four cities in the United States. When the Commonwealth Foundation officials decided to put on its five year program in the west in a county where the largest city had a population of less than 25,000, the Salem Chamber of Commerce was asked if it was interested.

Twenty-eight cities in the Rocky mountains and Pacific coast made application for the demonstration. Through the showing made by the Salem Chamber of Commerce and the personal visit by Dr. Brown and his wife, Marion county was chosen for this great child health program.

The residence headquarters at 573 State street is now being prepared for the demonstration work. Just at present Dr. Brown has his office with the Salem Chamber of Commerce.

Fred Erixon reported a trip taken to Tillamook at the Kiwanis luncheon this noon. Elmo White and E. Cooke Patton, Salem Kiwanians, made the trip with him. "They're a real live bunch over there," said Erixon, referring to the Tillamook Kiwanis club, "and they've done a lot of good for their community." Among other things the organization has succeeded in having an armory built at Tillamook, and improvements made in the harbor there, he indicated. Erixon mentioned in particular that he had met Tillie of Tillamook.

Five births were reported to the office of the city health officer this morning. They were as follows: Douglas Boyd Armstrong, Jr., born on March 9 to Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Boyd Armstrong, Jr., born on March 9 to Mr. and Mrs. B. Filan; a girl, unnamed, born on February 24 to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Armon Banks; a boy, named James Henry Greiner, born on February 14 to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Greiner; and a girl, named Wilma Ruth Stout, born on February 25 to Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Gilbert Stout.

Mrs. Malcolm Hamp sang "Love Came Calling," and "Out of the Dusk" at the luncheon of the Kiwanis club this noon. She was accompanied by Professor Roberts of Salem on the piano and Mrs. Mary Talmage Hendrick of Salem on the violin.

Miss Doris Hall, of Monmouth, made a trip to Salem this morning.

Mrs. E. Jenks was in Salem today. Her home is in Tangent.

Reverend A. P. Pendleton of Tangent was in Salem this morning.

Miss Anne Fry visited in Salem today. She is a resident of Dallas.

BE CAREFUL

Clifford W. Brown, whose automobile collided with a car driven by W. J. Tohl on 12th street between State and Perry yesterday, made this unusual report on the accident blotter at the police station: "Collision due to carelessness of myself in turning around. Damage all done to my own car and accident due entirely to my own carelessness. I am fully insured to cover both cars."

able feature of progress, should not be of the complacent, unprogressive variety, but flavored with a certain amount of discontent.

No dissatisfied community ever grew," he maintained. "Discontent is a vital factor in every advancement that is ever made. It is discontent that has brought the United States to where she is today."

Colonel Faville branched off on the subject of agriculture as related to the city man's business. Marion county ranks highest of all counties in Oregon in the number of farms owned by the farmers themselves, he stated. Fifty-two million dollars are invested in the county in agriculture, he said. The annual turnover in the county amounts to over $10,000,000. One man of $500,000 farm products, the other 7 sell their products, depending largely upon the farmers for a market.

"If agriculture is sick, city business is sick," he said, making a plea for a cooperative effort between the farmer and the city business man. One need of cooperation pointed out by the speaker was for the purpose of eliminating the waste at present involved when farm products pass into the hands of the ultimate consumer.

SALEM TO PLAY OPENING GAME WITH WALLOWA

According to draws made by Superintendent Churchill for the state tournament to be staged in Salem this week, the Salem high school quintet will meet Wallowa, eastern Oregon champions, in the opening game of the tourney Thursday night. The second game, also played Thursday night, will be between Medford, champions of southern Oregon and state champions last year, and Franklin, winners of the Portland city league. The other six of the ten teams to play until the second round of the meet, which will begin Friday afternoon.

Salem, if victorious over Wallowa, will begin the second round also, being matched against the Astoria quintet, winners over Rainier in a game played at Portland last night. Other clashes in the second round will be as follows: McMinnville vs. Astoria, Eugene vs. Hood River, Pendleton vs. the winner of Medford and Franklin, Winner over Wallowa and Astoria will place Salem in the semi-finals. To enter the finals Salem will have to defeat Wallowa, Astoria and the winner of the McMinnville-Astoria match. If the Salem team progresses as far as the finals its opponent will be one of Franklin, Medford, Pendleton, Hood River and Eugene.

Wallowa, Salem's first opponent, was over Joseph by a two-point margin last night. Contrary to previous announcement Baker has already been eliminated.

Most of the teams have sent in word that they will arrive in Salem, Thursday afternoon.

CALIFORNIA LEAVES TONIGHT

San Francisco, Cal., March 10.—The University of California basketball team will leave tonight for Corvallis, Or., to meet the Oregon Agricultural college team on Thursday, Saturday and Monday nights in a series to decide the Pacific coast intercollegiate basketball conference title. The Californians hold the southern division championship, while the Aggies are title holders in the northern division.

George Clements has been named to replace Fred Holmes, star California forward, who is ill.

TICKLES HUSBY; GETS ONLY ABUSE IN RETURN

Tickling a grouchy husband is an exciting experiment, according to the testimony of Nelda R. Buck, in a divorce complaint filed against Glenn A. Buck. She says she came home one day, found her husband in a grouchy mood, and tickled him, to restore harmony to the household. He repaid her playfulness, she said, by kicking her on the leg, causing a black and blue spot.

Severely evidently came infrequently to the Buck household, and then in some other shape than a mother-in-law, according to the complaint. For, she asserts, the mother-in-law maintained a hostile and antagonistic attitude toward her, even after the wife had built the fire and prepared breakfast for the mother-in-law and husband to eat.

She alleges also that she secured her husband a number of jobs, but he refused to work at them after she had acquired them. A number of other allegations are included in the complaint.

London, March 10.—(By Associated Press.)—Egyptologists here agreed that if the tomb found by the Boston-Harvard expedition deep down in the rocks near the great pyramid at Giza proves to be that of the Pharaoh, who immediately preceded the renowned pyramid builder Cheops, its importance is far greater than that of Tut-Ankh-Amen but it is some thousands of years older and the contents may throw light upon that remote period about which very little is known.

The Pharaoh Seneferu—whose name is variously spelled by English Egyptologists—was the first builder of the fourth dynasty (about 4000 B. C.), while Tut-Ankh-Amen reigned as late as the 18th dynasty, the history of which is fairly familiar. Moreover, Tut-Ankh-Amen was relatively unimportant king while Seneferu was regarded as one of the founders of the Egyptian empire, and a man of great enterprise and energy.

Sir Wallis Budge, who lately retired from the post of keeper of Egyptian antiquities in the British museum, told the Daily Express that if the tomb proved to be that of Seneferu and not been plundered, it was almost certain to yield objects of priceless value.

(The Cairo dispatch yesterday telling of the discovery said the sarcophagus had been unearthed intact, with much funeral furniture inside. Near the sarcophagus, which was a large one of marble, with gold decorations, and resting upon what seemed to be a palm, was the seal of Seneferu.)
