SCHOOL BILL HELD UNJUST

ducting private and parochial schools as well as parents within the state, of the liberties and rights guaranteed by the constitution.

Asserting that a decision sustaining the law would be the death knell to freedom and religious liberty in this country, William D. Guthrie, as counsel for the Society of the Sisters of the Holy Name of Jesus and Mary, said those sponsoring the law would seek to foist it upon the people through a constitutional amendment.

"No more far reaching or momenteus question of the tenets of the rights of the people of their freedom of conscience and religious liberty has ever been submitted to this court."

"The question," he said, "deeply touches the springs of the rights of constitutional liberty and those sacred rights of the parents which have ever been most highly cherished here. Our very great government was established to secure and protect those rights."

The underlying motive and intent of the new law was as antireligious he said, as any soviet measure adopted in Russia. It was being opposed, he added, not only by the Roman Catholic church but by Presbyterians, Episcopalians, Jews and all whom he described as the frjends of the constitution.

J. P. Kavanaugh closed the argument for the Society of the Sisters of the oHly Names of Jesus and Mary, devoting his attention to the constitutional questions involved and insisting that there had been the taking of property and an infringement of the rights and liberties of the parents, children and teachers in violation of the guarantees of the federal constitution.

Argument for the state in the case of the Society of the Sisters of the Holy Names of Jesus and Mary was closed by Former Senator George F. Chamberlain who cited court decisions in support of the contention that should be no violation of any constitutional rights.

He read from the canons of the Roman Catholic church in connection with his assertion that the church took control of the education of the children of its communicants away from the parents. Such circumstances, he said, it was a question between the church and the state and the courts must hold, he added, that in such a contest the state's rights were paramount.

Mr. Chamberlain asserted that the Catholic church was attempting to set the children of their communicants aside from other children, and to make them different from others when they grow up, to the detriment of the democracy. It was the purpose of the people of Oregon, he said, to bring about greater democracy. Public schools bring children in contact with the rich and the poor and those of different faiths, he said teach them in such a way that when they go out into the world they are tolerent of rights of others.

BOY ADMITS CONFESSION FRAUDULENT

Asa Keyes. Two weeks ago the lad announced that he fired the shot that killed the man for whose murder his mother was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment Yesterday he admitted the "confession" a falsehood.

Los Angeles, Cal., Mar. 17—A boy who tried hard to make folks believe it was he who committed the murder for which his mother was sentenced to life imprisonment, today was just a boy again, having admitted to the district attorney that his "confession" was a lie forged to free his parent from the consequences of her crime. He was "Sonny" Willis, 14 year old son of Mrs. Margaret Willis, convicted slayer of Dr. Benjamin B. Baldwin.

"Sonny" announced about ten days ago that he killed Dr. Baldwin last April when the doctor attacked his mother and on the strength of his "confession" his mother's attorney won for her a stay of execution postponing her removal to San Quentin penitentiary. The same attorney after District Attorney Asa Keys scoffed at the lad's story, swore out a complaint charging the boy with murder and Harold was held for trial.

Yesterday, after a two hour grilling, Harold broke down and sobbed "I was in school when Dr. Baldwin was killed. I knew nothing about it until later. I said I killed him to help my mother."

Mrs. Willis, who ten days ago corroborated her son's "confessions" declined yesterday to discuss his repudiation of the "confession."

IRISH MAKE GALA DAY OF ST. PATRICK'S FETES

Dublin, March 17.—Armored cars, artillery, airplanes and several thousand Free State troops with their bands took part in today's military display here in honor of St. Patrick's day. After mass the troops paraded the principal streets while airplanes maneuvered over the city. At College Green, President Cosgrave, with the members of his government and the army chiefs, took the salute as the soldiers marched past.

The day was observed quietly as a general rule, more as a religious festival than a secular holiday.
