NO DECLINES IN BUTTER PRICES STATE DEALERS

Portland, April 3—There will be no decline in the local butter market for Monday, according to a report given out today by Portland creamery men after learning that the Seattle market would not consider a drop and intended to hold print prices at present levels.

Weakness in cubes with country stock accumulating here, led the local trade to anticipate a decline in prints. Buying was limited to immediate requirements although none of the big creameries were long on butter.

Local brokers have a surplus of country cubes which cannot be sold here and prices have been easing off on the exchange. Extras are dow na half cent today and standards 1½ cents.

While cream production is showing some little increase, a decline in butterfat bids at this time would be severely felt by most of the producers who are still loaded up on high priced feed. Today buyers are paying 48 cents for fats delivered Portland and 46 cents in the country.

Eggs are unchanged with extras again posted at the 30 cent level on the local board. Receipts and demand are well balanced.

Country dressed veal is a fraction lower with 16 cents the top now on choice light calves. Hogs unchanged at 18 to 18½ cents.

WOOL MARKET IS DULL FOR WEEK

Boston, April 3—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:

"A dull market, almost featureless has ruled in wool this past week. Some think there has been a little more interest on the part of mills but if so it has been insufficient to stabilize the situation. Prices are slightly easier for the week and largely nominal. The several branches of the trade, however, are sufficiently liquid to warrant the belief that should a decent demand for goods arise, the manufacturers would be forced to buy wool with considerable freedom. Up to the present, however, the demand for goods has developed in a disappointing manner.

"Mohair is rather slow, but fairly steady."

The Commercial Bulletin will publish the following wool quotations:

"Scoured basis: Oregon, eastern No. 1, staple $1.43@1.45; fine and fine medium combing $1.35@1.38; eastern clothing $1.20@1.25; valley No. 1, $1.28@1.32.

CORN AND OATS AT LOW LEVELS IN DAY'S TRADING

Chicago, April 3—Corn took the lead in the grain markets today and brought about a severe general smash in prices. All deliveries of corn an doats collapsed to the lowest levels yet this year. Shortly before the close May corn was down six cents to 92 cents a bushel.

Wheat as well as corn and oats reached a new low price record but only for September delivery. However, the loss as in other deliveries of wheat were sharp.

Urgency to sell by owners and thus stop losses which appeared probable disclosed that the market was minus any important demand except of an intermittent sort from speculators who were in a position to collect profits. Under such conditions, corn prices developed acute weakness and this was especially the case near the close.

Before the day ended corn fell as low as 92 cents a bushel for May delivery, a drop of seven cents from yesterday's closing price. Other months showed an even greater setback, July decreasing 7¼ and September 7⅛.

The extreme break in wheat was 6½ cents a bushel, May delivery dropping to $1.36½.

Chicago, April 3—Opening wheat prices varying from ¼ decline to half advance, May $1.42½ to $1.43¼ and July $1.32⅝ to $1.32½ were followed by a setback to $1.41½ for May and then a sudden bulge in which May touched $1.45.

Corn opened unchanged to 1¾ cents lower, May 98¾@99½ dropped to 97⅝, May, and then rose to 99⅛.

Oats started unchanged to ¼ cent higher, May 39 to 39¼, descended to 38½, May, and later touched 39⅞ with all months showing fractional overnight gains.

Provisions were responsible to a jump of 25@40 cents in the hog market.

DEFENSE NOT REPRESENTED BY ATTORNEY

nests and as Cupid's car on various trips.

The night that Mrs. Bozell's brother, about 18 years old, spied on Miss Bollman was the same night that Mrs. Bozell told her husband he could leave and not come back, according to the statement by the attorney. Miss Bollman roomed at the house of Justice H. J. Bean, he declared, and on the night in question when marital relations of Mrs. Bozell with her husband ceased, the youth stood outside the Bean home. The family was away, except a maid. The attorney told how the boy reported that lights glowed in one of the family rooms for a time, then they glowed in Miss Bollman's room, went dark for a period and glowed again. Miss Bollman then came out of the house, took her automobile and drove away. The boy waited, stated the attorney, and after a time Miss Bollman returned. She saw the boy, apparently, and drove around the block, returning and started to put up her car. The boy crossed the street and went up to her.

"Where's Fred?" he demanded.

Told to Leave.

The attorney declared Miss Bollman denied that he was there.

"You tell him to come home as soon as he can get there," the boy is quoted as saying and he left, going home himself.

Shortly afterward declared the attorney, Fred Bozell came home "in an excited state" and it was then and there Mrs. Bozell said she knew where he had been and what he had been doing and told him to leave home and stay away.

The attorney in his statement went to charge that Bozell later moved to Garibaldi beach and that he used Miss Bollman's car while there.

He came to the climax of his statement when he told how, on November 25, Miss Bollman left the governor's office, went to Portland and to the Y. W. C. A. There, he declared, she was met by Fred Bozell, the two drove around town a bit, had dinner and proceeded together to Centralia. They were followed by two men, stated Smith.

Spent Night in Hotel.

The couple, he declared, went to the Wilson hotel at Centralia and there registered, the "and wife" after the name of F. W. Bowman, used on the register, being placed there by the hotel man, he stated. The couple, he said, remained all night in room 216 at the hotel, and he stated the testimony would show that on the night of November 8, the same couple stayed in room 218 at the hotel.

Taking of testimony was expected to consume most of the day today.

Regardless of the fact that neither defendant or any counsel were in the court room to represent her, the trial is proceeding just as though she was present with a full battery of attorneys. Testimony will be taken, the jury charged by the court, and the jury bring in its verdict the same as though a defense were interposed. It will be up to the jury to deduce from the testimony taken the measure of damages to be awarded the plaintiff.

The plaintiff is asking for $10,000 damages against Miss Bollman. Up to a few weeks ago she was represented in court by Oscar Hayter of Dallas and John H. Carson of Salem. Suddenly these attorneys withdrew and no substitution was made. Miss Bollman decided to default on the whole issue.

WILD BERRIES HIT BY FROST

Brooks, April 3—In spite of the warm rains and sunny days the wild evergreen berry vines still look badly scared by the hard winter. It is early, however, to predict what the real damage will be to the fruit, according to some of the old timers.
