Mrs. White Hostess At Dance

All the lovelinesses of spring, the color, the daintiness, and the sprightliness, were combined in Derby hall last night when Mrs. Ralph White was hostess at an informal dance with members of her Progressive Dancing club as her guests. It was a gala event with more than fifty five couples present.

Derby hall never looked more beautiful than it did last night. Baskets and bunches of pink cherry blossoms, hundreds and hundreds of hand painted butterflies suspended from a false ceiling that was formed of long pink streamers which led from a huge Japanese umbrella suspended from the center of the dancing room to the walls made an unforgettable picture. Covering all of the wall lights were many colored Japanese lanterns and two tall Japanese lamps of unusual design stood at either end of the orchestra platform.

As the guests entered dainty colonial negays were presented to the matrons and maids and tiny single roses to the men. During the intermission the gift of a beautiful bridge lamp was presented to Mrs. White by the club with V. E. Kuhn making the presentation speech.

One of the most delightful features of the evening was the beautiful dance "To Spring," given by Mrs. White and seven of her younger dancers. Barefooted and wearing lovely filmy costumes of grace and color Mrs. White, Miss Bertha Babcock, Miss Margaret Tucker, Miss Pauline Marnach, Miss Fay Wason, Miss Lucille Pettijohn, Miss Maxine Myers and Miss Cynthia Deland gave a most attractive spring dance. At the close Mrs. William Frank sang "My Hero" and the dancers presented roses to all of the ladies who chose their partners for the next dance by presenting them with a rose.

Special guests of Mrs. White and the club were Mr. and Mrs. A. Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. George Hubbs of Silverton, Mr. and Mrs. J. Green, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Kubin and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Glover.

Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Jones are entertaining as their house guests for several weeks their son and daughter in law, Mr. and Mrs. Melville Jones of Oakland, California, who motored up on Monday.

Miss Crowley was elected yesterday to attend the sessions as Mrs. Alice Thompson, Salem association president, was suddenly taken ill and was unable to take the trip to Spokane.

Two new clubs were voted into the state federation of the Business and Professional Woman's club at its meeting Thursday—the Roseburg B. & P. W. club, of which Mrs. Rose Parrott is president, and the Corvallis club, of which Mrs. Sylvia Hadman, dean of O. A. C. president, and Mrs. Margaret Fleming, vice president, was in charge of the meeting. In lieu of the president, Mrs. Alice B. Maloney of Marshfield.

Mrs. Olive Joy Wright of Cleveland, O., national vice president, has accepted an invitation to attend the state convention, to be held in Salem in June, and she will be the speaker on Saturday, June 13. Mrs. Wright will be in Seattle June 11 and attend the B. & P. W. club's state federation, and from Portland she will go on to Idaho.—Telegram.

The harmonized Indian Flute Calls, as recorded on the reservations of the Apache, Red Willow, Pueblo, Cheyenne, Mohi and Zuni tribes will be interpreted by the choral class. Writers Meet With Mrs. Thayer

With Miss Eleanor MacMillan of Portland, president of the Northwest Poetry society, as the honor guest, the meeting of the writers' section of the Arts league at the home of Mrs. Claudine Thayer on north Capitol street last night was devoted largely to poetry. Members of the section contributed original bits of verse.

A special feature of the evening was the part which Miss MacMillan herself took in the program. She contributed three numbers, the first "Hypocrite," was printed in the Larist and is one of her favorites; "Motherhood" was another favorite because of its background of understanding gained by Miss MacMillan during her career as a social welfare worker in Portland; the third was "Comradeship."

Mrs. John M. Clifford opened the program with two poems, a sonnet called "Altar Fires," and a short whimsical verse named, "A Very Little Thing." Miss Marie Roberts read a short story which she rewrote after hearing the opinions of the members at a recent meeting. She called it "An Ancestor in Default." Mrs. Blanche M. Jones read a short poem, "Then I Will be Content." Professor Morton E. Peck read a long ocean poem written in rhyme which receives its name from the first line, "I Saw an Aged Woman on the Shore."

Two numbers were contributed by Mrs. Clara V. Barton—a prose monologue called "A Human Document," and a spring poem termed "The Call." Other members of the section who gave bits of their original verse last night were Mrs. Gertrude Robison Rose, "To Thank God for Sorrows;" Rena Swart, a radio poem, "Tuning in to the Infinite;" Mrs. Elizabeth Sherwood, "You Have Not Seen the West;" Mrs. C. J. Lisle, "God's Garden;" "Thru Life Beside;" Mr. Lisle, "Trees in My Garden of Dreams;" Mrs. Ruth Fargo, "I Swept my House of Life." Miss Maude Covington read a letter from the illustrator of Anna Shannon Monroe's last book, "Behind the Range," in which he speaks highly of it.

Miss MacMillan extended a general invitation to the Salem writers to attend the next meeting of the Northwest Poetry society which will be held in Portland at the home of Mrs. Alice Webster.

Miss Genevieve Darby assisted Mrs. Thayer in greeting the guests. Assisting in the serving were Mrs. John Clifford and Mrs. Gertrude Robison Rose. During the social hour which followed the program Robert Pauline exhibited a number of his new autochromes—pictures which he has taken recently.

Guests of Mrs. Thayer were Miss Eleanor MacMillan, Mrs. John Clifford, Mrs. Gertrude Robison Rose, Miss Grace Elizabeth Smith, Mrs. Ora F. McIntire, Mrs. Blanche M. Jones, Prof. and Mrs. Morton E. Peck, Prof. and Mrs. F. G. Franklin, Mrs. Ruth Fargo, Miss Marie Roberts, Mrs. Ed Whitney of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, who has been the house guest for the past week of the club.

Is There Any Limit To a Womans Love?

WHEN Lotta married William Manning, it was the happiest day in her life. Then she made a terrible discovery—he had contracted the drug habit. Never did a wife battle with more primitive fierceness to free her husband from a monster that was destroying his body and soul. But to no avail. The despair, anguish and terror of those days are too recent for Lotta to tell of them. But William Manning can and does tell how he fell into the net cast by the Dragon of Evil—and how only the strength, faith and deathless love of a good woman helped him fight back to manhood again. Manning's story (the name is disguised) appears in True Story Magazine for May. It is entitled "Dope." What happened to him might happen to anyone. Your own husband or wife, daughter or son could, through ignorance or innocence, easily fall a victim to this greatest curse to humanity. Don't miss William Manning's startling confession. Your newsdealer has the May issue. Get your copy today.

Other Unusual Narratives in May True Story

"The Fortune Teller's Daughter"—Although she was a girl of the finest ideals, she fled to a nearby city where at last she found love—but the price was dishonor. But when the other woman—her dearest friend—threatened the sanctity of her home—what she did and its unexpected outcome makes a pathetic and instructive story that every woman—married or unmarried—should read. "When Men Betray"—When a married woman is discontented, danger is not far behind. Had Ruth known more about life, she would not have been blinded to the certain tragedy that awaited her when she decided to leave her home and husband for the doubtful riches, love and happiness offered by her new and impetuous lover. Read what happened to her as a result of her decision. One of the frankest, most powerful narratives ever printed in True Story Magazine. Other Stories in the May Issue Are: "First That Die," "Who Was Her Mother?"
