METHODISTS OF SALEM WELCOME PASTOR TO CITY

Rev. Fred C. Taylor, new pastor of the First Methodist church of Salem, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon and was greeted at an informal reception given at the church hour at the Methodist church last night. He left Sioux City, Monday, on the Union Pacific line, his wife and four children accompanying him.

Rev. Mr. Taylor was highly enthusiastic about his new place of residence in this morning. "I've never seen a city that compares with Salem," he said. "I don't know of another city anywhere that has streets like these. Whoever laid out the city must have had a vision."

The new minister comes from the pastorate of a church located on the campus of Morningside college, an institution of 700 students. He belongs to the Masonic lodge.

The present trip west is the first for Mr. Taylor, he previously knowing Oregon only by reputation for its wonderful climate, its beautiful scenery and its productive soil, he says.

He will preach his first sermon in Salem, Sunday morning.

The family was entertained at the home of O. E. Price last night and will move into the Methodist parsonage next to the church on State street in a few days. They expect their goods to arrive early next week. There are two sons and two daughters in the family. Wayne Taylor will enter Willamette university as a freshman. William, the youngest child, is in the lower grades. Lois will be enrolled in junior high school, and Hortense is in the upper grades.

Eight new columns have been erected, and it is expected that the tank will be completely finished by the last of next month. It will practically double the total capacity at the plant. The total cost will be approximately $15,000. The new tank has been made necessary by the increased demand, officials of the company state.

HARVARD LOOKS FOR FIRST REAL CREW IN YEARS

(Cambridge, Mass., April 17.—) (By Associated Press.)—For the first time in several years, Harvard's prospects for a winning varsity crew appears promising this spring.

Away to a good start with mild weather, which has permitted rowing a month earlier than usual, the crew has attained advanced condition and form.

There is as much power in the first varsity boat as last year at the same time, the stroke is longer, the rowing smoother and the men work better together. Coaches praise the mental attitude of the crew.

So far only a slow stroke has been used, never surpassing 24 to the minute and remaining for the most part at 20. The order in practice has been: Stroke, Winthrop; 7, Levitt; 6, Hubbard; 5, Johnson; 4, Darlington; 3, Platt; 2, Lund; how, Captain Kelley, and coxswain, Heard.

Winthrop, Johnson and Kelley rowed in last year's varsity.

Darlington, Hubbard and Heard were with the 1924 second crew.

The first of these two, with Leavitt, rowed with the champion class crew before they were promoted. Ladd, ineligible for the 1924 freshman crew, was recognized as a strong oarsman. Platt captained last year's freshman shell.

A second and third varsity are also on the water with experienced oarsmen.

Johnson at No. 5 is rated by many observers as the best oarsman in the varsity shell. Captain Kelley is the only member of the crew who has been a regular for three years and is smooth, skilled and strong enough to stand the four-mile grind with Yale. He also has proved a good leader.

SALEM MAY PLAY AMITY NINE HERE

If the weather permits, the Salem high school will meet the Amity baseball nine tomorrow afternoon on the Oxford park grounds at 2:30, according to an announcement by Dennis Heenan, athletic manager. The high school was originally scheduled to open their baseball season last Saturday but weather has caused the postponement of two games so far and looks doubtful at the present time.

Announcement was also made yesterday afternoon that the Chemawa game which has been delayed twice on account of rain has been moved up and will be played on Wednesday afternoon.

The locals are working hard for their opening game and will present a strong combination. Not much is known as to the strength of the Amity team but according to word from there they have a formidable aggregation and will give the red and black a hard run.

LIONS ARE TOLD MILL HERE SURE

"There is every indication that the new linen mill project will go across," said R. O. Snelling, prominent Salem business man, in an address before the Salem Lions club this noon. "We find the farmers especially to be very enthusiastic. They will be able to get twice as much for a crop of flax as for a crop of wheat, oats or similar crop."

Snelling traced briefly the history of the flax industry, stating that the center of the industry at the present time in Belfast, Ireland. In the past thousand years Belfast has grown into a city of 600,000, due almost entirely to its linen industry. "We will hope that it will not take Salem quite that long to come into her own," said Snelling.

He stated that at the outset the new mill will produce common, staple goods, and that the maximum output will range around $750,000 a year.

AGGIE BAND DUE IN SALEM TODAY; PLAY SATURDAY

The Oregon Agricultural college cadet band, which is to give a concert and dance here Saturday night for the Associated Charities, will arrive here this afternoon and parade on the streets for a short time. Led by Alfred Serpa, experienced drum major of the Selots band of Fresno, Cal., the band is said to present a credible showing while on the march.

Captain H. L. Beard, director of the band for 20 years, has selected a program which contains both light and heavy selections that is well adapted to every audience. The program contains some features that tend to add life to the concert. Captain Beard's version of the popular ditty "It Aint Gonna Rain No Mo'" was well received in every town in which it was presented on the spring tour.

Guy Craig, baritone and member of the band, gives a solo accompanied by the band. Mr. Craig is considered one of the best singers on the college campus and will please the audience with his splendid voice.

The program to be presented here is:

The victors, march, Elbel Egmont, overture, Beethoven Song of India, feature, Rimsky-Korsakov.

The World is Waiting for the Sunrise, Lockhart, sung by Guy Craig.

The charge under which he was arrested is under a new statute which provides a penalty of $1000 fine and six months in jail.

Tobin and Courter are both about 24 years old. Tobin left his employment at the hospital last Tuesday without notifying any of the authorities, but returned today to get his pay. While he has not admitted the story as told by Courter he has given other information that tends to confirm the story. Courter was committed from both county for attacking girls and is said to be dangerous when at large.

WONDER DOG IS PROUD DAD OF FIFTEEN PUPPIES

It was while he lived in Silverton that the dog, becoming lost from his owner while on an automobile tour of the east, at Wolcott, Indiana, and made the trip, unassisted and indirection, to his Silverton home. Arriving at Silverton, Bobby immediately became the hero of his town.

He was featured at various parties of the state, honors were heaped upon him from a number of sources. The Portland realty board presented him with a modern, up to date bungalow, which was set up in the front yard of the Blazier home on north Commercial street. No announcement has been made as to whether or not Bobby will attempt to bring up his entire family in his present home.
