Five corporations directed by Charles M. Schwab, multi-millionaire New Yorker, including the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, have been sued by the United States for approximately $12,500,000, alleged overcharges on war contracts awarded while Schwab was with the U. S. Fleet Corporation. James E. Walters, Boston's "Lone Wolf Bandit," has begun serving a life term for burglarizing a house while armed. Jackie Coogan, boy film star, having reached the ripe old age of eleven, will soon subside into the obscurity of the little red schoolhouse, according to his Chicago representative, Prince Henry, who virtually represents King George of England during his father's vacation in the Mediterranean, narrowly escaped serious injury during a hunt near West Grinstead when his mount collided with another horse and he was thrown. The horse had to be killed. The Prince was uninjured, though badly shaken up.

YAKIMA PLANS BIG FRUIT YEAR

The Yakima valley is getting ready for the coming fruit season on a scale never before attempted in its history, according to Ed Fieth, local fruit buyer, who has just returned from the Yakima country. "The underlying keynote of what they are doing in Yakima is optimism," declares Fieth. "Because of the optimism prevailing over the possibilities of the fruit year just coming up, every department of fruit development up there is working at high speed. There never has been such a spray program put on as this year. Spruagle jets have been bought by the thousands and thousands and thousands and tons of berries ettes put into the orchards. At the least indication of frost, or possibility of it, the smudge pots are kept going. They surely are looking for a money making year in Yakima and exerting every preparation for it."

WOOL PRICES ON DOWNWARD MOVE

Boston, Apr. 24—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say: "Trading has been confined with in very narrow limits and the tendency of prices has been steadily downward. Sales for the most part have been forced and prices have suffered in consequence. Quotations are exceedingly difficult to make. Nor does the goods market yet give any encouragement worthy of note to the situation. "In the west some buying is reported in Idaho at 29 1/2 cents to 42 cents, this including prices at Mountain Home for mixed clips. In Nevada 39 cents has been paid for fairly fine wool shrinking 65 per cent in the bright wool states, several dealers have quit paying 40 cents." The Bulletin will publish the following wool quotations tomorrow: Oregon, eastern No. 1 staple $1.30; fine and fine medium combing $1.30; eastern cloth $1.15-1.20; valley No. 1, $1.20-1.25; Mohair, best combing 80-85c; best carding 70-75c.

WOOL TRADE NOT REJOICING OVER OPENING SALES

Portland, April 24—Wool trading has been disappointing to both growers and dealers so far this season. Much had been expected of the opening wool sales in Idaho yesterday but they were light in volume and prices were lower than growers had anticipated. The wool season in Idaho opened with sealed bid sales at Mountain Home yesterday. The sale had been well advertised and was attended by buyers from all over the northwest, but offers were low and several clips were withdrawn. Only two clips were sold and at prices ranging from 4 1/2 cents to 4 3/4 cents for fine grade wool. One clip totaling 60,000 pounds brought 4 1/2 cents and the other clip, amounting to 70,000 pounds went at 4 3/4 cents. Approximately 130,000 pounds in the pool were withdrawn. Several sales were made outside of the pool, the largest being 100,000 pounds bought in by the Portland Woolen mills at a price averaging around 4 1/2 cents. One lot of 15,000 fleeces was purchased by the N. L. Holbrook Wool company at 4 1/2 cents. Shearing continues in eastern Oregon but as yet not enough business has been transacted to establish definite prices. Another sealed bid sale will be held at Mountain Home on April 29th.

OREGON JONES IS RETURNED TO PENITENTIARY

(Continued from page 35) my wet clothes I went on to Albany, stayed there all day and that night stole a Cadillac coach and drove south. About three miles out of Albany I saw a red hunter signalling me to stop. I thought it was the posse, so I left the car. This supposition was confirmed, for the last I saw of the car the posse was shooting at it. "I back tracked toward Albany, and not far out of Albany caught a freight train which I rode to Eugene. Out of Eugene I at once caught another freight, No. 13, which took me to Merlin." Denies Leaving Note Clothing found in a field not far from Jefferson, and which officers always believed had been discarded by Jones, he said today was not his. A jumper found in a small water sprinkler he said was his. He denied leaving a note in a tobacco can in southern Oregon, and also denied that letters received by Neil Malarky of Portland, purporting to come from him were written by him. He said it was true that he wrote a letter from Buffalo, N. Y., to Chapel Guard Fisher, and said he left his finger prints on the letter so his signature could be confirmed. Prison authorities never doubted that this came from Jones. He also admitted having written a post card from Boston to his brother, Dewey Jones, who is also an inmate of the penitentiary. This was signed by the name Fred Hess. Jones told of his wanderings through the southern and middle west states and as far north as Maine. He claims to have been a passenger on a ship out of New York for Cuba on December 23 last. Bought Detective Off Jones was twice arrested, he claims, once at Grand Island, Nebraska, and again in Cleveland. His identity wasn't suspected at Grand Island and he was held only a short time. But in Cleveland, Jones claims he stole $340 in money and a diamond pin that was insured for $390. A detective recognized him as Oregon Jones, so Jones gave the detective the diamond and the money to turn him loose. Jones acquired this loot, he said, while working as a truck driver for firm of interior decorators. He had taken workmen and tools to a wealthy home where the man and woman who owned the home were all drunk. The diamond pin lay on a shelf. The husband told his wife to put it away before someone stole it. "She tossed it into a vase," said Jones. "After a while I went back and managed to be the last of the workmen to leave the house. I rifled the vase and got the diamond. The money and a string of beads. The beads didn't amount to much." In Cleveland Jones claims to have married and that a child was born to him and his wife. His wife, he says, does not know where he is and didn't know that he was wanted. He said he wanted someone to write her all about it. Jones claims he was on his way back to Cleveland when he was arrested at Sacramento.
