

BUITER AND EGG MARKET WEAKER PRODUCE STEADY

Portland, April 25.—Trading in the local produce markets showed a mixed sentiment in values at the close of the week. Generally supplies were plentiful and values on an easier trend.

Butter products held generally steady throughout the week although butter and eggs are weaker today. Large storage holdings of eggs have caused local dealers to feel that prices are too high for safety with shipments increasing with the milder weather.

Cheese butter is more plentiful due to country arrivals and bids on the exchange are working lower. Print butter continues steady and unchanged.

At the close extras were posted at 40 1/2 cents, standard a half cent lower at 40 cents; prime firsts at 40 and firsts at 39. Print prices, creamery butts are quoted at 43 cents with cartons at 44 cents. Butterfat bids are unchanged at 42 cents delivered Portland.

First grade eggs were a cent higher at the close at 30 cents with extras steady at 31 cents on the exchange.

Demand for live poultry was less keen this week although receipts continue only fair. Broilers are selling slow at a 40 cent top with several sales made around 38 cents. Light hens rule at 22 cents and heavier at 24 cents.

Country dressed meats are lower than a week ago. Choice light calves are down to 14 1/2 cents with good veal going at 14 cents in many instances. Choice hogs, too, were weaker with 17 1/2 cents the extreme top.

In the fruit and vegetable lists, asparagus occupied the limelight during the past week with supplies falling off and prices climbing on account of the unfavorable growing weather. At one time local grass reached $2.75 a dozen, but closed today around $2 to $2.25.

Old potatoes also climbed during the week, on account of the clean up of the 1924 crop. Best Burbanks have jumped to $2.50 with very little fancy stuff available in the country under $2 or $2.10. On the other hand, arrivals of new potatoes were heavy this week and prices tumbled from the 32 cent level down to 6 cents a pound.

Best grade of old onions are selling at $1.50 on Sherwood stock an advance of 50 to 75 cents during the week. Nothing can be bought under $1.50 in the country. Lettuce, rhubarb, beans, peas, cauliflower and spinach worked lower during the week.

SMUDGE POTTS IN ROGUE DISTRICT BATTLE FROST

Medford, Ore., April 25.—Smudging was general in the Rogue river valley early today for the second time this season, when the mercury reached 31 in Medford and 29 on the floor of the valley. According to County Agent C. C. Cote, the smudging was more of a precaution than fear of serious injury and in his opinion, no material damage was suffered even by those orchardists who did not light their smudge pots. The rains are now sufficiently mature to resist a lower temperature than was here a month ago when the first general smudging was done.

Medford, Ore., April 25.—The minimum temperature this morning was 22 above zero according to the government weather observer. This is the lowest point reached in several weeks although it is more than a week since the minimum registered below 1 to go below the freezing point.

Eugene, Ore., April 25.—Eugene shivered through the night while the temperature stood at 23 degrees above zero, a scant one degree above the freezing point. Today, however, the sun came up bright and things warmed up a bit.

Mrs. John R. Sites was hostess at an extremely attractive affair yesterday when she entertained her bridge club at a Chinese luncheon in her home followed by an afternoon of bridge. The rooms were lovely with narcissi, lilacs and tulips.

A unique effect was secured in the dining room where the lunchroom table was laid. Tall purple lilies and old rose tulips were combined with spirea in a large Chinese bowl of bronze. Marking each place was a tiny carriage made of many colored gum drops. Fragile Chinese novelties were used about and Chinese incense furnished an additional touch.

CELERY MARKET OUTLOOK BRIGHT BROKES ASSERTS

Brooks April 25.—C. H. Winslow, president of the C. H. Robinson Co., who has the largest stock of celery in the country, asserts that the outlook for the coming season is bright.

In the afternoon Mr. Jones accompanied Mr. Winslow to look over the celery and onion ground on Lake Lishish. He was very optimistic over the conditions prevailing, also stating that the outlook in the west where a greater part of the celery raised in the United States is produced, is very favorable for excellent marketing results. Last year about ten cases moved into Chicago, which is unusual, as local competition is so keen.

While climbing down from the fighting at the Crown house, J. C. Peckner fell a short distance hurting his side where had been a recent injury, and also cracked one of the bones of his left arm.

BUFFALO, COCOANUT MILK FOR CHILDREN

Honolulu.—Investigation of the properties of the pulp of young cocoanuts has developed that they contain all the constituents of human mothers' milk, and perhaps may be used in the tropics to take the place of mothers' milk, according to statements made before the Pan-Pacific Science Council here by Dr. N. P. Larsen of the Queen's Hospital, Honolulu. It developed during the meeting that several Hawaiians present
