GOLD BASIS IS RESTORED BY ENGLAND

visions, he said the Bank of England would be obligated to sell gold bullion, in amounts not less than 400 fine ounces in exchange for legal tender at a fixed price of 3 pounds sterling, 17s. 10 1/2d. per standard ounce.

The accumulated gold reserve was 153,000,000 pounds sterling, part of which was in dollars, to the amount of $165,000,000, the chancellor announced. This dollar reserve he said, would be required for the June and December American debt funding.

The interest on the British national debt, Churchill announced, has been reduced since 1920 by more than $70,000,000 pounds sterling. It was most important, he said, that the policy of debt repayment should continue.

The national debtweight charge of the debt had decreased from 7,680,000,000 pounds sterling, he said, he proposed to raise the sinking fund to the statutory limit.

The total expenditure of the budget, Churchill estimated at 799,400,000 pounds sterling, which is 9,400,000 pounds sterling more than last year's budget provided. This, the chancellor termed as a "very disappointing result."

Churchill estimated the revenue for the current year upon the existing basis of taxation at $26,000,000 sterling. He estimated there would be a surplus of 25,000,000 pounds sterling on the present basis of taxation.

While counting upon 9,500,000 pounds sterling from German reparations, Churchill said he was not budgeting any repayments of allied debts to England, which, he said, if they should be made, would come as "additional relief."
