JASPER LUPER, 93, OLDEST MAN IN DALLAS, DEAD

Dallas, Or., April 29.—Jasper C. Luper, the oldest man in Dallas, died at his home in this city Tuesday, aged 93 years. Mr. Luper was born in Allegheny county, Pennsylvania, March 23, 1832, and at the age of 20 enlisted in the Union army, serving for three years with the 29th Illinois infantry.

Mr. Luper saw active service in some of the most actions of the Civil war, including the battle of Gettysburg. Later he was with Sherman on his famous march to the sea. He fondly told of that arduous campaign when the men marched till exhausted and laid down to rest on their thin blankets in mud and slush with no protection from the storm.

Mr. Luper brought his family to Oregon 61 years ago, settling in Linn county, near Albany. He farmed in that section for a number of years. At the age of 79, possessed of remarkably robust health, he got the pioneering fever and went into the wilds of Harney county and took up a settler's homestead, remaining there until he received title to the grant. For the past 19 years he has resided in Dallas and during most of that time has been able to be about, retaining his mental faculties well. His final illness was of short duration.

Mr. Luper was married at Monmouth, Ill., on September 12, 1867, to Catherine Cornell. Mrs. Luper and four of their seven children survive him. The children are: Orlando Luper of Crane, John Luper of Hay, Wash., Mrs. May Cheney of Condon and Mrs. Ora Ewell of Dallas.

Funeral services were held from members of the family who have not yet arrived in Dallas.

Wild Animals Learn to Like Tricks Says Circus Trainer

Do wild animals like to do tricks? That's a question that is often asked Al G. Barnes and his trainer. Let Miss Ruth Wolff, who will be seen in one of the three steel girded arenas of the Al G. Barnes big four-ring circus, when the big show comes to Salem, Thursday, May 7, answer the question in her own way.

"Wild animals mostly dislike to learn at first. They're exactly like little children. But when they find that no harm is meant, that each lesson is given in kindness, with tid-bit rewards for each proper advance, they begin to exhibit interest. Soon they do their work with zeal. In fact, the happiest hour of the day for my pumas, next to feeding time, of course, is that in which they exhibit their higher education to the crowds in the stands.

"Pumas, especially, are peculiarly susceptible to domestication, when taken young. You have only to watch them dash from the cages into the arena, if you have any doubts. They love to exercise, the change, the excitement and the music. That's where they are better off than the zoo animals. They have a real interest in their work and work is a blessing, isn't it?"

These pumas are only a part of the 200 wild animals with the Al G. Barnes circus this year. The circus also includes a cast of 1030 people and 559 horses. The opening, sensational feature in the big program this year is "Pocahontas at the Court of Queen Anne," including in the cast three tribes of Indians, Washoes, Escondidoes and Apaches.

And last, but not least, you will see the greatest movie star of them all—Joe Martin, himself!
