Youth's Ambition Fatal

Powder, Mont., May 5.—Fifteen-year-old Max Epstein's ambition to become a great "teetotal chaser" cost him his life yesterday, when his mount fell upon him after falling to negotiate an irrigation ditch. The horse fell backwards and was killed, pinning the boy underneath. Unable to free himself, Max lay for 15 hours under the dead horse, and died soon after he was rescued.

VETERINARIANS DISCUSS DAIRY HERD LAW PLANS

Veterinarians of the county held practically an all day session here yesterday behind closed doors, trying to throw out some sort of a satisfactory division of the county so that all of them may participate in the tubercular tests of dairy cattle to be realized when the new county herd inspection law goes into effect on May 25.

The law provides for the appointment of an inspector and as many deputies as necessary. The county court hit on the plan of dividing the county into districts and assigning a district to each veterinarian so that all of the veterinarians coming under the qualifications required by the act would assist in its enforcement and consequently speed up the inspection required each year.

The court put the matter up to the veterinarians, but the doors on them and told them to go to it and divide up the county on equitable bases satisfactory to all of them. The effort was not successful with yesterday's meeting and as a result another meeting will be held here Thursday to finally decide the matter. It is understood if the veterinarians cannot reach an agreement among themselves, the court will make an arbitrary division of the county, assign the districts to the various veterinarians and if any refuse to act, redistrict the county to fit the number that will.

YAKIMA TO HAVE BIG FRUIT YEAR

The Yakima valley fruit crop for 1925 will aggregate 21,375 car loads, according to the annual estimate of H. A. Glen of the Northern Pacific railway, just 1440 cars less than the record of 1924, and exceeding the 1924 crop by 3151 cars.

According to this estimate the apple crop will amount to 15,000 cars, which is 500 cars below 1924. This is because of the removal of many apple trees, and substitution of new varieties in new plantings. The peach crop is estimated at 1,500 cars, a record in that fruit for the valley. Prunes and plums are estimated at 200 cars, cherries at 175 cars, peaches at 300 cars.

CITY PAVING JOBS PUZZLE

access to the street all the property on that side of the street.

Another problem is the proposed improvement of Perry street from 15th to 19th. This plan has been ordered paved and plans and specifications adopted, and the cost is estimated at $10,248.66. On the south side of the street the abutting property is good residence property and can be assessed for the improvement. But on the north side is the mill race which has undermined into the street. The race is between the property and the street so there is no frontage on the north side. A remonstrance was filed against the improvement, but it was filed too late to be effective. Some of the council members fear that if the pavement is laid the property owners on the north side across the mill race will allow the city to take their property rather than pay an assessment for the improvement.

NURSING SERVICE OF CHILD HEALTH WORK IN EFFECT TODAY

era or on California educational institutions. This is not only more costly, but the nurse so trained lacks the understanding of Oregon problems. In consequence we have made this affiliation with the school of public health and nursing of the state university. Miss Thompson has been appointed by the university as director of this course here. The practical field work of these nurses will be carried out in Marion county.

This will give Marion county a dual opportunity—the services of an excellent group of women, and becoming a training center to meet a definite need in the whole northwest." Before nurses begin their work here they will have completed their course at the university as well as three years of nursing in a hospital, according to Dr. Brown.

Miss Thompson was western representative at San Francisco of the American child health association, of which Herbert Hoover is president. She has had a wide experience in the public health field. She has been with the University of Oregon for two years as assistant director of the school of social work at Portland. She is well known nationally in the nursing field, and is a member of the executive committee of the national organization of public health nursing.

USES THREE VARIETIES OF POLLENIZING TREES

In the cherry orchard of Martin Olsen in the Yakima valley three varieties of pollenizer are being used Black Republican, Governor Wood, Mazzard Seedling. These are being used both as grafts and as separate trees set among the sweet varieties. The reason given by Olsen for using several varieties is that they are not uniform in their blooming time as compared to the sweet cherries, and also that one variety may bloom, and another carry only light bloom. With three varieties he believes he is insuring sufficient pollination.

County Horticultural Inspector Van Trump has received from C. A. Park, president of the state board of horticulture, a new quarantine order issued from California against shipment of Oregon and Washington potatoes to California during certain periods of the year without certification and inspection.

The quarantine order states that it is issued to protect California from the Colorado potato beetle, said to have been found in some parts of eastern Oregon.

JARDINE WILL RIDE BRONC TO SATISFY DARE

as many bronches as you can lead before him," said F. M. Russell, assistant secretary of agriculture, in a letter to John M. Stephens, superintendent of the United States northern great plains field station here.

"Bill" and John Stephens were both born at Malad City, Idaho, and grew up together. Both punched cows as youngsters and both developed reputations as "mean hombres" with an "outlaw." Then "Bill" went over into western Montana and punched cows for four years. Both gravitated into the scientific side of agriculture, and Stephens, prior to entering the government service, served as assistant to Jardine when the latter was head of the Idaho Agricultural department.

When Stephens was in Washington recently he had a talk with Jardine and the new secretary of agriculture who informed him of his intended tour through the west and his intention to visit the government farm at Mandan.

"Better come up at the time of the Mandan round-up, and I'll get you a young broncho to ride," suggested Stephens.

"I will if I can make it," returned Jardine. "I'll let you know."

"But you can't stick on an outlaw," bet you pull leather," dared Stephens.

"Bet I can ride 'em straight up," was Jardine's response.

Today Mr. Stephens made public a letter from Mr. Russell, saying in part:

"The plan for Mr. Jardine's trip is originally outlined, and he will call for his being in Mandan until a little later than July 2, 3, and 4 (round-up dates). However, I have made some changes and I believe there is every reason to believe he will be there at that time. The secretary has expressed a very keen desire to be there at that time and will be ready to ride as many bronches as you can lead before him."

"We'll try to accommodate him," said L. H. Connolly, general chairman of the citizens' committee, which stages the rodeo annually.
