FOURTH ANNUAL SCHOOL FAIR AT WOODBURN HELD

Woodburn, Or., May 7.—The Woodburn schools held their fourth annual fair on Friday, May 1, in the high school gymnasium. Exhibits of art work and composition for all grades were displayed as well as a wide variety of special departmental work.

School superintendent, M. A. Schreiber, of the agricultural department of the high school, and his committee had allotted floor and wall space to all grades and departments in proportion to their needs. The fair shop was a world of useful farm articles as well as many very attractive and workman-like library tables, bookcases, flower stands, chairs, pedestals, footstools, etc., in the shop where they were made. The "live-stock," such as chickens, pigs, goats, had their quarters in the auto sheds. These were shown by boys who have projects.

Especially interesting in the main exhibit hall was the home economics corner, where an attractive array of colorful school frocks in gingham, linen, flannels and modish dresses of voles and silks, beautifully designed and exquisitely finished, showed the excellence of the work done in that department. Blouses, lingerie and embroidered luncheon sets also had a share in this exhibit. The neatly appointed luncheon table in an adjacent booth with its centerpiece a tiny May pole with ribbons of green, orchid and pink, surrounded by twenty-four tiny centers in harmonizing color elicited many exclamations of pleased approval, as did the appetizing as well as scientific exhibit of school luncheons and an invalid's breakfast.

The commercial department with its succession of demonstrations in typing, contests, stencil cutting, mimeographing and the use of the mimeoscope and adding machine, was also a center of interest. An electrical display by the boys of the physics class was another attraction, while many visitors expressed pleasure over the Shakespearean stage, the attractive freshman autobiographies and the anthology of senior poetry. Appropriate posters decorated the wall above this exhibit.

The work of the boys' and girls' clubs in the West Side grade school was eagerly sought out by many visitors who were interested in the display of needlework by the sewing club, under the leadership of Miss May Scollard, and in the cakes and bread made by members of the cooking club at which Miss Agnes Dufette is leader.

For excellence in this work, ribbons were awarded, the judges being Mrs. J. J. Hall, Mrs. Henry Layman and Mrs. Osmar K. Wolf. In cake baking, LaVerne Schooner received the blue ribbon, Warner Guis the red ribbon and Irvine Christensen the white ribbon; in bread making, Ursula Moshberger of the fourth grade won first place, Ladrow Moshberger won second and Mildred Taylor the third. Inex Elliott, Myrtle Iverson and Mable Halverson of class B, Evelyn Terhune, Marcile Love and Virginia Williams of class A won first, second and third prizes, respectively, in a sewing problem consisting of making a napkin case, a towel and a hot dish holder, while the successful contestants for excellence in apron making were Myrtle Iverson, Dorothy Yoder and Inez Elliott for girls over ten years of age and Evelyn Terhune, Marcile Love and May Strife for girls over ten.

Not only did the special work in posters, poetry, painting, cut work merit high praise but even more meritorious was the exhibit of the accumulation of daily work.

As a whole the fair was a revelation to the patron of the excellent opportunity offered to Woodburn school children and the effectiveness of the instruction received.

The north Marion county track meet with events was conducted on the athletic field from 12:30 to 5:30 p. m. and the oratorical contest was held in the high school auditorium at 2:30 o'clock. The judges for this contest were Y. M. C. A. Secretary Kimber and the Misses Ross and Mulkey of the public speaking department of Williamson University. The results were as follows:

Division C, fourth, fifth and sixth grades—First, Donald Garrett of Aurora; second, Harold Olson of Woodburn.

Division B, seventh and eighth grades—First, Joe Cutsforth of Gervais; second, Wilma Dick of Hubbard.

Division A, high school orations—First, Fern Wadsworth of Gervais; second, Fern Tweedie of Woodburn.

In the evening at 6:30 o'clock, the May queens were crowned and seated on flower embroidered thrones erected on the front campus at the high school. For years this event has taken place in the gymnasium but as the building has always been packed to suffocation and many turned away, it was decided to make an outdoor festival of it and for the first time the three schools united in a triple fête, Queen Opal Smith being crowned for the high school, Queen Opal Haszenyager for the West Side school and Queen Elvira Terhune for the East Side grade school. After the crowning and presentation of the queens, Miss Claire Cornell in a costume of black and gold gave a clever "clown dance," and then the three kingly simulated May poles were wound simultaneously. The professional and recreational "Hall of
