REGENTS SAY SAVING AIM OF SHAKE UP

later proved was too high, as some of the paving projects will not be undertaken for the present and the original estimate of the number of new instructors to be required has been reduced by half.

Fees Are Raised
"In the extension division a saving of $19,000 a year was made. This was made possible by reducing the budget below former allowances but permitting the extension division at the same time to raise fees and thus increase earnings. By abolishing the position of university field worker, carried in the extension division budget, a salary item of $2000 yearly was saved.

"A saving of $4,000 was made in staff salaries by readjustments of faculty positions, some departmental economies and by drastic curtailment of work in drama and speech arts. By action of the board of regents, a saving of $6000 a year was made in this work, largely in salaries, through failure to re-appoint Professor Ferguson Reddie and other staff members in this department.

"It was originally estimated that to fill vacancies for next year to make necessary salary advancements, $25,000 would be required next year. The sum was cut to $13,000, a net saving of $12,000.

Three men were lost to the department of philosophy. Dr. Ernest S. Bates, Kerby Miller and Fritz Marti. Mr. Marti asked last winter to be released, his resignation to take effect next fall. Dr. Bates and Mr. Miller were not reappointed. In place of the three men, the board authorized the appointment of two new teachers to fill the vacancies.

"A saving of $5000 was made in the original estimate of the outlay for a site for a student union building.

"The university officials expect to make a saving on the summer session of next year, a student fees were raised from $12.50 to $15.

"A saving of $2500 was also reported in equipment of the new science building.

"Other expenses, which it was believed would have to be budgeted this year, were put over until next year."

MRS. RAHN SINGS VARIED CONCERT

Mrs. Arthur J. Rahn, mezzo-soprano, appeared in concert at the Oregon theater this morning before an audience of three hundred Salem, Albany, Corvallis and Portland people. The program given covered a wide field, ranging from an aria from "The Messiah" to negro spirituals and Samoan love songs.

Always a favorite with Salem and other valley town audiences, Mrs. Rahn won more laurels in her concert this morning. There is a vivacity and a freshness about her voice and her interpretation that is always pleasing. Seven Chinese Mother Goose rhymes were particularly well received, as were the Samoan group—"Under My Heart I Carried You," and "The Road of the Loving Heart." The program opened with Glorinda's "Cari Mio Ben," and Handel's "And He Shall Freed His People." There were four other groups with Curran's popular "Rain," a Russian number, "Slow, Slow, Slow," and Curran's "Down," the outstanding offerings. As a last encore Mrs. Rahn gave Katie Mae's "Floral Dance," Paul Petri, formerly of Salem, and now a member of the music faculty at Oregon Agricultural college, played Mrs. Rahn's accompaniments.

PROVISIONS OF NEW SCHOOL LAW CITED

County Superintendent Fulkerson calls attention to clerks and directors of school districts of the first class to new provisions in the budget law passed by the last legislature. The new law exempts districts of that class from operations of the local budget law due to the fact that many of these districts are so sparsely populated it is impossible to comply with all of the provisions of the act.

Under the new law districts of the third class are to prepare notices of the school meeting and budget, to post the budget for a period of 10 days in three conspicuous places in the district, one of which is to be the door of the school building, and if a newspaper is published in the district to publish the budget for at least two weeks before the meeting.

ADVERTISING AS PROGRESS AIDE IS EMPHASIZED

Houston, Texas, May 11.—(A. P.)—Advertising as a means to world progress, the theme before the Associated Advertising clubs of the World at its convention, was struck here and there by speakers at today's sessions.

Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, developed it in an address on the influence of advertising in distribution; L. W. Baldwin, president of the Missouri Pacific railroad, touched upon it in a discussion of advertising and public opinion; Renck W. Dunlap, assistant secretary of agriculture, brought in the farmer as the cornerstone in the world's physical well being and H. W. Wayne, director of important London, England, firms, pleaded for truth in international publicity.

The keynote of the theme had been developed at a previous meeting by Charles Aubrey Eaton, representative in congress from New Jersey.

"Hereby we are selling things of a material kind," he told the convention, "we must also sell the imperishable things of the spirit. Thus only can the art of advertising continue to be the hand maiden of human progress, leading the weary feet of all nations from along convergent paths until by and by we shall reach the sunlight kingdom of human understanding, complete cooperation, friendship and peace which will mean the dawning of the kingdom of God upon earth."

"Today with an association of advertising clubs of the world functioning with unceasing efficiency may we not hope that advertising will become more and more a mighty instrument of international understanding and good will."

bover constantly over all the important street crossings along the route to keep watch for symptoms of disturbances.

Police tugs were to ply to and fro on the Havel river near the bridge to be crossed by Von Hindenburg's auto. Forty of the capital's most experienced and reliable motorcycle police were detailed as an escort for his car. For the general safeguarding of order, the chief of police augmented the 10,000 uniformed troops (security police) with several hundred officers from the political and criminal branches. Even the police dogs were mobilized. Police trucks with reserves ready to move whole platoons to any danger point in the event of necessity.

Societies assigned to places along Hindenburg's route will be accompanied by police to prevent clashes between communists and nationalists.

At Heerstrasse, the suburban railway station, where Hindenburg is expected to arrive shortly before 6 o'clock he will be greeted by Chancellor Luther, Defense Minister Kessler, Minister of the Interior Schiele, Executive Secretary Meisner, Chancellor Secretary Kemper, General Von Seeck, Admiral Seneker, Lord Mayor Roon, chief of Police Friedberg and other officials.

Only 10 newspaper reporters will be admitted to the station, which will be closed to all traffic. Even suburban trains will not be operated, contrary to the original idea of attempting to continue these services.

Chancellor Luther's 10-year-old daughter will present a floral tribute to the president when he reaches the station. The party will then proceed on the long drive to the chancellor's palace in automobiles.
