Special interest was taken in the new Willis-Knight Six and the new Overland Six. Both are new and both put out in sedan as well as the two-door type. The all steel body of the Overland sedan attracted considerable comment. TOOZE ASSERTS HOME IS FAILING

Criticizing the tendency among students today to assume a voice in control of the schools, and declaring that the modern parent is failing in his duty toward the child's education, Fred J. Tooze, state senator from Clackamas county and managing editor of the Oregon Statesman, stated that the modern home is failing, "in an address before the Salem Rotary club at its luncheon at the Marion hotel this noon.

The subject of Tooze's address was "The Homes of Today and Yesterday." "We hear upon every hand that the American home is disintegrating, that there is danger ahead," said Mr. Tooze. "Formerly there was work for the boys and girls to do at home," he stated. "They had dishes to wash, wool to spin. Children were brought up in the wholesome atmosphere of the home. But today we find that the schools are teaching them all these things. The home has given over the prerogatives that it once had."

"One of the results of modern life is to create a period of idleness for the child—a period when he has no work to do, and the idle mind is the devil's workshop. School athletics, social life, as well as modern theaters, all add their part to the general condition."

GOVERNOR ASKS RIDE; DRIVER SPEEDS AWAY

Governor Walter Pierce, hurrying down Ferry street on his way to catch a train at 5:25 yesterday afternoon, hailed the driver of a delivery truck between Cottage and Church streets, asking for a ride.

The driver, who was taking his truck down Ferry street at the time he was hailed, looked askance at the governor, turned to the right at the corner, going north on Church street and even turning to the right again at the next corner, going east on State street, leaving the governor to make his way as best he could to catch his train for Bend. The governor was later seen sitting in a rear seat of the rear car of the Oregon Electric train, mopping his brow as the train pulled out.

Chapman was teaching for the regular substitute's price of five dollars a day."

COACH PROBLEM AT HIGH SCHOOL YET UNDECIDED

The problem of paying for an athletic coach at Salem high school next year was still undecided after last night's meeting of the Salem school board. Report was made by Superintendent George Hug of the action taken by the student council of the high school student body, as reported yesterday. Despite the fact that the council had voted 7 to 4 against paying any part of the coach's salary, it was obvious that the board still has hope that this year's arrangement will be continued another season.

In the present year $650 had been paid from the student body treasury, and $450 by the school. Hollis Huntington, the coach, has two study hours at high school a day, for which theoretically he is paid the $450 by the board. The $650 paid by the students is supposed to cover his work as coach.

No definite action was taken by the board with regard to payment of the coach's salary last night, the matter being left until the next meeting. It is expected that an effort will be made to persuade the students to continue this year's arrangement. Students have stated that if the board is willing to assume full financial responsibility for building the new athletic field east of Parrish junior high school, they may be able to pay part of Huntington's salary.

The board definitely went on record as favoring the policy of allowing residents in the immediate vicinity of the McKinley school to use the sewer leading from the school building. Olinger and Simular were appointed to estimate a reasonable charge, which will be levied against house owners who use the sewer. The charge will probably be between $15 and $20 for each house. Reasons given for allowing the use of the sewer was that the community near McKinley school will have a better chance to develop in case sewer facilities are available. At present the community outside the city limits, and the line from the McKinley building has been constructed as far as the end of the city line which stops at the city border.

SENATORS PLAY HILLSBORO NEXT

The Salem Senators will meet the Hillsboro team next Sunday afternoon on the Oxford diamond. The game with the Luckenbach nine which was postponed last Sunday on account of rain will be played at a later date, probably on their next trip when they will clash in a double header.

The Hillsboro team has a strong aggregation and will come to Salem with the strongest possible lineup. Hillsboro and Luckenbach are the two teams that have not met the locals. Luckenbach is considered as the weakest team in the league but it is not known how strong they are since the signing of several new players.

Salem is still leading the league with three wins and no defeats, but the visitors will expect to scalp the locals and they are reported as having a classy lineup. "Frisco" Edwards has not selected his hurler as yet but will more than likely start Barham on the mound. Towner may be behind the bat for the visitors although Barr's hand may be in good shape by that time.

Donald Armstrong of Salem was arrested last night by Officer Smart on South Commercial street for driving his automobile while intoxicated. He was held for 24 hours before making a plea.

EARWIGS DUE TO APPEAR AGAIN

The naughty earwig may be putting in his appearance at any time now, warns County Fruit Inspector Van Trump and it behooves the gardener and housewife to keep a watchout for the enemy. Generally he does not come out until about the first of June but with the early seasons he may make his advent plan sooner than that.

Van Trump suggests that gardeners could do a world of good in watching for the earwig by keeping an eye out when the ground is being turned over. The earwig, about 50 in a brood, hovers about two inches under ground during the winter and early spring season. If the gardener turns up new earth, the nest can be wiped out with hot water.

The usual poison will be provided this year and the usual campaign made when the enemy appears.

JARDINE SAYS SPECULATORS RULE MARKET is concerned more particularly in the development of some method by which a repetition of destructive price changes may be obviated.

The secretary's purpose, a statement said, is to undertake by the exercise of such authority as is conferred upon him under the grain futures act to bring about a condition where the quotations in future trading would more accurately reflect the price incident to supply and demand.

It can be done, it was said, by appropriate action on the part of the board of trade and the promulgation of rules calculated to prevent over-speculative trading. The suggestion was advanced that a rule limiting the spread in daily quotations would have this effect.

GRADUATION AT HIGH SCHOOL IS SET FOR JUNE 13

Graduation exercises will be held this year on Saturday, June 13, if tentative action by the board is carried into effect. Decision was made to hold the exercises in the armory, and it was understood that the armory will be in use on the evening of June 12, which was the night intended for graduation exercises. Under present plans the high school seniors will sit in the audience, in front of the platform and march up in front at the time the diplomas are presented. It will be the first time in the history of the high school that the custom has been followed. Always in the past all seniors have sat on the platform. Since the class is so large this year, numbering 238, it was decided to break away from the old custom, and follow that of large high schools and colleges.

Teachers elected last night were as follows: E. E. Bergman, head of the high school machine shop under the Smith-Hughes plan, elected by recommendation of J. C. Nelson, high school principal; Lewis A. Woodworth, instructor in Latin and French; Lavern Spitzberger, instructor in physical education. These three were elected to the high school staff, the last two being new. Mr. Bergman has been connected with the school staff for a number of years. Mr. Woodworth is a graduate of the University of Chicago. He came to Salem last winter when his wife secured a position in Willamette university. In junior high school T. O. Davis was elected assistant principal of Parrish, Hazel Brewer, instructor in English and Grace Sullivan of physical education. In the grades teachers elected were Amy Martin, Mabel Curry, Ina Hubbs and Bernice Stewart. Mrs. Martin and Miss Curry have both taught in Salem previously. Miss Martin has been sick, but presented a doctor's certificate stating that she can be counted on to have good health throughout next year. Miss Curry has been studying in the east.

Garnet Barra, teacher of chemistry at high school, was saluted on a 10 month basis at a salary of $140 a month. Miss Clara Pomroy was selected as head of penmanship and spelling departments in junior high schools.

An offer was received from the owner of three lots adjacent to the Carrick school to sell the property to the school district for $12,500. No definite action was taken on the offer.

NEW AUTO LIGHTING LAW BRANDED AS GRAFT OF COMBINE

that the fourth can be answered in the negative. Patterson says he was given a chance to sell out of the way of the General Motors scheme, but he refused the offer.

The new law, which includes the "eight-point" test, provides that persons or concerns that have a lens they wish adopted must submit it to the secretary of state together with a fee of $50, the secretary of state to send the lens to the United States bureau of standards at Washington for test; or the person or firm handling the lens may send it direct to the bureau of standards, but only ostensibly a government bureau, and that in reality it is part of the General Motors company maintained at Washington to mislead the public, and that its purpose is to give approval to General Motors were exclusively.

Mr. Patterson evidently has little hope of getting his lamp past the bureau of standards. Mr. Patterson declares that the United States bureau of standards is only ostensibly a government bureau, and that in reality it is part of the General Motors company maintained at Washington to mislead the public, and that its purpose is to give approval to General Motors were exclusively.
