

WASHINGTON SCHOOL CENTER OF POPULATION

The survey of the city of Salem, made at the office of the city superintendent of schools for the purpose of determining exactly where each grade and junior high school pupil in Salem lives, was completed yesterday. Outlying districts which send pupils to Salem public schools will be mapped out within a few days. The survey has been made by request of the Salem school board for the purpose of showing in what part of the city school pupils live in the largest numbers. The survey was inspired by the fact that many persons had expressed skepticism at the statement that the Washington school was sparsely settled with children of a school age.

The survey as completed shows that the vicinity of the Washington school is one of the most thickly settled parts of the city, so far as children of grade and junior high school age is concerned.

A pin with a red head has been placed on the map for every grade school child in Salem, a pin with a yellow head for every pupil of junior high school age. The map has 44 red pins with within a radius of one block of the Washington school site.

The Washington school is located four blocks from the Garfield, which is given as a reason for not using the Washington building as a grade school.

The present plan of the school board is to build a school on the northeast corner of the athletic field located across Mill Creek from the present Washington school site. Funds will not be available in the immediate future. It is conceded, but some time it is hoped to abolish the Washington school and establish in its place a building on the spot chosen.

The present Washington school site is 11 blocks from the Yew Park and 16 blocks from the Richmond, to the south and east. It is 12 blocks from the Englewood school to the north and east. The new site is three blocks nearer the Englewood, away from the Richmond and Yew Park. The change will also increase the distance from Garfield, and bring Mill Creek between the two buildings.

For the time being, however, it is being suspected more and more strongly that the school board will have to reopen the old Washington school to take care of the increased enrollment next fall. No other course seems open at the present time.

The board also owns a tract of land at the corner of Chomeketa and 21st streets, which is planned for use as a school site in the more remote future.

RUM FLEET DWINDLES FROM 80 SHIPS TO 12

New York, May 16.—A semi-official observation cruise over the Atlantic from Narragansett pier, R. I. to Atlantic City, N. J., which ended today revealed only 12 rum carrying ships in that area, which provided anchorage for more than eighty rum vessels at the time the coast guard blockade was inaugurated May 5.

It was further indicated on the cruise which took a party of newspaper correspondents to points between 30 and 40 miles from shore that virtually no contraband liquor is being smuggled into the county from this area.

As a result of the inspection, Lieutenant Commander Stephen S. Yeandle, chief aid to Rear Admiral F. C. Billard, coast guard commandant, announced that he considered the rum blockade in this area entirely successful.

Only twelve rum carriers were seen by the newspapermen. These were anchored in widely separated berths and each vessel was closely guarded by various types of coast guard craft which literally ringed them, keeping them absolutely from the shore. Inspection of the Long Island coast revealed one or more government boats lurking in every water way that could possibly provide an entry way for the shore running boats.

STUDENTS VOTE PROTEST 'GAINST JAP EXCLUSION

The Willamette university student body yesterday passed a resolution declaring the Japanese exclusion act, recently passed by the United States congress, as "ill-advised." The resolution further declares that "mistrust seems to be rising between the youth of Japan and ourselves."

The action was taken by request of a committee representing the Christian associations and other religious organizations of the university. The committee was organized at instigation of a New York organization going by the name of "The Fellowship of Youth for Peace," whose personnel is unknown locally. Certain members of the "fellowship" communicated with members of the student body here, with the result that the committee was organized, and the resolution presented to the student body. The part of the resolution criticizing the exclusion act as ill-advised was thoroughly discussed in committee, but not insistent body meeting.

A copy of the resolution was sent to New York for use by the eastern organization. The full text of the document reads as follows:

Whereas next Monday, May 18, 1925, has been set apart as International Goodwill Day,

We, the Associated Student Body of Willamette university, Salem, Oregon, hereby declare our sympathy with the youth movement, expressing itself in the friendship of the youth of the earth, and further

We hope and trust that we may never again be called on to wage war on one another.

Further, in view of the recent Japanese Exclusion Act, an act which we deem ill-advised, mistrust seems to be rising between the youth of Japan and ourselves.

Be it further resolved, that we pledge our whole effort to the maintenance of peaceful relations between us and pledge our friendship to all Japanese youth whether in Japan or in this United States.

ACQUITTAL GIVEN TO HAMMOND

Portland, Ore., May 16.—After a few minutes' deliberation, a jury in the court of Federal Judge Bean late yesterday returned a verdict of not guilty in the case of Phillip L. Hammond, indicted on a charge of violating the bonus law act.

Hammond, prominent Oregon City attorney and member of the state legislature for the past three sessions as representative for Clackamas county, was indicted on two counts, alleging that he had collected $100 each from Joseph Mooney and Mary J. Mooney, parents of John L. Mooney, who died at Camp Fremont, Cal., for obtaining compensation from the government.

Hammond last night declared that the entire affair was but the aftermath of the political campaign in Clackamas county last fall when he was running for reelection to the legislature.

Eleven witnesses took the stand for the defense yesterday, tending to show that Hammond had performed other legal services for Mrs. Mooney and that there was a great deal of politics back of the entire case.
