Week Is One Of Varied Activities

A surprisingly active week considering the lateness of the season—that is the thought which comes to Salem matrons when they review the past week. One of the largest and most beautiful formal teas of the entire year, a "garden-at-home," numerous club meetings, scores of dinners, and informal afternoons of bridge, days on the golf course and at the country club, bridge club meetings, and a host of other affairs, have kept Salem society intensely interested during the past week.

Several hundred prominent matrons called at the Frederick W. Stensloff home on Wednesday afternoon when Mrs. W. H. Stensloff and Mrs. Frederick W. Stensloff entertained at one of the most attractive teas of the season. Mrs. William McGilchrist, Jr., gave the second of a series of bridge parties in her home when she entertained seven tables. Mrs. George A. White was hostess to two delightful affairs this week—on Wednesday and Thursday.

Mrs. Hollister McGuire of San Francisco, a sister of Mrs. R. M. Hofer and her house guest, Mrs. G. W. DeBeck of Vancouver, B. C., Mrs. T. A. Livesley's mother and her guest, and Mrs. Lloyd Farmer's guest, Mrs. J. Vincent Meherin of San Francisco, are among the out of town visitors who have been the inspiration of many delightful affairs recently.

Affairs of civic nature of primary interest to society also were the "garden-at-home" on Tuesday afternoon sponsored by the Salem Floral society in the beautiful gardens surrounding the Dr. H. J. Clements home and the "open house" held each afternoon and evening in the model home arranged by the realtors as a feature of better homes week. Each attracted scores of prominent folk.

The coming of the warmer weather promises a cessation of all affairs of a formal nature. Tennis and motor trips to the beach and the mountains will supersede all else.

Dr. and Mrs. B. L. Steeves entertained at dinner last night honoring Dr. Carl Gregg Doney, president of Willamette university, who returned recently from a year's leave of absence.
