SEEK TO END SCHOOL ROW BY COMPROMISE

Portland, Or., May 19.—While the state board of higher curricula which yesterday heard both sides of the controversy between the University of Oregon and Oregon Agricultural college on duplication of courses has the questions at issue under advisement today, members of the faculty of the two institutions are endeavoring to make adjustments. The board late yesterday adjourned to study the briefs and statements of representatives of both schools. Decision is not expected for some time, said Dr. C. J. Smith, chairman.

Differences to be decided center principally around the school of commerce and the school of journalism, it developed late yesterday for efforts are being made to settle the other issues by compromises.

Dean Colin Dyment, of the college of letters and arts of the University of Oregon, revealed that the compromise arranged between him and the dean of basic arts at Oregon Agricultural college, which will be submitted for approval of the board of higher curricula, provides that O. A. C. shall not grant degrees on the work in any of the 12 departments of the school of basic arts, and that O. A. C. agrees to restrict students to not more than 27 term hours in history, 27 in modern languages or 27 hours in English, plus nine hours freshman composition.

Dean Dyment also offered to meet Dean J. A. Rexall of the college in an effort to work out an understanding on the matter of sociology and public economy and it was indicated that a compromise might be agreed upon in the educational course.

DRIVE BEGAN FOR SALVATION ARMY BUDGET

The Salvation Army is soon to ask the public of Salem to contribute to the support of the local work. Many people judge the work of the Salvation Army by the little circle they pass on the street corner engaged in the holding of their open air service.

There is a great deal more to know about the organization than this. The Salvation Army is working in every city in the United States of 5000 population. And not only this country. But our work reaches to 89 countries and colonies. The following are its purposes; the spiritual, moral, and physical, resormation of all who need it, the reclamation of the vicious criminal, disolute and degraded, visitation among the poor and lowly, and sick, the preaching of the gospel, and the dissemination of Christian truth by means of open air and indoor meetings.

The Salvation Army is an evangelical organization with a military form of government, including a vast and diversified system of social service.

The social service work of the Salvation Army is far reaching including hospitals, nurseries, homes, charity bureaus, and a host of other activities and institutions.

We do not insist on the acceptance of a certain creed or theology or is material assistance withheld from those who hesitate or decline to accept spiritual advice or guidance. Relief is freely given whenever or where-ever the need is apparent regardless of religion, race or color.

During the year of 1924 the Salvation Army received 7 girls from Salem and county, in our White Shield Rescue and Maternity home in Portland, 1834 garments and 412 pairs of shoes were given away to needy persons, 117 lodgings were given to homeless people, 600 Xmas dinners, 311 other meals through the year. The Salvation Army relieved 641 families not including the Xmas. 139 men were given employment. There was a total of 3242 persons helped through the year. The value of relief alone was $3241.71. We ask your help to carry on this work. It costs the Salvation Army $5800 to carry on its work in Salem. $2525 is asked by campaign the other is raised by the Army through out the year independent of campaign.

The dates for the campaign have been set for May 25th and 26th.

STATE SEEKS TO ACQUIRE ISLAND

After 62 years alleged violation of its agreement with the state of Oregon the United States government will at last lose control of and profits from Sand island in the mouth of the Columbia river, if plans of the state land board are carried to success.

In 1364 Sand island was ceded to the government by the state to be used for military purposes, and this was a condition of the transfer of the island to the government. But the government never has used the island for military purposes, but instead has leased it as a fishing ground, for which it is very valuable. Now the state land board has a plan for recovering possession of the island. At a meeting a week from tomorrow the board will assume that the state owns the island and will lease it to some corporation for fishing purposes. If the government contests the state's right the corporation to which it is leased, according to an offer and agreement now made, will defend the state's position in court.

Revenues from the island from fishing leases should run about $20,000 for the remainder of this year it is said, and ordinarily will run as high as $40,000. There is a possibility that the state may endeavor to collect for the whole 62 years, which, if successful, would bring a very large sum into the state's coffers.

SLOW WORK IN SECURING JURY SHEPHERD CASE

Chicago, May 19.—(A. P.)—Efforts today to obtain a jury for the trial of William Darling Shepherd, charged with murdering his wife's millionaire ward, William Nelson McClintock, by administering typhoid germs, netted only lost ground.

Three veniremen locked up over night as jurors tentatively acceptable to both sides were eliminated this mogning and left in the jury box at the noon recess were three men whose availability had been passed upon by only the prosecution.

The prosecution expressed perturbation over the disappearance of one of its important witnesses, Robert W. White, a former employe of Charles C. Falman, the accomplice, who is to be the state's principal witness against Shepherd.

Education sufficient to comprehend technical testimony involving chemistry, bacteria and persons is required of jurors who will try William Darling Shepherd for the alleged murder with typhoid germs of his wife's ward, William Nelson McClintock, orphan millionaire.

Wanted also by the state are those not opposed to capital punishment and who would not discount circumstantial evidence nor the testimony of an accomplice. For the state's chief witness is C. C. Fatman, science school head, who confessed that he supplied typhoid germs to Shepherd and instructed him in their use for a promise of $100,000.

GRIFFITH TELLS OF LEGION DRIVE

There is little doubt in the minds of local Legionnaires that Salem will subscribe its full quota of $400 for the Legion endowment campaign within forty eight hours after the campaign opens. At a meeting of Capital Post No. 9 Monday night State Commander George Griffith gave a talk on the campaign and outlined the aim and purpose of the American Legion in creating such a fund.

Commander Griffith stated that the care and education of the orphans of veterans is a trust imposed upon the Legion when it was chartered. President Coolidge in his message to congress, December 1924, expressed his confidence in the American Legion as the chief and most representative organization of service men of the world war. There are thirty-five thousand veterans'orphans in the United States at the present time. Five thousand of them are in dire need now. The Legion employs the term "orphan" in broad sense.

SCORE INJURED IN EXPLOSION

Chicago, May 19.—A score or more of persons were reported injured, some probably fatally, when a fireworks plant at Franklin Park, a suburb, exploded today. The entire plant, owned by the Liberty Firework company, was reported to have been destroyed. The first explosion came at 4 o'clock and a series of fifty or more explosions followed.

These explosions are reported to have trapped upwards of half a hundred workers in the plant. Several farm houses nearby are also reported to have been destroyed. While houses in the village were shaken by the concussion, no one there is reported to have been hurt.

Firemen and policemen from neighboring towns and villages hurried to the scene. Telephone operators at Franklin Park reported firemen were having difficulty in rescuing entrapped victims.

WASHINGTON SCHOOL LIMITS FOR NEXT YEAR

Tentative boundaries have been formed for the Washington school district in anticipation of the necessity of reopening the school for use next fall. Even if decision is made to open the school, it is stated, the boundaries as now established may be varied a few blocks one way or another. At present the line runs as follows:

Starting at the corner of D and Summer streets, the line runs south on Summer to the corner of Summer and Court. From there it runs west on Court to Church, where it turns south again, going south on Church to Belleview. At the corner of Belleview and Church the boundary turns east running in that direction on Belleview to 17th and then north to State. It goes east on State to 20th, then north to Center, then west to A street. The line from there runs along A street to 15th and A, then north on 15th to D, then west on D to the corner of D and Summer streets.

If the school board should decide to open the building, and the boundary be fixed as planned, the district will include 324 pupils who are now attending other grade schools. Boundaries for the other districts would have to be readjusted also.

It is expected in most quarters that it will be necessary to use the Washington schol building in some way next year to relieve the congestion which will result from the natural growth of school population. Whether or not the building will be used as an ordinary grade school, or for some other purpose, will be decided at an early meeting of the board. It is not expected that the building will be used as a junior high school. The present boundary will draw pupils away from other schools as follows:

Garfield, 150; Richmond, 41; Yew Park, 83; Englewood, 56; Grant, 4.

WIFE POSED AS UNMARRIED

Arthur H. Schlect, in answering the divorce complaint of his wife, accuses her of deceiving him when they were married and representing that she was unmarried, a single woman and capable of entering into a marriage contract, when as a matter of fact, he declares they were married less than 30 days after she had been granted a divorce from Wade Palmer in Lincoln county in 1920. He alleges the divorce from Palmer was granted her on May 3, and that they were married on June 1. As a result he asserts the marriage was void.

He states that there is no community property, that he owns a farm in Washington but that it is mortgaged for nearly all it is worth and that he is now working as a logger in Lane county.

In a decree by Judge Kelly, Fred W. Lang is granted a divorce from Rose Lang, although the wife brought the suit in the first instance. The court holds that it was not proven that Lang deserted his wife or that he was guilty of cruel and inhuman treatment, but that his wife did desert Lang in June, 1920. The wife is given custody of the child and the husband required to pay $15 a month toward its support.

DRY ARMY READY TO PRESS ATTACK ON RUM RUNNERS

smuggled wet goods will soon fall below the demand.

Of the 1360 dry agents operating in known wet spots, with 200 in the Long Island district, 100 at the Canadian border and large battalions in Maryland, Pennsylvania and New Jersey, unceasing vigilance has been made the watchword of these forces from now on.

Continuation of the coast guard's blockade, Secretary Mellon believes will do much to stem the flow of liquor into this country.

Guard vessels are compiling complete information as to the character and movements of the rum ships when they leave the row and officials at likely landing points are being kept advised of their operations.

Additional steps are to be taken to prevent robberies at the warehouses which have been reduced in number from 300 to 60, all heavily guarded.

Although periodic raids are continuing against moonshiners, federal officials believe their operations are on too small a scale to be important. The moonshiners product generally, they said, is of an inferior quality and seldom reaches beyond his immediate section.

The "mountain dew" type of moonshiner, however, have proved to be the most dangerous of his kind, the majority of the 42 dry agents killed since prohibition became effective having fallen in raids on such stills.

OMAHA TO BAN PERIODICAL SALE

Omaha, Neb., May 19.—Action against the sale of "filaque" magazines to high school students was started by County Attorney Beal yesterday when he referred to federal authorities complaint of high school teachers that periodicals containing salacious stories and obscene pictures had been found in the school. The magazines in question can be obtained at almost any news stand, County Attorney Beal said, but there is no state law under which the distributors can be prosecuted.

"Such magazines, in my opinion, are doing more to break down the morals of the children than anything said," Beal said. "They are the curse of the age. They print suggestive stories which are not fit for anybody to read, let alone high achol children of tender age. If there was any way I might bring prosecutions in these cases I most certainly would do so."

MEMORIAL DAY HELD MAY 30

Some days ago someone announced that Memorial day would be observed on May 29 of this year.

As a result American Legion members have been experiencing a basket full of trouble. Every day they get inquiries in regard to the change of date.

As a matter of fact there has been no change of date.

"Might as well try to change the date for the Fourth of July as to change Memorial day from May 30," said one of them. "Old soldiers and others will visit the schools on May 29, but Memorial day observance and parade will be on May 30 as usual."

DAVEY ELECTED HEAD OF KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

Portland, May 19—At the conclusion of the business session which marked the second day of the Knights of Columbus convention in Portland yesterday, Frank Davey of Salem was elected state deputy to succeed P. J. Hanley of Portland.

John J. Dooley of Albany was named state secretary to succeed A. A. Mickel of Salem. The position of state treasurer, which has been filled during the past year by Leo J. Conlin of Baker, will be held during the coming year by Frank Ryan of Ontario. Dan J. Conan of Portland was elected state advocate and Frank Fitzpatrick of Tillamook state warden. William Eagles of Albany was named official delegate to the supreme convention which will be held in Duluth, Minn. In addition, the state deputy and the past state deputy will be delegates.

Mr. Davey, the new state deputy, has been an active worker in the organization for more than 20 years. He was speaker of the house of representatives and is now 73 years old.

It was decided to hold the annual retreat at Mount Angel college some time during August, the exact date to be selected by a committee.

As a token of appreciation from the delegates for his active service during the past three years as state deputy, P. J. Hanley, retiring officer, Portland, was presented with a fourth degree emblem, a diamond-set watch charm. William P. O'Brien of Astoria, ex-state deputy, made the presentation speech.

A dinner was given at the Hotel Portland last night, after which the entire body journeyed to Vancouver, Wash., where they joined the Washington state convention in a general meeting.

PILE OF DIRT ANGERS COUNCIL

A pile of dirt owned by Dr. B. H. White at Church and Chemeketa streets is becoming irksome to certain members of the city council, but nothing definite was done about it last night when it came up for consideration.

Alderman Patton moved that White be notified to remove the dirt within five days, and that if he did not do so the city street commissioner would be instructed to remove it and the expense charged to White. It developed, however, that a communication was on the desk of City Recorder Poulsen which had not yet been read. It was from White's attorney and stated that inasmuch as the doctor would surely begin the construction of a building at Church and Chemeketa by August 1, he would like to keep the dirt there.

"The council shouldn't be swayed by such an oily piece of literature as that," declared Patton. "I don't think he intends to build. I insist on my motion."

The more didn't carry, however, and the matter hangs as it was. The dirt is that removed from an excavation by Dr. Schenk, former owner of the property, who contemplated a building on the corner.
