

BEARCATS LOSE TO PUGET SOUND

The Willamette university baseball team was defeated 7 to 5 by the College of Puget Sound yesterday afternoon. Ellis, bear-catcher at pitcher, was unable to hold the Loggers in the final frame, after his team led by one point at the last of the eighth.

During the first part of the game C. P. S. led by 5 points. The locals succeeded in overcoming the lead, however, knocking Blewens of C. P. S. out of the pitcher's box. He was succeeded by Leek, who finished the game.

For the most part the tilt was marked by fast ball, although an occasional bobble proved disastrous. At one point Nakana was nabbed straggling in from third by the C. P. S. catcher, Nakana apparently thinking he was being forced in by a walk just handed to the batter. At another point Nakana hooked a clever steal from second to third, eating the C. P. S. twirler, dozing off.

New York, May 20.—(A. P.)—Bade Ruth, pushing aside his ill and grasping a baseball that for practice, knocked a ball into the bleachers at the Yankee stadium.

"Just tell the fans," Ruth said in parting, "that you saw me and that I'm rarin' to get in the game."

The theatrical event of the year, the most entertaining play ever staged is "So This is London," shortly to be presented at Grand theatre, Tuesday, May 26, with Lawrence D'Orsay, the original Broadway star in his inimitable characterization of Sir Percy Beauchamp. INDICTMENT FOR BABY FARMER

New York, May 20.—(A. P.)—While one jury was considering homicide evidence against her another grand jury here returned an indictment charging baby substitution against Mrs. Helene Auguste Gelsen-Volk, former German Red Cross nurse, widow of a Prussian army officer, and proprietress of an East 86th street "baby farm."

She was charged with having attempted to give William Angerer of the Bronx, a substitute baby for his son, who had been left in her care several weeks ago. It was the first indictment of this kind ever returned in New York county.

The homicide evidence concerns the death of William Winters, former inmate of the baby farm whose body, exhumed last week, disclosed that death had been due to a skull fracture. The death certificate gave maledictitis as the cause of death.

A series of Indian pictures, colored in oil, have recently been taken by Miss Kathryn Gunnell of Salem. "It occurred to me," said Miss Gummel yesterday, "after witnessing the Indian pantomime prologue at Chemawa last June, that I had been napping. Here at my very door was located the largest Indian school in America, which might be called the melting pot or assembly of the young people from the various western tribes. Some are as far away as Montana and the Dakotas, others come from northern Alaska. So with a desire to depict the natural beauty of the Indian girls, and to record the strength and character in the faces of the boys, I set about to take these studies."

The pictures were taken with the assistance of Mr. and Mrs. Harwood Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Bent, Miss White, Mr. and Mrs. Downie, Mrs. J. Golkey and Miss Risser.

Prizes were given by Miss Gummel for best titles offered by students at the Indian school for the pictures. Awards went to the following: No. 1, "In Her Glory," by Frank Kallier, 8th grade; No. 2, "Sunset Dreaming," by Marie Andrews, 7th grade; No. 3, "Scouting Warriors," by Alice Hall, 8th grade; No. 4, "Neah-Pa-Wish," (My Beautiful Princess), Raymond Haldane, 10th grade.
