Apollo Club Closes Season

Twenty members of the Apollo club blended their voices in harmony in concert at the armory last night under the able direction of their conductor, Dr. John R. Sites. It was the last concert of the eighth successful season of the club and although the chorus was smaller than in some years never did it show a finer balance, a finer reception of the spirit of the songs which it was interpreting than in last night's program.

Opening with Prothero's "Pilot" the club gave in all seven numbers, excluding encores. Among the numbers which were particular favorites were the Russian boat song — Krehbel's interpretation of the songs of the human "benefit of burden" which pull the boats along the Volga; and Harker's Waltz Song "The Skylark." The climax was reached gloriously in Hastings' "Waiting for the Moon to Shine," with the solo parts taken by Lyman McDonald. Mr. McDonald possesses a remarkably fine baritone and his part in last night's concert was one of the most pleasing of the entire evening. Speakers "On the Road to Mandalay" given by the club with Albert Gilie taking the solo parts was sung with a finish and a rhythmic flare that was most engaging.

Genevieve Howard, dramatic soprano, was a host of admirers among Salem people last night. As assisting artist in the club concert she was both a surprise and a delight. In addition to a most pleasing personality which won her audience before she sang a note, Mrs. Howard has a remarkably clear, well trained, and sweet soprano which she handles with good taste and skill. Her power in the climaxes is most surprising. Opening with an aria from "Butterfly" Mrs. Howard gave four program numbers and as many encores which proved her versatility and range. Probably outstanding among all her offerings was Scott's well known "The Winds of the South." Her accompaniments were perfectly played by Dr. Sites himself, for many years her teacher.

The Apollo Four—H. B. Glasberger, Albert Gilie, Richard Robertson and A. B. Hanson—proved also to be a delightful asset to the program. Beginning with Johnson's "Sweet and Low" their part in the evening's entertainment consisted of five program numbers with a number of encores—one lost count, the audience's demand for "more" seemed insatiable. The accompaniments were played by Miss Josephine Brose.

The active members of the club who took part in last night's program were—Wm. Blumenberg, Dr. L. E. Barriek, H. W. Brose, Ivan Corner, F. G. Deckerbach, C. Flier, H. B. Glasberger, Albert Gilie, Harry Harms, J. Frank Hughes, Earl Kennell, E. H. Lease, John Luckner, Jr., Lyman McDonald, Wm. McGilchrist, Sr., A. W. Mead, J. Moritz, John W. Orr, J. L. Teed, Watson Townsend, Harry Weis, Thomas Williams.

Mrs. William Charles Kiltz, Jr., arrived this morning from Vancouver, B. C., to spend several weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Thompson. Miss Louise Thompson motored to Portland yesterday to meet her sister, Mrs. Kiltz.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Sargent of San Francisco, were the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Livsey yesterday and until this morning when they left for Spokane. They motored through.

The eighty seventh birthday anniversary of Mrs. M. E. Horn was delightfully celebrated recently when her son in law and
