Chapter G Has Mother's Day Program

One of the most delightful meetings of the entire year of chapter G of the P. E. O. Asterhood was held yesterday at the home of Mrs. E. E. Fisher when a Mother's day program was given. The tea table was also lovely with golden iris and syringas. Mrs. D. X. Beecher and Mrs. F. W. Selee presided at the urns. Lincoln Hill Gardens Are Viewed

Several hundred lovers of growing things took the opportunity yesterday of viewing three of Salem's beautiful gardens when the Salem Floral society sponsored their second "garden at home" of the year in the gardens surrounding the homes of George Putnam, E. Y. Lanegan and Will Hamilton which adjoin each other on the crest of Lincoln Hill.

From the moment that one enters the first garden of the three, the Putnam garden, by way of the terraced brick walk which passes through an opening in a lovely rustic fence, each vista is more entrancing than the preceding one. The gardens lie in three terraces, rock walled, and rhododendron, roses, and a variety of other flowering shrubs fill all nooks and crannies. Adding to the delightful aspect of the hill are the hundreds of bushes of wild roses in full bloom now. An incomparable view of the river, the Polk county hills, and the country as far away as Mary's Peak beyond Corvallis, is obtained from the three gardens.

Sweet william, wild rocket, irises, roses and many other annuals and perennials are most attractive in the Lanegan gardens. Beds of Oregon grape, wild rocket, snowberry, garden heliotrope and rhododendron are in their glory in the Hamilton garden now and all about are flowers and shrubs in the budding stage.

Hostesses at the Putnam home included Mrs. J. H. Cradlebaugh, Mrs. J. A. Churchill, Mrs. E. M. Hoffnell and Miss Mabel Robertson.
