

CHERRY GROWERS ASK EIGHT CENTS AND ADVANCE

BENEFIT OF RISE IN MARKET ASKED OF PACKERS HERE

The committee named at the cherry growers meeting to confer with canners last night had their conference, and a conference among themselves after the meeting with the canners, and as a result C. A. Clark, president of the new organization, today put up a proposition to canners to a minimum of 8 cents a pound be fixed on Royal Annes, canners to agree to meet the market price.

It is known that one of the larger canners has offered a cent flat for Royal Annes but balked on the proposition of meeting market increases. This was before the meeting, however, it has not been learned how the canners are taking to the growers' proposal on the 8 cent price with the market advance.

The growers have no idea of what canners may intend to do when he comes in here in the price line, or any other possible thing that may be done. It is possible there will be other buyers with reports from California and other districts that a short crop is threatened and as a result the growers desire some protection.

On the other hand they made it plain in their conference with the canners that they had no intention or desire to running hog wild a price proposition. The more conservative growers are taking the attitude that they want a fair price year after year and are willing to forego the occasional big profits in years when cherries run wild in price and as a result demoralize the market for future years.

"What we want is some sort of stability in the market that we can more or less depend on from year to year and realize something on our cherries year after year and give the buyer the chance to do the same thing," said one prominent grower connected with the organization.

It was agreed at the meeting last night that the organization would make no effort to pool their cherries and sell them in a single swipe. It was agreed that canners would go out independently as in the past and buy their cherries independently from the various growers.

EGG DEMAND IS STRONG; 30 TO 31 CENTS OFFERED

Portland, May 22—Thirty cents is being paid for current receipts eggs today to farmers. Along the street as high as 31 cents is offered by jobbers. Receipts are unusually light for this time of year and the demand is strong for all offerings.

Grad eggs while steady apparently do not share in the strength shown by farm stock. Most of the local egg dealers feel that values are high enough for the present and are content with a stable market.

Eggs move readily at current levels and there is also a good shipping outlet to the south.

On the exchange extra still quoted at 23 cents, first 22 cents, pullets and current receipts 20 cents. Later quotation is on a steady basis.

Top grades of butter are steady and unchanged with the market showing a good healthy tone. First grade cubes are a cent lower on the exchange at 23 cents.

Poultry and country dressed meats are generally steady and unchanged. Receipts are light today but plenty sufficient for requirements.

WILL ATTEMPT TO SHIP GREEN GOOSEBERRIES

The proposed experiment for shipping of green gooseberries east will be tried out.

This became known definitely today when it was announced that Frank Crawford, one of the largest growers, with a few others, will be extended the facilities of Hunt brothers cannery in preparing for green shipment of their berries to eastern markets for the first time to try to seek a new and possibly excellent outlet for the berries. It is expected three or four cars will be shipped by way of experiment and the results no doubt will have a great bearing on possibilities for such green shipping in future years.

Crawford has about 35 acres of gooseberries and will probably handle about 30 tons. His gooseberries are reported to be in fine condition, the patch having been well kept, carefully sprayed and handled up to the top notch of perfection. It is stated if any gooseberries can get by and make a good impression with an experiment of the kind his should.

The growers will handle the canning of the berries on their own hook and pocket any profits or losses. Hunt brothers merely have extended the use of the facilities of their plant to them to assist in putting over the experiment and ascertaining whether it may be a profitable venture, for this year, and for years to come.

The experiment is one that will be watched with keen interest by growers as gooseberries have received something of a bump as a canning berry and if it can be shipped green with profit will open up a good outlet.

CANNERY LABOR PROBLEM ACUTE AS SEASON OPENS

With the gooseberry run starting tomorrow morning in Hunt brothers plant, with the big strawberry run opening up generally in canneries next Tuesday morning—probably one of the biggest strawberry packs in history, the problem of cannery labor has become acute, and the S. O. S. call for more women with which to "woman" rather than man the canneries has gone out.

Large numbers of women are registering but more are needed and the earlier they can register the better, so that the plants will be in a position to know just where they are.

Canneries generally are figuring on a heavy strawberry pack. The stage seems all set, with the weather conditions have been ideal and prices have been good. There seems to be every indication that the strawberry pack here this year will be one of the best all around crops for the year in the action both as to production returns to the growers and the canners are hoping to themselves.

In addition to the canning operations with strawberries hundreds of tons will go through the buying plant and also Liberty, McNeill & Lilly will be here taking a heavy tonnage of Wisconsin.

SALES OF WOOL CONTINUE SLOW

Portland, May 22—The Commercial Bulletin reports that wool sales are a fair demand for wool has continued this week, although speculative trading to some extent appears to have lessened somewhat. Prices are fairly firm on all descriptions and some buyers have been able to get a bit more on certain medium wools. Buying drags in the far west, but it is not more active in the light wool states.

The foreign markets are hardly changed, although Bradford reports rather less business with prices unchanged and quotations to further advance on the part of the spinners.

The Bulletin will publish the following wool quotations tomorrow:

Secured basis: Oregon; Eastern No. 1 staple $1.20-1.25; fine and fine medium combed $1.15-1.20; eastern cloth (cut) $1.00-1.05; caley No. 1, $1.05.

Mohair: best combing 70-75c; best carding $1.00-1.05.
