SILVER SERVICE SET SAFE AT BREMERTON

Bremerton, Wash., May 29.—The missing $25,000 silver service of the dismantled battleship Oregon is safe in the hands of the Bremerton navy yard supply office, it is said here.

Reports that Governor Pierce of Oregon had asked the secretary of the navy to trace the silver were received with surprise.

1925 LAST OPEN CAR YEAR POWELL TELLS SALESMEN

"This is the last open car year," said Fred M. Powell, local automobile dealer, in a speech before the sales force of his establishment, who held a banquet at the Marion hotel last night. "It isn't going to be very long before we'll have to put the lid on and not accept open cars in exchange. The demand is getting stronger all the time for closed cars and less for open ones."

Oscar Lefferts, in charge of Hudson and Essex distribution in Oregon, was present at the banquet and spoke. He declared that in general business conditions in the northwest are good.

"This idea that business is rotten is just a matter of thinking so," he stated. "I have just been over in eastern Oregon, and find that indications are that wheat farmers there will make a good profit this year. I was down in Medford this week. Some said that business is no good there, that the pear crop is a failure, but I found that all that had happened was that where they usually have had to go through their orchards and thin out two-thirds, of them, they're saved the trouble this year—the Almighty God has done it for them."

The banquet was held as a part of the new policy of the Fred M. Powell Motor Car company, which recently took over the agency for Packard, Hudson and Essex in Salem and its vicinity. Powell stated that already since the first of the year 1925 more Hudson and Essex cars have been sold here than were sold during the entire year of 1924.

Powell has been in the automobile business, with brief intervals, since 1902, when the industry first started. He stated last night that his maxim in business, which he has found to pay best, is the golden rule. "Sell as you would be sold to," he said to his salesmen. "I don't want you to sell on any other basis. Success depends upon that."

The actual saving accomplished amounted to approximately $6,000

Despite all protestations to the contrary, those in touch with the situation, past and present, at the university scout the idea that need ed economies were primarily responsible for the dismissal of those particular faculty members who felt the axe. Campus politics are generally credited with being at the bottom of the shake-up.

In the house cleaning Professor Fergus Reddie was ousted by the abolition of the department of drama and speech arts, Dr. Ernest S. Bates was dismissed because of his implication in a case at court involving a moral issue more than a year ago, Kirby Miller, assistant to Dr. Bates was discharged, Professor H. C. Howe was deposed as head of the English department, and several followers in the thought of these leaders were also ousted.

It is pertinent to observe that practically every one of these instructors were numbered among the campus group that might have been classified as radicals and free thinkers. For years this faction has been in constant conflict with an opposing, or conservative element on the campus and numerous attempts have been made to silence the liberal or radical voice on the instructional staff. Under the active supervision of President Campbell the university managed to keep a semblance of harmony between these two groups. But illness took the president away from the campus more than a year ago and administration of the university fell into the hands of a committee composed of the conservative element.

There is conceded to be a significance in the fact that the retrenchments affected upon recommendation of this conservative committee should remove from the campus all of the leaders of the opposing faction.

That the regents were well within their authority in removing whatever faculty members they saw fit is conceded, but the flimsy structure of their excuse that it was done in the interests of economy will be revealed in further articles.

OLD SOLDIERS DO DOUBLE DUTY

Today was the first time members of the G. A. R. have been required to double up on their speaking engagements in Salem public schools because of lack of sufficient numbers to fill all platforms in the city. Today there were fewer G. A. Supplementing the speeches made by veterans, special patriotic programs were held in all schools of the city today. Special exercises by the pupils, flag drills and singing the national anthem were featured at all the programs.

WOULD CANCEL POLK MAN'S CITIZENSHIP

Dallas, Or., May 29.—A suit has been brought in the federal court in Portland by United States Attorney George Neuner to cancel the naturalization certificate of Otto Herman Albert Schleusner, who was granted citizenship by Judge H. H. Belt in the circuit court for Polk county on October 2, 1922. The government in its complaint alleges that Schleusner's two witnesses, Otto Jahn and Robert Jahn, did not testify at the naturalization hearing as to having had personal acquaintanceship with the petitioner for a sufficient period of time. Schleusner, who is a native of Germany, was formerly a resident of the Grand Ronde district and still owns property there.

CANDIDATES FOR PLACE ON DEBATE TEAM SELECTED

In tryouts held yesterday afternoon a debate squad of six boys and two girls was selected, from which the intersectional teams will be chosen. Work on the question which will be used in the dual meet between Salem, Mass., and Salem, Ore., will begin at once, it was stated this morning by Orlando Horning, debate coach at the high school here. The question is "Resolved: that the child labor amendment as passed by congress should be ratified by the states."

"We expect to work a little late spring and summer," Mr. Horning states. "Our most intensive work will start in the fall as soon as school opens." He indicated this morning that there might be a possibility of changing the wording of the question, bringing it a little more up to date. At the time the eastern high school first sent its challenge to the locals the child labor amendment was still being passed upon by a number of state legislatures, but since that time it has been definitely defeated. The general question of control of child labor through federal legislation will be used in some form in the debate, however.

Efforts will be made to have the same question used in Salem's district in the state debates next year.

The personnel of the squad selected yesterday is as follows: Margaret Pro, Gaynelle Beckett, Harold Tomlinson, Martin Redding, Homer Richards, Louis Olmstead, Clark Durham and Jack Ramage.

Selections were made entirely by three outside judges, Professors Erickson and Franklin of Willamette university and Principal Miller of the Grant school. The question used in the tryouts was "Resolved: that the quota terms of the federal immigration law should be applied to the Japanese."

Seventeen high school students entered the tryouts, which were held in the high school auditorium.

CORNERSTONE LAID FOR ELKS TEMPLE HERE

Hundreds of Salem Elks and their friends gathered at the new Elks temple on State street at 7 o'clock last night where the cornerstone of the new building was laid with an impressive ceremony.

The brief speech attending the actual laying of the stone was made by Percy A. Young, district deputy grand exalted ruler, who conducted the ceremony. W. L. Needham, exalted ruler; F. G. Delano, chaplain, and Harry J. Wiedmer, secretary, participated in the program briefly.

William S. Levens, speaker for the occasion, gave a short address in which he lauded the principles of Elkdom from a patriotic and spiritual point of view. Mr. Levens' voice could be heard easily by the large out-door crowd and rhetorically his address was a masterpiece of conciseness and substance.

The Elks band, led by Oscar Steelhammer, played for the occasion, and for the first time the Stars and Stripes floated from the new temple.

All past exalted rulers of the lodge were seated on the porch of the temple along with the present officers and the speakers.

The members met at the old temple on Liberty street at 6:45 and marched to the new temple. At the conclusion of the cornerstone ceremonies the regular lodge session was held in the old temple.
