FRENCH DRESSING

French Dressing is the simplest—yet, at the same time, the most sophisticated of all salad dressings.

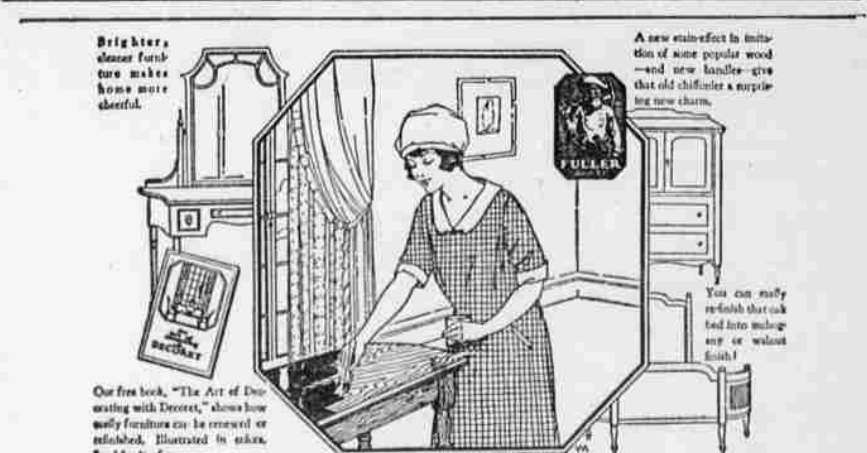

Six tablespoons of Wesson Oil, two tablespoons of vinegar or lemon juice, one-third teaspoonful of salt, a few shakes of pepper and stir well. Paprika may be added if desired.

It can be made in quantity as desired by merely increasing the amount of the various ingredients used, maintaining the proper proportions of oil and vinegar—one part of vinegar to three parts of Wesson Oil (some say four).

When made in quantity, this dressing can be kept in a covered jar in the ice box, and is ready for use at any time, merely needing a thorough shaking to break up the oil and blend it with the acid.

Although salads are good every month of the year, spring and summer are the seasons when nothing is such a boon to the appetite as a cool, crisp, colorful salad. If you would like to have some new recipes for salads and salad dressings, our new booklet, "Salad Dressings" is yours for the asking.
