Chicago, June 11.—Edward Dean, a veteran policeman, today defended $9,000, receipts of the Chicago Motor Coach company, at the probable cost of his life.

Struck in the stomach by slugs from a sawed-off shotgun and wounded in the leg by a revolver bullet, Dean chased four masked robbers from the company's office and fired six shots at them before he fainted from his wounds.

GROGERS ROAST COFFEE ROASTERS

Portland, Ore., June 11.—Coffee roasters and packers were placed on the aridron at the annual convention of the Pacific Coast Grocers' association here today. Explanation was asked why they sell to chain stores with the privilege of price cutting while retail grocers are expected to maintain fixed prices.

The representatives of the big coffee roasting firms were told that they would be boycotted by the retail grocers of the Pacific coast unless they maintained prices on coffee and required all of their customers to do likewise.

Flour was next considered. President Frank B. Connolly of San Francisco explained that in former years the price of flour was stable and that grocers knew what they were to expect, but in recent years there had come a change with the result that no grocer knew from one day to the other what the price would be.

In a discussion on the margin which the grocer should make on some of the goods handled, it was said that on coffee as well as on other articles, the grocer does not receive enough profit to pay for the handling.

WOODBURN HOST TO CONFERENCE

Woodburn, Or., June 11.—On Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock the Free Methodist church conference and friends gathered in the large tabernacle on the grounds back of the Methodist church for worship. Rev. W. U. Coffey, pastor, presided.

Prayer was offered by W. W. Vassar. Two sermons were sung by the mixed quartet from the North Pacific Evangelical institute of Portland.

Bishop Salliew gave an inspiring and convincing address from the text, Rev. 20:3, "Behold I stand at the door and knock."

He called attention to the great truth contained in the text. He said: "Behold, Jesus, the son of God, is so interested in dying humanity that he stands and knocks, first gently with compassion, our benefactor and provider, seeking to gain an entrance for our eternal welfare. It is best to open the door in early life, for many have experienced that he will knock with sickness and adversity. The text says, 'If any man will open his heart's door, the emphasis is on 'any man'."

"Jesus made himself a peddler, a huckster, to bring to everyone's door salvation. The peddler leaves his packaged samples on every porch. Folks are glad to receive them, and some ladies wish they were in a corner house with double packages. He is anxious to receive the package Jesus offers. Man steals his heart against godly, fleshly lust and habits."

BRIAND SAYS FRANCE TO SETTLE WAR DEBT

PLANS FOR SALE OF CHAUTAUQUA TICKETS SHAPE

Chautauqua guarantors held an enthusiastic meeting last night at the chamber of commerce when season tickets were distributed and plans made for the big ticket-selling campaign.

A majority of the guarantors are old chautauqua veterans and realize just what it means to "put it on." The splendid attendance last night, the complete understanding that it takes work, smiles and confidence to win, and the apparent readiness of each to buckle into it and put the big show over stronger than ever, has created a feeling in Salem that 1925 will witness the largest sale of season tickets in Salem's chautauqua history.

This will mean still larger crowds at the big tent and suggests that season tickets be secured early, and that ticket holders be on hand well in advance of opening time.

Reserved seat sale will be duly announced and equal opportunity given to secure reservations.

The purchase of a season ticket must precede the reservation of a seat for the season, hence everything argues for the early purchase of season tickets.

Tickets are on sale by the various guarantors already, and will be on sale at the usual public places at an early date.

LEE WONG TAKEN AS DRUG PEDDLER

Following information given out two days ago by two women who were caught by local police with narcotics in their possession, Lee Wong was yesterday arrested by Salem officers on a charge of unlawful possession of opium.

It is said to have been caught with 12 packages of the narcotic in his possession.

Lee Wong was placed in the county jail, no bail being fixed, and he case was expected to come up in justice court this afternoon.

The Chinaman became both wrathful and voluble when he learned that the women had given out information which led to his arrest, local authorities state. Officers had difficulty in restraining him from attacking one of the women when she identified him as the one who had sold her a quantity of opium.

CAN RENT FARMS FOR TAXES NOW

"There are a good many farms in Marion county now that I could rent for enough to pay taxes," said H. Van Trump, county fruit inspector, in outlining farming conditions in the immediate vicinity of Salem before the Marion-Polk County Realtors association at their weekly luncheon at the Marion hotel this noon.

Ultimately conditions must be changed if the farmer is to stay on the farm, he stated. There are now fewer farmers in Oregon, proportionately, than there were when he moved to the state in 1901.

He indicated that the Lake Labish farmers are at present virtually the only ones in the Willamette valley who have had to pay income taxes during the last two years.

Conditions should be such that a farmer and his family could make a good living on a farm of 20 or 25 acres, Van Trump stated.

NEW CHAIN STORE MAY LOCATE HERE, REPORT

Details reports circulating in Salem indicate that this city is being seriously considered as the location for another chain store. Advanced agents are known to have been making inquiries here since the first of this week.

Reports connect the name of the S. S. Kresge company, large national chain store corporation, with many of the inquiries. The Kresge company, originally started by Woolworth's divorced wife, has adopted the policy of establishing stores near Woolworth stores, running competition with them. They sell articles up to 25 cents in price, it is said, also maintaining department stores which sell articles for higher prices.

The Kresge company is well established in the east and middle west, but at present is virtually unknown on the coast. The inquiries would indicate that officials of the company intend to expand westward.

HAYNES SEES END OF BOOTLEGGING

Washington, June 11.—(By Associated Press)—Roy A. Haynes today completed his fourth year as prohibition commissioner and administrator of the Harrison narcotic act and he observed the anniversary with an optimistic statement of prospects for ultimate and complete defeat of the rum and drug bootlegger.

It has been a hard fight, said the commissioner, who took office 18 months after national prohibition became effective and while many obstacles to successful enforcement have been overcome he found others still bobbing up to present new hazards.

"The big bootlegging operator," Mr. Haynes declared, "is making his last stand as sources of illicit liquor are being closed to him. Real whiskey, wine, gin and brandy, he said, are 'practically unobtainable now for beverage use.'

Progress in enforcement during the past four years, he described as "truly remarkable," considering the obstacles which have had to be overcome.

Defenders Weakening

The defending Yunnanese troops assert their willingness to hand over the government to the Kwangtung wing of the attacking force. The Yunnanese leaders agree the Kwangtungites are competent to handle government affairs and the defending forces would be willing to support them.

Public opinion favors the retention of the Yunnanese forces in charge of the government at Canton.

The Associated Press correspondent was approached with a request today to interview General Yang Hai-min of the attacking forces stationed at Shaho, six miles outside the city. The interview will be held later.

DIVISION OF SHIP BOARD DUTY ASKED

said he was greatly impressed with the "great difficulties" in the negotiation of sales contracts.

"I have the strong feeling," he added, "that such complex negotiations cannot be competently carried out by the officials of the independent discussions by buyers with the several members of the shipping board."

Discourages Sales

"Furthermore there is an unwillingness on the part of some of our shipping men to enter such an involved scene of negotiations."

"In order that we should make a vigorous attempt to carry out the purpose of the merchant marine act—that is the disposal of the merchant marine into private hands—on equitable terms, it seems to me vital that these negotiations should be placed in single hand reserving to the shipping board the final voice in the acceptance or rejection of the specific contract."

"I would like to suggest to the board that all negotiations of every character for the disposal of ships or lines should rest in the hands of Admiral Palmer (president of the fleet corporation), that the members of the board should refuse to see or discuss the questions with any individual during the course of such negotiations, that Admiral Palmer should be authorized to sign such contracts subject to the approval of the board. The board will then be in a position to exercise its proper function in the acceptance or rejection of the contracts."

"I am convinced that better terms will be secured for the government and more progress made than otherwise."

DEFENSE COUNSEL STUART Sought to have Judge Lynch instruct the jury to disregard Mr. Crowe's remarks identifying Shepherd as an Indianapolis police court shyster, both Shepherds as panhandlers, a reference to Shepherd as following "like Mary's little lamb" and accusing the defendant of lying, but the court ruled Stuart should have made his objections at the time of the utterances. The defense asked the exceptions to the ruling and language be noted.

It was the subject of lobby comment that Prosecutor Crowe had refrained from asking the death penalty although the state battled three weeks to obtain a jury willing to inflict the death penalty "in a proper case."
