INCOME TAX CUT GAINING MOMENTUM

developed by republican insurgents and democrats in coalition. He suggested also that state taxes be reduced to the pre-war rate of ten per cent from the present 40 per cent.

Reduce Surtaxes

Senator Smoot said he believed the surtax rate would be reduced to 25 per cent or perhaps less. He predicted that exemption would be accorded small incomes and that the tax imposed upon them would be lowered.

The reduced rates proposed by Senator Underwood would, he explained, provide sufficient revenue for the government and if not, he suggested that some of the federal bureaus be abolished until expenditures do not equal revenues.

"I would slow down the government," he declared, "before it slows down the business of the nation."

The high surtax rate, he said, had made it more profitable for the man of large means to "a hand on productive enterprise and invest his money where he need not fear confiscation."

BESEIGERS TAKE CANTON SACKING CITY

army forces but extended to homes of non-combatant citizens.

Revolting Scenes.

Revolting scenes followed in all parts of the city, many of which were witnessed by Europeans from the foreign quarter. Innocent people were stoned and beaten by mobs, members of which seemed to have lost their senses.

The bodies of slain are strewn along the roads.

The surrendering Yunnanese troops, in many cases were beaten to death by the Kwangtung forces. From Shameen, the foreign population saw a conquered soldier suicide by diving into the river after witnessing the killing of his comrades.

The winning forces either shot defeated troops or threw them into the river after boating them with bamboo, stones and rifles.

Extensive Looting.

Looting was carried on in an extensive manner. The winning troops took even petty articles of household property in their campaign of terror.

The principal cause of the defeat of the Yunnanese troops, now driven out of Canton, was the treachery in the ranks of the Kwangsi troops who quit for a cash consideration.

Considerable damage was done to buildings owing to heavy gunfire. The most revolting scenes inside the city were caused by the Kwantung troops.

The defeated army leaders swore they would return to avenge the wrongs done today.

Ten thousand Cantonese troops now are on the Canton side of the river, all wearing red neckties. The success in capturing the city was attributed to the leadership of Russian officers.

Fighting began at Canton eight days ago between rival elements of former followers of the late Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the South China leader.

The immediate cause of the trouble was the efforts of the Cantonese government to dismiss the Yunnanese army, former allies of the Cantonese under Sun Yat Sen's regime. The dismissal was desired because the support of the army had become burdensome to the Cantonese government.

Yunnanese generals under Generals Yang Hsi-min and Lau Chun-Wan and their troops had complete control of Canton.

Cantonese troops under General Hsu Chis Ung Chi, reinforced by General Chu Pei-tak, attacked the Yunnanese occupying Canton with the object of freeing the city from their rule.

Today's dispatches indicate this effort has been successful.
