

SAYS CHINESE BUSINESS MEN ARE AWAKENING

Seattle, Wash., June 23—The Chinese business men who in the past have abstained from politics are now beginning to realize they must have a "say" in the government. The Tsok-kai, manager of the Kwank-tung Electric Supply company of Canton, said, speaking before the National Foreign Trade convention here today.

"Furthermore," he added, "the mass of the people also realize they must have peace."

While civil strife in the past few years has not encouraged much development the Chinese are not depressed, Tse said, and pointed that department stores and banks run on the foreign system, have sprung up all through the important centers of the country.

He declared that though a big part of this progress is due to Chinese returning after study abroad, most of the capital required comes from Chinese in their native land.

Going into the history of China's foreign trade, Tse said that because of foreign firms not knowing the language or conditions there, they did business through a middle man. He advocated doing away with this system, and adopting a method of direct dealing with the Chinese business men.

SEVEN LAND BOARD CONTRACTS RENEWED

Seven contracts between the state land board and Portland contracting companies were renewed and one new contract was entered into yesterday for the taking of sand and gravel from the Willamette river. The royalty of 10 cents a cubic yard to the state will be paid for the next five years under the new contracts as heretofore.

The new contract is with S. S. Montague of Portland, and the renewals are with the following: Nisicum & Kelly Sand & Gravel company, Columbia Contract company, Diamond O Navigation company, Willamette Gravel company, Portland Gravel company, Star Sand company, and the Hackett Digger company.
