IRVINE CLAN OF OREGON HOLDS REUNION HERE

Members of the Irvine clan of Oregon, descendants of the old Irvine family of this state, held their first and only reunion at Marion square, Salem, yesterday. An estimate places the number of those who attended at nearly 200. The original Irvine family consisted of the grandmother and her five sons and three daughters, located in Marion county in 1852. She died that year, and was buried in Jason Lee cemetery.

Numerous members of the family visited her grave yesterday. The last of the brothers and sisters died a few years ago, having drifted into all parts of the state of Oregon. The oldest member of the clan at yesterday's meeting was Irvine Claggett, of Independence, 84 years of age. He is still in active and vigorous health.

Milton A. Milles of Portland was elected president of a new organization which was formulated following yesterday's gathering. Miss Nina McNary was made vice president, and Mrs. Frank Chambers of Eugene secretary.

Many members of the clan have attained places of prominence in civic, state and national affairs. Senator C. L. McNary was present yesterday, with John McNary, Salem attorney, and Fred Irvine, editor of the Oregon Journal. It was voted to make the reunion a regular occurrence.

FELLERS REPLY IN McMAHAN SUIT

In an answer filed by J. P. Feller and others to the complaint of L. H. McMahan seeking attorney's fee alleged to be due, the defendants allege that they have carried out the terms of their contract with McMahan.

They assert that one, William Ashby Garrett, was killed in central Oregon by Ed Halvorsen and that they had reason to believe the crime was murder in the first degree. They state they conferred with McMahan and agreed to pay his expenses for investigation and a reasonable fee if a conviction was secured. They state a trial was had and Halvorsen acquitted. They charge that McMahan put in an expense account of $640.40 but actually expended only $290, and they asked for judgment against him for $440.

In addition they allege that McMahan was deputized as an assistant attorney general and as such should receive no private compensation as being against public morals.

2 PLAYGROUNDS ARE OPENED FOR SUMMER SEASON

Public playgrounds opened at two places in Salem today, and will continue for two months. The grounds southeast of the Parish junior high school are in charge of Miss Grace Snook and Leslie Sparks, both of the physical education department of Salem public schools. Every day throughout the season athletic contests, swimming and other forms of amusement will be staged. Miss Snook has charge of the girls and Mr. Sparks of the boys.

The second playground, located at Lincoln school, is in charge of Miss Dania Robbins. Activities there will be similar to those at the other grounds, except that there are no facilities for swimming.

Both playgrounds are equipped with chain swings, "teeter-totters" and all slides. The Parish Teachers' association at Lincoln has had one slide built, and are to have another constructed. The present season is the second for the Lincoln playgrounds and the fourth for the one near Parish.

The swimming pool in Mill creek near the Parish school has recently been deepened by taking out part of the bottom and by raising the height of the dam which blocks the stream at that point. A number of huge plants have been placed across the stream weighted down by sandbags. John Creech will act as lifeguard throughout the season.

Tremors started with a steady east-west motion which cracked brick walls and then the next moment the movement turned to a northeast-southwest movement of great severity which worked great havoc.
