Warehousemen's claims and the claims of threshermen against farmers who received state aid under the $1,500,000 relief act of the 1925 legislature, will be given prior consideration by the state board of control, according to a letter sent out by the board today to warehouse operators, and the citizens' committees and attorneys who represent the board of control in the several counties. This ruling has reference to harvesting, threshing and sacking. In some counties it is said harvesting is being held up because the farmers are unable to pay for sacks, and the warehousemen refuse to advance them, particularly for the reason that their wheat is under mortgage.

PLAN CAMPAIGN ON BLISTER RUST IN POLK COUNTY

L. N. Gooding, assistant pathologist, of Corvallis, who is in charge of the white pine blister rust campaign in Oregon, accompanied by K. McCloud and A. Grasovsky of Berkeley, Cal., are in Salem today securing information from the state forester's office relative to the cruise, ownership and location of the white pine stand in Polk county near Blackrock. The three men expect to go into the Blackrock country Monday and establish camp in the vicinity of the white pine stand, where Mr. McCloud and Mr. Grasovsky will be stationed during the summer or until their work is completed. They will be engaged in making an intensive reconnaisance of two sections of the best white pine stand in that territory, in order to determine the amount and location of ribes, a dangerous host plant of the blister rust. An extensive reconnaisance will be made of the remaining stand of pine.

Special attention will be given the young growth of white pine in order to determine its potential value as a future stand of timber. The purpose of this is to determine, if possible, whether it is economically feasible to start the eradication of the ribes in that section.

In case this work is completed before the season ends the men will be stationed in the white pine stand of eastern Tillamook county.

NON-RESIDENT TUITION HERE PLACED AT $90

Tuition for pupils from outside the city of Salem who attended Salem high school or ninth grade in junior high, will amount to $90.66 each, according to figures made public at the office of the city superintendent of schools today. The amount is lower than that of last year and lower than the average as determined over a period of several years. It is slightly in excess of the tuition two years ago.

During the school year which closed nearly a month ago there were a total of 389 pupils from outside the school district attending school in Salem, the entire number being above the grammar grades. Three hundred and five were from Marion county, 75 were from Polk, 3 from Linn, 2 from Lane and one each from Clackamas, Tillamook and Yamhill counties. Some names may be removed from the list after it is turned in, it is stated, and allowance made for only a part of those for whom tuition is requested.

Individual tuition for the four years preceding the year just closed are as follows: 1920-21 $96.03; 1921-22, $93.13; 1922-23 $90.18; 1923-24 $92.10.

Next year the tuition is expected to be several dollars larger than usual, due to the fact that allowance is to be made for depreciation on school buildings, in accordance with a state law enacted at last winter's session of the state legislature. An official appraisal is to be made of the value of buildings used in instruction of out of town pupils, together with the depreciation during a school year. The amount of loss incurred will be entered in compiling the total cost of instruction.

NEW QUAKES SHAKE DOWN WEAK WALLS

were cracked a little more but the old structure still stands as it did after the heavy quake on Monday.

St. Anthony's college and the St. Francis hospital, which were badly wrecked on Monday, suffered little additional damage.

Both are still standing. In one or two places plumbing was wrenched loose.

Rumors Unfounded.

As a result of the shock this morning there were wild rumors concerning the damage but they proved to be without foundation or exaggerated. One report said that the mansion of C. K. G. Billings of Chicago, which is located in Montecito, had been destroyed. A detail of a police and a newspaper man visited the place and found the buildings of the estate in practically the same condition as they were after the original quake Monday. Some additional plaster fell but the employes say that the building did not suffer to any serious extent today.

A few persons who were working in wrecked or damaged buildings were bruised in their scramble to get out, but a visit to the Cottage hospital, where the quake sufferers are cared for shows that not a single person has been added to the injured list up to 10:15 a. m.

The city officials report that the city hall which escaped practically undamaged in the first shock Monday, suffered a little damage in this morning's quake.

Nunn Is Injured.

Several large cracks appeared in the walls, but the damage is not regarded as serious.

The reconstruction commission was in session in the city hall at the time of the shock and in the rush to get from the building, City Manager Herbert Nunn, who has been laboring under strain and working incessantly since Monday, slipped and fell on the stairway. He was taken home but is not thought to be badly hurt.

One of the best exhibitions of cold nerve ever seen in time of stress was furnished by the Associated Press operator in the office of the Daily News. When the building began to rock he opened the key and announced the quake to the outside world and took out his watch to time the duration of the shock, as he watched the buildings roll and rock.

A second hard jolt came at 10:21 which did not help the nerves of the people but did not damage.

STAYTON PLANS CELEBRATION

Stayton, Or., July 3.—Stayton is making extensive preparations for the enjoyment of the Fourth of July. A two-day roundup, under the direction of Everett Wilson, is to be the chief feature, and some of the best riders in the northwest are expected to compete for the prizes; the preliminary events will be run off Friday, with the final contests taking place Saturday, the 4th. Several women riders will take part in the roundup.

The roundup management has arranged for a barbecue to be held on the Fourth. Seventeen cows will be butchered for the event and the food will be given out from the booth on West Ida street, which are being erected for this purpose.

The community clubs are planning big dances on Friday and Saturday nights at the open air pavilion in the Masonic grove; the music will be furnished by the Talmade orchestra.

STAYTON YOUTHS ARE HELD IN JAIL

Stayton, July 3.—For the first time in several months the city jail is being occupied. Two young men, Jack Ryan and Harry Hovenham, are being held on the complaint of L. A. Loomis, who charges that the boys stole his car and proceeded toward Albany, when he had merely loaned it to them to visit the Barnes place west of Stayton; larceny by bailee is the technical charge on which they are being held.

The young men aver that there was no intent to steal the car, that it was taken with the permission of the owner; that on the trip home the car broke down and they started on foot toward Jefferson to secure a new part. The boys were arrested in Jefferson by the Stayton constable, Henry Smith, before they could return to the car. They have been unable to secure bail and are being held pending a hearing before the local justice of the peace, Jerome Greer.

SECURITY OF EUROPE HELD VITAL TO U. S.

that more progress can be made by cooperation than by conflict. To agree quickly with your adversary always pays.

"The world has not outgrown, it can never outgrow, the absolute necessity for conformity, to these eternal principles. I want to see America assume a leadership among the nations in the reliance upon the good faith of mankind. I do not see how civilization can expect permanent progress on any other theory. If what is saved in the productive peace of today is to be lost in the destructive war of tomorrow, the people of this earth can look forward to nothing but everlasting servitude. There is no justification for hope. This was not the conception which Washington had of life.

"If the people of the Old World are mutually distrustful of each other let them enter into mutual covenants for their mutual security, and when such covenants have been made let them be solemnly observed no matter what the sacrifice. They have settled the far more difficult problems of reparations, they are in process of funding their debts to us, why can they not agree on permanent terms of peace and fully reestablish international faith and credit? If there be differences which can not be adjusted at the moment, if there be conditions which can not be foreseen, let them be resolved in the future by methods of arbitration and by forms of judicial determination.

"While our own country should refrain from making political commitments where it does not have political interests, such covenants would always have the moral support of our government, and could not fail to have the commendation of the public opinion of the world. Such a course would be sure to endow the participating nations with an abundant material and spiritual reward. On what other basis can there be any encouragement for a disposition to attempt to finance a revival of Europe? The world has tried war with force and has utterly failed. The only hope of success lies in peace with justice. No other principle conforms to the teaching of Washington; no other standard is worthy of the spirit of America; no other course makes so much promise for the regeneration of the world.'
