PRINT BUTTER MARKET GAINS BUTTERFAT UP

Portland, July 7—Print butter is a cent higher today in the local market with creameries quoting 47 cents a pound for parchment wrapped and 48 cents in cartons. The market is very firm at the advance as high score butter is scarce and in demand.

Cream production has fallen off considerably in the past ten days. Not only has there been a serious decrease in butterfats but cream coming in has fully reflected the hot weather in quality. The result is an acute shortage of extra butter which is eagerly sought by outside markets, and a surplus of undergrade butter, which nobody wants.

Butterfat quotations advanced a cent today along with the rise in prints. Best churning cream is now quoted at 45 cents a pound f. o. b. the shippers' track in zone one.

No change is shown in cube butter for the day. Exchange prices are: extras 45½; standards 45; prime firsts 44 and ordinary firsts 42½. There is a brisk shipping outlet to the south for all fancy butter offered here.

No change is shown in the local egg market. Receipts are good and the demand sufficient for all offerings.

Fewer Eggs Sent to Market

Fewer eggs are being received in the market than a year ago, when the heavy producing season came several weeks later than usual. Because of the profitable outcome of storing eggs last season, dealers have taken hold more willingly, and prices during the main storing period have been 5 to 6 cents higher than in 1924, according to the Index of the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation. The higher level of prices has checked consumption. This, coupled with favorable weather early in the season, has resulted in more rapid accumulation of eggs in storage than last year. Egg prices have a marked seasonal trend. Ordinary qualities are abundant until late summer, as a rule, but strictly fine eggs usually become increasingly scarce and higher in price as hot weather starts.

Jail Fails to Cool Ardor of Lothario, Alias George Miller

"The sailor has a sweetheart in every port and the drummer in every town." So runs an old music hall ditty, but neither drummer nor sailor has anything on George Miller, awaiting trial in the county jail on a charge of lewd and lascivious cohabitation, the aforesaid Miller being picked up here awhile ago in company with a girl under circumstances which caused the officers to curtail his activities for awhile.

Since he landed in jail Miller has been spending his time writing letters and postal cards to girls all over the United States.

Just today he sent up to the office 17 of these tenderly written epistles the persons to whom the letters were addressed living in various sections of the country and each one a "Miss."

Seemingly, from the appearance of these little billet doux Miller has Lothario like tendencies not limited by time or space, or days or nights, or other limitations placed upon the ordinary Romeo.

From indications he has been a great traveler in his day, and has made his travels count as far as females are concerned. Incidentally he seems to have a considerable volume of photographs of his various conquests from Georgia in the southeast to Washington and Oregon in the northwest and to one and all he opines that some day he will be back to renew the delightful relationships which made his sojourn in each particular city such a happy one.

The irony of it is that Miller has put a return address on each letter—not for return to the county jail—but to a room number in a certain prominent business building here. Investigation disclosed the fact that the room number was that of Miller's attorney.

GRAIN SELLING COOPERATIVE TO CEASE STRUGGLE

Chicago, July 7—(AP)—Chicago bank creditors of the Grain Marketing company were definitely advised today that the affairs of the cooperative marketing venture would be wound up, the merged concerns resuming business in their own right when dissolution has been completed.

Neither creditors nor stockholders will suffer loss under the plans developed today.

Chicago, July 7—(AP)—Chicago banks holding Dean, Onativia securities have extended for another day the time allowed for completion of reorganization plans under which the $25,000,000 bankruptcy proceedings will be terminated this week without loss to investors or creditors.

Officers of the Grain Marketing company of Chicago, one subsidiary of which is represented by a partnership in Dean, Onativia and company, admitted that they were having difficulty in raising $4,000,000 due July 25 to four grain concerns which a year ago merged into the Marketing company. Attempts to sell marketing company stock to farmers have been abandoned. It had been hoped to evolve the company into a cooperative enterprise.

OLD FRUIT UNION PLANT APPLIED UPON JUDGMENT

By petition in circuit court of C. M. Miall, receiver for the Salem Fruit Union, and by an order of Judge Kelly, the Salem Fruit Union plant yesterday afternoon was turned over to the Northwest Fruit Products company on a basis of a valuation of $35,000, to apply on the judgment of the Phez company against the fruit union in the sum of $110,243.19.

The petition recites that $35,000 is the highest price that could possibly be secured for the property and as a result by putting it in against the judgment at that price no damage is being done to the fruit union. This, in fact, is about the only available asset of the fruit union of any material value and consequently is about all that the Northwest company ever will get out of the fruit union on its $110,000 judgment, according to those interested.

At the same time Judge Kelly confirmed the sale of the fruit union plant to W. C. Winslow for $5000. This sale, it is understood was made to protect attorneys on their fees.

CLARKE COUNTY PRUNES SELL AT 11 CENTS FOR 30S

According to a report reaching Salem the Washington Growers association of Clarke county, has confirmed the first sale to be reported of the 1925 crop of prunes, the report stating that the association has confirmed 1925 30s at 11 cents and 1925 40s at 8½ cents.

The peak price at which 1924 30s were sold was 12 cents, and the 1924 crop of 40s opened last year at 8½ cents.

According to estimates by local packers there are less than 5,000,000 pounds of the northwest crop of 1924s left on the coast.

BOY'S DEATH ACCIDENTAL SAY OFFICERS

out so far the river has probably fallen not much more than six or eight inches between the dates of June 26 when the drowning apparently took place and July 4 when the discovery of the body was made.

Just how Barrett's body was rolled up on the shallow sandy river bottom is the cause for another inquiry on the part of the officers. It is stated that there is a possibility that waves from passing boats may have gently pushed the body further and further ashore on the sandy bottom. The theory also has been advanced that Barrett, suffering from a cramp, may have gotten to shallow water in a half drowning condition, and stumbled and fell where he was found. Men have drowned in shallower water than that in which Barrett's body was found.

A number of Barrett's friends were interviewed last night.

Frank Lindsay, bosom companion of Barrett, and the last to be seen with him, gave the most important version of the last few hours that Barrett was seen alive.

Lindsay stated that he accompanied Barrett about 6:30 o'clock on the evening of June 26 to Joe's Market, 610 Market street, across from the Cherry City bakery. Barrett's father and brother work at the Oregon Packing company and were accustomed to stop at Joe's Market to pick of groceries on their way home and Barrett thought he could pick up his father there and ride home with him.

Barrett jumped from Lindsay's car and ran into the market to find if his father had been there. Lindsay had told Barrett if he didn't find his father to come home with him and stay during the night. Barrett was in the market a few moments, stepped out and told Lindsay his father hadn't come and he thought he would wait for him, Lindsay drove away.

Bought Groceries

Barrett went back into the market and purchased 11 cents worth of pork steak, a 12 cent can of milk and 26 cents worth of cake. Barrett's father stated that the son never brought groceries home with him, and from the amount purchased and the size of the bill, apparently Barrett was buying the provisions for his own use.

Barrett, it has developed, has been accustomed to swim across the river from the rear of Ward Richardson's store to the Polk county side, putting his clothes on a plank and pushing it across. This was done to save the four or five mile walk, necessitated by going to the bridge, crossing the bridge and then doubling back to his home in Polk county.

Officers have the theory that Barrett ate the food he purchased put his clothes on a plank as was his custom, pushed off, and while progressing across the river was seized with a cramp, possibly from food eaten too soon before going into the water, and that the plank and clothes floated away.

The investigation is being continued, but the theory of accidental drowning seems to be the one plainest marked out for the officers from information so far gathered.

PROSPECT GOOD FOR BIG CROP OF VALLEY PEACHES

Peaches will produce a good crop this year, according to O. K. DeWitt, one of the owners of the large peach orchards on the Willamette near the Wheatland ferry.

DeWitt stated that there were no early peaches being sold from their orchards, although Aleck LaFollette has some extremely early varieties in the market.

DeWitt states that the leaf curl, which did some damage earlier in the season, is pretty well checked and he sees no reason now why there should not be a pretty fair crop of peaches.

Inasmuch as canneries have gobbled up pretty well other kinds of fruit and kept them to a large extent from the local housewives, and inasmuch as local peaches are largely sold through the medium of the housewife, not being canned here, indications are that peaches should find a good demand from the housewife and move into consumption readily at fair prices.

DeWitt states that the Crawfords should come on a little ahead of their normal season this year, probably hitting the market as early as July 20, or by July 25 at the latest.

SLAYER SUCCUMBS TO SELF INFLICTED WOUND

Aberden, Wn., July 7.—James Walters, Yakima, who shot and killed Carl Casey, Elma, and seriously wounded John Casey in a shooting affair at Copalis Beach, 20 miles west of here, Saturday night, died in a Hoquiam hospital Sunday night as a result of self-inflicted wounds at the time of the shooting. John Casey will recover, physicians say, although he will lose the sight of his right eye.

Deputy Sheriff George Dean, in charge of investigation of the case, says there were no powder burns on Walters' temple or face after the shooting, leading him to believe that some one else may have taken part in the shooting.
