SECRETARY WORKS VISITS SCHOOL HERE

Head of Interior Department Inspects Chemawa After Spending Night With Friends Here.

Dr. Hubert Work, secretary of the interior in the cabinet of President Coolidge, was puzzled today when he inspected the Salem Indian training school at Chemawa.

It was in the kitchen of the domestic science department. On a blackboard was written a recipe for cake-baking. The cabinet member's brow wrinkled as he studied the written instructions.

"What does H. P. stand for?" he asked the instructor.

"Is Real Westerner

Some folks in these parts are afraid Secretary Work's ideas are eastern. But his conversation and he comes from Colorado. In an easy, drawling way he questioned instructors and students as he passed through the buildings.

"You have those seasons upside down," he said to an Indian maiden from Montana, who was cutting out pieces for a garment in the domestic arts department.

"Where are you from?" he asked another.

"California," the girl replied.

"Do you want to go back there?"

"I surely do."

"That's funny," the secretary said. "I don't see why you want to go back to California when you can stay here."

"Where are you from?" Dr. Work asked an instructor in another department.

NO PROPAGANDA FOR SUPPORT OF DRY LAW, EDICT

Washington, July 8.—(AP)—Disapproval of high prohibition officials of the policy of buying up means of propaganda and speech-making has seriously threatened the prohibition unit's $50,000 poster campaign.

Reports have been prevalent in official circles for several weeks that administration approval of plans to spend $50,000 on poster dry propaganda would be withheld and these have been received with the announcement that the duties of Miss George Hopley, woman prohibition agent, who has been speaking before women's organizations on behalf of prohibition, had been abolished.

YEGGS ATTEMPT TO BLOW SAFE IN BLODGETT STORE

Dallas, Or., July 8.—Five men who attempted to blow the safe at Thompson's general store at Blodgett on the Corvallis-Newport highway were frightened away before their job was completed about 3 o'clock this morning.

They had removed the outer door of the store safe and were ready to blow off the inner door when the sudden whirring of a small electric motor in the store basement scared them into instant departure.

The Thompsons have a small electric lighting system for the store and their home nearby and when one of the members of the household got up and turned on a light the motor in the store was automatically started.

The would-be robbers fled in two cars down the Kings valley highway into Dallas which joins the Corvallis-Newport highway at Blodgett. Sheriff Hooker was notified at once and he raced down the road as far as Lewisville but encountered no one. It is thought that they turned off on some side road. Their evasion of their pursuers has led to the general conclusion that they are well acquainted with the geography of the district. The only lost whites they secured was a new rifle taken from the store.

Blodgett is in Benton county. There is a postoffice safe in this store also, but this was not involved.

ROMANCE BROKEN SIXTY YEARS AGO BLOSSOMS AGAIN

Roseburg, July 8.—A romance shattered 60 years ago by a lover's quarrel has been revived, and Fred Macklin, aged 63 years, a Civil war veteran of this city, left this morning for Spokane to wed a widow of 79 years, a sweetheart of former years.

They were sweethearts back in Grundy county, Missouri, becoming engaged just before Mr. Macklin's enlistment in the Union army.

At the close of the war a disagreeable marriage broke the engagement and eventually claimed their mates. Death each remained ignorant of the other's whereabouts until fate a short time ago put them in communication with each other and their quarrel was patched up.

Friends of Mr. Macklin were unable to give the name of the prospective bride, who is to be brought to the city soon to occupy the new home which the veteran is building for her.

COOLIDGE ASKS PROTECTION OF WAGE EARNERS

Swampscott, Mass., July 8.—(AP)—As he watched from long range preparations of government officials for another slash in taxes President Coolidge in keeping in mind the wage earner and family income as well as business generally.

To him the prosperity of both are intertwined.

The president believes that a drastic cut in surtaxes not only would result in increased government revenue through a consequent stimulation of business, but would benefit the small tax payer by relieving him steady taxpayer.

Mr. Coolidge holds to the view that holders of large incomes are concerned more with avoiding high taxes by protection through investments in tax exempt securities than in attempting to increase their fortunes through regular business.

FRENCH RATIFY 8 HOUR PACT OF 1919 SESSIONS

Paris, July 8.—(A. P.)—The French chamber of deputies today ratified the Washington eight-hour convention.

The vote in favor of ratification was unanimous. The convention has been pending since 1919, when the voters agreed that it should be adopted within a year or 18 months. It was to have been in effect ten years, half of which have passed.

The minister of labor, M. Durand, urged approval of the convention as the best means of hastening German ratification. He said the agreement would not be effective for France until Germany also had acted upon it and he pledged the French government's efforts to obtain German ratification.

The eight-hour day and 48-hour week agreement was one of the draft conventions adopted by the international labor conference at its first meeting in Washington in November, 1919. The convention was to become effective in those countries ratifying them by July 1, 1921.

He has declined scores of requests for photographs, saying that he is used for so many requests in Florida that he does not think new ones are necessary.

Friends regard Mr. Rockefeller the best 86-year-old golfer in the world. He holed nine in 18 a few days ago.

She struck on the roof of the hotel's Japanese garden, which is on a level with the second floor. James M. NINE DEAD FROM HEAT IN STATES ALONG ATLANTIC

New York, July 8.—(AP)—The second day of the heat wave which swept down upon the east from the middle west has caused at least nine deaths and dozens of prostrations.

Violent thunderstorms in most sections yesterday brought early temporary relief. Scores of buildings were struck by lightning. The electric light at Whitecourt and were put out of commission and President and Mrs. Coolidge sat in darkness half an hour.

Mr. Baruch's idea for the fund was based, Mr. Young said, on his experiences on the war industries board.

Guns of Gangsters Blaze In Chicago's Streets; One Dead

Chicago, July 8.—Gangsters' guns blazed in Chicago streets again today, seriously wounding Tony Genna, third of the Genna brothers to fall in six weeks in the feuds and rivalries of boot runners.

At the county hospital where Genna was immediately placed on the operating table, five bullets were found in his body. One had pierced a lung and another injured his spinal cord. His head was bruised from his fall to the pavement. Genna died at 7:55 this afternoon.

Genna was shot twice by unknown assailants as he walked along his street. One bullet struck in Genna's head, and another pierced his abdomen. He is in a critical condition.

The scene of the attack was not far from where the body of Joseph Lomorelli, victim of a kidnaping blackhand ring, was found Monday.

Genna was arraigned in criminal court yesterday on charges growing out of the last street battle precipitated by gangsters, in which five weeks ago, Michael, his brother, and two policemen were killed. He was fined $100, and costs on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

Genna was at large for several days after the flare-up which took the second of his brothers from the leadership of the notorious Genna gang. He was named by several witnesses as having been in the automobile, whose occupants gave fight to the police in a car on the West Side early in June, but (Continued on Page Five)

SAYS IRISH ARE ONES TO WORRY IN LINEN FIGHT

"We needn't worry about competition in linen manufacture from Ireland—they'll worry about it," said Robert H. Dann, son-in-law of D. C. Miles, head of the local linen mill plant being erected in North Salem, in a speech before the Salem Rotary club this noon. Mr. Dann made a special trip to Ireland a year ago, staying there for seven months.

There is not only a large field for flax products, that the Irish are not attempting to touch, but they neglect to push the products they now produce he stated. Manufacturers in Belfast, in a speech before the Salem Rotary club this noon, Mr. Dann made a special trip to Ireland a year ago, staying there for seven months.

The climate in Ireland is moist throughout the year, he declared. During the month of August, on 29 days of the month, Dann related an anecdote about an Irishman who was asked when summer would come.

"I don't know when it will come this year," the Irishman replied, "but last year it was Wednesday."

The Irish have a real, although sometimes unbecoming, humor. Mr. Dann declared. He told a sign at a certain point in Belfast, inviting the public to meetings. "Come in your own clothes and bring others with you," the sign read. It had been there for many years. It has been there for many years. It has been there for many years.

Complete Distillery With Capacity of 300 Gallons of Booze Daily Taken Near St. Paul.

The plant was operated on the same plan as the Mt. Angel still using up-to-date methods with all the approved distillery appliances as sanctioned by the government in pre-Prohibition days.

Concealed by Canvas

The still was located in a canvas structure, about 40 x 60 square, concealed in the brush on the island.

The agents, R. W. and A. C. Smith and A. Christensen, work directly from the governor's office and not under the state prohibition director. Since July 3 they had been working on a tip that a small still was operating somewhere in the St. Paul district, their advice being, however, that the still was a small 5 or 10-gallon affair.

While ransacking through the brush last night looking for the small still near the river somewhere, they sighted two men on the island who, they were certain, were connected with distilling or bootlegging operations. The men apparently had seen the agents across the water and were just pushing off from the island in a small boat. The agents alerted them to stop, but the men, covered furiously, obeyed. The agents let loose a fusillade of bullets, over 15 in all they stated, but the men made their getaway. The agents stated they made no effort to hit them as they were still in a position to be rescued.

FORD DENIAL OF ATTACK ON JEWS AVAILS NOTHING

New York, July 8.—(A. P.)—A denial of personal responsibility for an attack on Jews in his paper is made by Henry Ford in an affidavit which he has unsuccessfully sought to file in connection with libel suits against him and the Dearborn Independent by Herman Bernstein, editor of the Jewish Tribune, who seeks $200,000.

Federal Judge Knook yesterday refused to accept the affidavit or to vacate an attachment which ties up $65,000 Ford money on deposit in New York banks.

"The merits of this case, rather than its technicalities, must be taken after engaged the attention of the court," said the judge.

In the affidavit Ford said: "I did not write the article in question nor inspire it; had no participation in its writing; it was not direct in its writing; it was not shown to me before it was printed; I did not see or approve it or know it was to be printed, and I had nothing whatever to do with its printing, publication and circulation."

Judge Knook, saying that he did not wish to cast aspersions upon the affidavit, explained that it was the statement of an ex-parte defendant.

In another affidavit William J. Cameron, editor of the Dearborn Independent, took responsibility for publication of the article at issue.

Counsel for Bernstein said the decision insured trial of the libel suits after five years' efforts by Ford to deprive Bernstein of his day in court by every conceivable technicality.
