MEAD PLEDGES NEW SURVEY OF RAPIDS PROJECT

Portland, July 9.—(AP)—The survey of the Umatilla rapids reclamation project was promised here today by Elwood Mead, commissioner of reclamation following conferences with parties interested in the project. Commissioner Mead also said the Deschutes project would be given consideration but that there was no hope for an appropriation this year.

Settlers on Stanfield, Furnish and other small projects in Umatilla county were told they would have to wait for needed relief from water shortages.

Criticism was made of the findings of the engineer from the reclamation bureau on the Umatilla Rapids project by representatives of the Umatilla rapids association on the ground that much of the land which could be irrigated was eliminated by the engineer, thereby making the project more costly. If this land were included, the delegation said the per acre cost could be greatly reduced.

Fred Steiwer of Pendleton was chief spokesman for the representatives. He argued that the project was feasible from the standpoint of irrigation, power development and navigation.

Commissioner Mead replied that the only reason for the reclamation bureau's interest in the project was from the standpoint of reclamation, but that if power is developed it should be used to pay some share of the cost and thereby reduce the cost of placing water on the land. He was deeply interested in this feature.

STORKS will live ONLY in REPUBLICS

—Or so people used to think in the 16th century.

This is the 20th century. But we are still superstitious; for example, when we pay fancy prices for eastern lubricants in spite of the fact that the best crudes so far discovered for the manufacture of a motor oil are obtained from wells on the Pacific Coast.

Experience explodes the anti-western oil superstition. A longer working life for your motor. Zerolene will increase the gasoline mileage of your car, reduce carbon accumulation and lengthen its working life. Why pay tribute to a superstition? Insist on Zerolene—ask for it by name.

Zerolene actually lubricates better—and because it does it lubricates more cars in the Pacific Coast states than any other oil made—low and high priced cars alike. The most advanced refining process is this Company's patented high-vacuum process, during the use of which Zerolene is submitted to 13 positive checks for quality. Zerolene's special filtration through 40 tons of Florida Fuller's Earth gives you an oil that's absolutely pure.
