The executive committee of the board of trustees of Willamette university, holding its regular meeting at the university this morning, accepted the offer of the owners of the mill race which flows past the campus to dig a ditch from Lausanne hall, women's dormitory, for the purpose of draining the building. Water has been known to seep into the basement of the dormitory from the millrace, and the difficulty had been taken up between university authorities and owners of the millrace. At the request of the trustees reports were turned in of all student activities, showing their financial status. It was found that the Wallulah, the school annual, showed a profit despite the fact that the standard of the book was raised by decision of the staff, which voted to limit the amount of advertising to $200. The management came out $75 to the good.

After passing through a minor heat wave for two days the city of Salem was cooler by approximately 10 degrees today. The mercury had reached the 82 mark at 2 p. m. today, a point 9 degrees lower than at a corresponding hour yesterday. Yesterday the thermometer recorded a maximum of 92 degrees late in the afternoon, one degree lower than the highest temperature of the day before.

Frank Chamberlain, of 225 Superior street, was taken suddenly ill with appendicitis early yesterday, and finally rushed to a local hospital, where a successful operation was performed. It is reported that he tries for the greater part of the day to get to the telephone and call the doctor, but collapsed each time. Officials at the hospital where the operation was performed stated this afternoon that he was resting easily. Mr. Chamberlain is a local mechanic.

During the week ending today there were a total of 134 persons employed through the local employment bureau, operated at the Salem Y. M. C. A. building. Thirty of the number were women. Registrations of workers during the week reached a total of 298.

OPEN SEASON ON COMMUNISTS IS URGED IN SPEECH

"There ought to be an open season on every communist, all the year round," declared Captain Sjurdur K. Gudmundson, recently returned from a trip to Russia, who gave an address at the chaquetau program last night. Freedom of the press in Russia is a joke, he declared; freedom of speech is non-existent, only communists are permitted to vote; religion is scorned in Russia.

Captain Gudmundson stated "in every instance the experiment of the communistic power has been a terrible failure."

"What America needs," he said, "what the United States needs, what every country in the world needs, is not a casting aside of all existing conditions, but a closer, firmer, sadder knowledge of human nature and a truer faith in God, in man and in our country."

Leake's Orchestral Entertainers gave several musical numbers preceding Gudmundson's speech. Yesterday afternoon the entire program was furnished by them.

The junior chaquetau held forth this morning, beginning at 9 o'clock.

This afternoon Oney Fred Sweet gave a lecture entitled, "In the Other Fellow's Shoes." His lecture was preceded by a concert given by the Baughman-Pfeiffer Duo.

Tonight, the third evening of the chaquetau season, a lecture, "The Problem of World Peace," will be delivered by Dr. George O. Falls. The Baughman-Pfeiffer Duo will again hold forth, preceding the lecture with a number of musical attractions.

There will be no chaquetau program Sunday.

On Monday afternoon, beginning at 2:30 a series of extended impersonations will be given by Roseth Knapp Broad, Boston's noted entertainer.

NEW ENDEAVORER HEAD TO PREACH HERE TOMORROW

Daniel A. Polling, elected president of the United Society of Christian Endeavor at the international convention in Portland this week, will speak at the eleven o'clock services at the First Evangelical church tomorrow. His father, Rev. C. C. Polling, is pastor of this church. The new C. E. president is pastor of the Marble Collegiate church of New York City, the oldest Protestant church in North America.

With Mrs. Polling, and their seven children ranging in ages from eighteen to five years, Dr. Polling has been visiting his parents for several days. They will leave next week for a tour of Alaska before starting east. Tomorrow afternoon at three o'clock Dr. Polling is scheduled for a lecture at the Gladstone chaquetau.

Following his graduation from Dallas college in 1904 Dr. Polling went east and he has been prominently connected with evangelical work ever since then. He has held revivals in all parts of the world. He was born in Portland in November 1884.

POLE SETTING FOR NEW POWER LINE STARTS SOON

Work will begin next week setting poles for the high power electric line built by the Mountain States Power company between West Salem and Independence. The line, when finished, will be the final link in a complete line making it possible, if necessary, to transmit power directly from Vancouver, Washington, to the Mexican boundary.

In West Salem it will connect with the new electric substation, upon which work is rapidly progressing.

The West Salem-Independence line will be 11 miles in length, and will be constructed at an estimated cost of $22,000. Work will be finished by the end of the present month.

The first of the summer's series of religious services will be held in Wilson park tomorrow afternoon. Dr. Carl Gregg Doney, president of Willamette university will be the main speaker.

COURT ENJOYS REST AS ATTORNEYS PLAN EVOLUTION BATTLE

depression just as the afternoon adjournment was taken. He walked out the streets of "It Ain't Gonna Rain No More."

All of the 12 jurors who will sit in the case of Scopes have "heard of evolution" according to their replies to Darrow's examination. Most of them heard every line of it "just the thing came up."

"Have you heard Mr. Bryan talk on evolution?" was one of the Chicago lawyer's frequent questions. He frequently wished to know the prospect had heard his minister talk about evolution. Some of them had and some of them couldn't remember if they had.

Darrow asked every juror about his church affiliations.

Darrow appeared to put much stress in how the jurymen felt about the opinions of his neighbors. He asked each candidate if he knew what his neighbors thought of evolution and whether he cared anything about his neighbor's opinion on the subject. The

PLANS FOR FLAX TOUR THRU POLK ARE ANNOUNCED

The chamber of commerce here has received detailed advice from Mrs. Winnie Braden, secretary from the Dallas chamber of commerce, relative to the Polk county flax demonstration tour which is to be staged Wednesday, July 15, and an invitation to being extended to those interested. Many prominent Salem and Portland men are expected to participate.

BATHING BEACH TO OPEN SUNDAY

Broadripple beach, new swimming resort on the west side of the Willamette river, located opposite the foot of Court street, will open for business tomorrow.

Workers have been busy constructing the portable dressing rooms for men and women since last Thursday.

A five-piece orchestra will play during the late afternoon and early evening as part of the grand opening of the resort.

Broadripple Beach, the name newly selected, is situated at a spot never before used for swimming in the Willamette river, except by a few youngsters who swim everywhere. A large quantity of sand has been deposited on the bank, above and below the water, by the river in recent years, making a place for swimmers to roll in the sand was one of the water and furnishing a smooth bottom for waders. There is a gentle eddy, barely noticeable, flowing past the beach. Dennyson's bathing establishment, a favorite resort for Salem swimmers for a number of years, was situated almost exactly opposite the new bathing beach. For several years there was a swimming resort located a few hundred feet down the river, on the opposite side of the Marion-Polk county bridge.

Entrances to the new establishment is difficult from the Polk county side, persons attempting to gain access from there being forced to pass through the grassy side auto camp, which customarily charges a fee. J. Spour, owner of the bathhouse at the foot of Court street, on the Marion county side of the river, is to take bathers across the river in his launch. The bathing resort is to be operated in conjunction with Spour's bathhouse.

ATTORNEYS PLAN SCOPES CASE BATTLE

money introduced as a matter for the information of the presiding judge, to be dealt with afterwards as he sees fit.

Seek to Limit Scope. Prosecution attorneys on the other hand consider the case one as only the question of whether or not John Thomas Scopes taught that man descended from a lower order of animal was involved. Basing their contentions upon this view they have announced their intention of making a supreme effort to prevent the trial from leaving the legal course and trailing into a religious and scientific controversy.

The only issue, Attorney General Stewart said last night is whether or not Scopes taught that man descended from a lower form of animal.

The administration of the oath to the jury Monday, followed by the reading of the indictment and the arraignment of the defendant will bring the opposing counsel together for their real clash in the trial.

Clash Indicated. Symptoms of such a clash were revealed several times yesterday in the objections of Mr. Stewart to the manner of questioning pursued by Clarence Darrow in examining prospective jurors. Mr. Stewart, both at a brief exchange of views of opposing attorneys and during the selection of the jury, objected strenuously to the injection into the trial anything which would indicate that it would develop into an attempt to reconcile the theory of evolution with the Bible.

In a statement to the Associated Press last night he said: "Since the defense has made known its position concerning the competency of scientists tending to show that there is no conflict between evolution and the Bible, I think it but right that our position should be definitely stated and that it might be understood that we intend to back our program as vigorously as we can."

The law itself says that it shall not be taught to the students in the public schools that man descended from a lower order of animal.

Violation Held Evident. "If this be true," he said, "he is guilty of the violation of the law and all the evidence of the scientists within his reach cannot save him. The law itself says that it shall not be taught to the students in the public schools that man descended from a lower order of animal."

Whether or not scientists might be brought into court to explain the belief that man descended from a lower order of animal by the process of God's creation, he felt would make no difference, deciding the law says such cannot be taught.

Production of expert witnesses by both sides, he said, would lead to a "never ending proposition and would in the end be but a babble of tongues."

Ben Maxwell, former resident of Salem, and a graduate of the University of Oregon, was in Salem on business today. He is at present working on the news staff of the Northwestern Oregon News, at Marshfield. Mr. Maxwell graduated from the school of journalism at the state university last spring. His wife is at present attending summer school at Eugene.
