Olympia, Wash.—The apparent success of an experiment in converting horse flesh into hog feed has given rise to the hope among eastern Washington stockmen that a practicable means has at last been found to rid Washington ranges of thousands of worthless wild horses, declares Harold Dolyns, field leader for the biological survey, who returned recently from a coyote hunting trip in Benton county. Cattle men and wool growers have long considered the horses a menace to the livestock industry, since the animals, described locally as "knob-head Cayuses," place an added burden on the none too abundant range.

Washington.—The heat of the sun has a proven relation not only to changes in the earth's temperature, but to the variations in weather conditions in general. Smithsonian institution scientists have decided after experiments covering a long period. To increase the dependability of their observations, the experts hope to establish within a few years stations in various parts of the world where data can be gathered.

Schiffersstadt, Germany.—A brook charged with electricity proved fatal to one of a team of horses recently when the owner drove into the stream to wash the wheels of his carriage. As soon as the horses touched the water one of them dropped dead, while the other after frantic efforts managed to break loose from the harness and galloped out of the water. Investigation showed that the brook was charged with electricity, transmitted from a subterranean installation of power plant.

COOPERATIVES SUCCESSFUL IN DENMARK, CLAIM

The principal of cooperation among farmers has been successfully used in Denmark, and at the present time is practically the only method used in marketing dairy products, eggs, pork and other things produced by Danish farmers, Peter Guldbrandson, resident of Denmark, told members of the Salem Rotary club at their luncheon this noon. Mr. Guldbrandson is a journalist visiting in Salem, having been sent to this country from Denmark.

Denmark, he declared, is the most prosperous country in Europe, most of its prosperity being due to the success with which the farmers have met in their efforts to band together and eliminate their private interests in handling their goods. The same principle has also been successfully applied to buying. Guldbrandson stated that the first cooperative dairy was established in Denmark in 1831. It met with success, and the idea has been adopted to such an extent that there are now thousands of similar plants throughout Denmark. When a cooperative dairy is organized a group of farmers get together, each furnishing his share of the expense of putting up the building and purchasing equipment, and each pledging to support the dairy by bringing to it the produce from a certain number of cows.

Eggs, pork and other products are marketed on the same principle, the speaker indicated, with the same success. Ninety per cent of the eggs that are killed in Denmark are bottles red of cooperative societies, of which there are 25 in the country.

Each farmer supporting the cooperative plant has one vote in its management. Experts are emphatic in their opinion that the cooperative management of products turned out is reputed to be the best in the world.

Eggs are marketed individually by means of an ingenious system, so that a product that is not fresh can be traced back to the producer who sold it to the cooperative market.

The Papermakers and the Eagles of the Burdona league will meet on the Oxford park diamond this evening in the first game of a three-game series to decide the champion of the league. The game promises to be hard fought and it is expected that the series will go the full three games as both teams are about evenly matched.

The second game of the series will be played next Tuesday evening. If the same team should win both games it will not be necessary to play the third.

The managers of the Twilight league will meet next Friday and will more than likely decide the date for the play-off between the Casey and the Bankers for the right to meet the Legion in a three game series for the championship of the Twilight league. The game will probably be played next week. The Knights and the Bankers are now tied for second place.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 15.—(A. P.)—The county grand jury will be soon confronted with the delicate task of ascertaining how loud a man may roar without provoking an attack by a neighbor.

COMEDY DRAMA ON TODAY'S BILL AT CHAUTAUQUA

"Daddy Long Legs," comedy drama that made itself famous by a season of pronounced success in New York city, will be presented at the Ellison-White Chautauqua tent tonight.

This afternoon's program was given over to the youngsters, with Miss Margaret Myers and modeling artists in charge. A number of the old folks were also present and apparently got as much enjoyment from the affair as did the younger generation.

Captain T. Dinmore Upton gave his lecture on "The Player in the Shadow," at the Chautauqua tent last night. The lecture had to do with child welfare work, upon which Captain Upton is an authority of note. He showed the value of directing the efforts, thoughts and attentions of children as they grow to maturity, stating that their early training has much to do with their adult life. The speech itself was largely to the youngsters.

The Charles Mitchell Mixer concert trio gave a prelude to the lecture.

Portland, July 15.—(A.P.)—Drill team contests and a meeting of the grand lodge were the features today of the state's first annual session of the grand lodge of the Independent and Protective Order of Elks, in session here. Medford, July 15.—Suit for collection of subscription to stock for the construction of the Lillian hotel at Ashland, was filed in the circuit court Tuesday by the Lillian hotel corporation against Laura J. Howard and Ira Reeder. Judgment for $500 is sought against Laura J. Howard and for $250 against Reeder.

The complaint against Howard charges that when solicited to aid in the building of the tourist hotel she subscribed $500 worth of shares and has made no payments since.

In the Reeder suit, it is charged $300 was subscribed and $20 paid. Interest at six per cent since May first last, and costs are also asked.

There is now approximately $15,000 due and owing from Ashland citizens who subscribed to the hotel project.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 15.—The honest man for whom Diogenes looked and could not find, walked into police station here last night carrying a large mean pistol. After detectives had pounced on him and confiscated the gun he gave his name as Herbert Howard, negro janitor of a branch bank. Confining his captors to calm themselves and listen. He explained that while sweeping out the bank he found a fat bundle of currency on the floor and had come to turn it over to the police for safekeeping until morning. The pistol was the bank's. He had brought it along to protect himself and the $1100 from possible less honest pedestrians.

clared that before the prosecution could convict Scopes of a violation of the act, the prosecution must prove first that Scopes taught a theory that denies the story of the divine creation of man as taught in the Bible and second, "that instead and in the place of this theory he taught that man is descended from a lower order of animals."

"The defense contends that to convict Scopes the prosecution must prove that Scopes not only taught the theory of evolution, but that he also and at the same time denied the theory of creation as set forth in the bible," he asserted.

"The defense contends the prosecution must prove that the defendant Scopes did these two things and that what he taught was a violation of the statute."
