

POTATO VALUES BELOW NORMAL FOR 1924 CROP

Portland, July 17.—Potato values never found a better market in the Pacific northwest during the marketing of the 1924 crop, the Portland Telegram says today. Figures furnished by the United States bureau of crop estimates in July, 1924, indicated 6,000,000 bushel decrease, following a 10,000,000 decrease the previous year. But the situation was completely overshadowed by the tremendous crop harvested east of the Rocky mountains with the result that the bulk of the Washington crop was sold for less than 42¢ per ton, F. O. B. Yakima and the market here gave a crop never entered its accustomed channels of trade. Oregon's crop was slow maturing. There was practically no demand for storage so that no price was established for Burbanks up to the close of the year.

The late summer crop in Malheur county, Oregon, did not have the success of the previous year. So much of the crop that was expected to move in August and September held over and was seeking a market in the early winter. Demand for Western Oregon Burbanks opened with zest in January at $1.50 to the growers and boomed to $2 by February 1. A slump set in almost overnight from which it never recovered. Only a nominal market existed from then until April 15 when it was $1.40. A sudden realization of the depletion of stocks on this coast has given a sharp recovery but in the meantime the stocks had been lost by cold weather, fed to stock and peddled out in small lots so the sharp advance to $2.25 found practically no supplies available.

WOOL MARKET IS REPORTED SLOW

London, Mass., July 17.—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say: "The wool market has made little progress this week. London has been somewhat irregular on the whole, as compared with London, giving the trade cause for analysis of the situation. The net result of this is that the market is about where they were, locally, although the tendency in the country might be against the buyer."

The best feature of the foreign primary markets has been the good clearances and the evident healthy state of affairs which caused these good sales. Melbourne remained on Monday about five per cent above the May suspension level.

London has been subjected to heavy withdrawals this week, largely due to the selection, although the possibilities of a strike over the proposed five per cent wage reduction in Yorkshire at the end of the month probably is exerting a restraining influence upon buyers.

"The goods market here is without material change but seems to be in fairly healthy condition. "Wool is nominally unchanged on practically no demand."

The Commercial Bulletin will publish the following wool quotations:

Oregon—Eastern number one staple $1.30 @ 1.35; fine and fine medium combing $1.22 @ 1.27; eastern clothing $1.19 @ 1.15; valley No. 1 $1.10 @ 1.15.

CANNERY STILL BUSY PACKING LOGANBERRIES
The new Pacific Cannery in West Salem is still working on loganberries and operations are expected to continue through next week. Loganberries still are being received by Libby, McNeil & Libby at the Salem Fruit Union plant and it also is expected deliveries there will continue up to the latter part of next week.

Lou Gehrig, "home run slugger of the high schools," uncorked a four bagger with a man on base with Red Faber of the White Sox on the hill and put the Yankees in front. The lead was not held long as the Sox bunched hits afterward on Walte Hoyt and chalked up their second victory in a row.

CONVENTION OF POULTRYMEN TO OPEN NEXT WEEK

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, July 17.—The third annual convention of Oregon poultrymen will be held at the state college July 22 to 24. Speakers, considered authorities in their field, will be present to discuss questions of interest to the poultrymen. Governor Walter M. Pierce will address the convention Wednesday on "Oregon's Agricultural Outlook," while W. A. Lippincott, professor of poultry husbandry at the University of California, will discuss "Principles of Poultry Breeding." The poultry department at the college maintains two fairs. The home farm is located on the campus and is used for student practice and demonstrations. The south farm, used for experimental station breeding work, is located south of the home plant. Demonstrations will be given at both plants during the convention.

Delegates who attended the convention last year feel it is of great importance to be present. Our poultryman wrote that the information gained last year saved him $500. Many poultry keepers look upon the convention as a vacation—three days filled with information of great value.

In addition to the regular program of lectures and demonstrations, recreational features have been planned. Among the social features will be a "get acquainted" hour at supper from 5 to 7:30 o'clock, baseball, barnyard dog and picnic lunches will offer recreation to vary the program. Meals will also be served at the cafeteria in Waldo-hall.

Other speakers will be H. E. Cosby, extension specialist in poultry husbandry at the college; R. S. Durkee, president of the Pacific Poultry Producers' association; F. E. Fox, associate professor of poultry husbandry at the college; G. H. Hyslop, professor of farm crops; James T. Jardine, director of the experiment station; W. T. Johnson, poultry pathologist of the experiment station; F. L. Knowlton, poultry husbandman of the station; A. G. Lunn, professor of poultry husbandry; E. T. Reed, college editor, and H. A. Schott, assistant agronomist of the United States department of agriculture.

ZBYSZKO DEFEATS GOBAR
Portland, July 17.—Stanislaus Zbyszko, ex-heavyweight wrestling champion, won two straight falls last night from Jatriada Gobar, Hindu heavyweight. He took the first in thirty minutes with a croch and half Nelson and the second with a flying mare in seven minutes, 30 seconds.

Ira Bern of Salt Lake and Billy Edwards, Kansas City, light heavyweights meet in a return match tonight.

11 CENTS IS PAID FOR 40S OF NEW CROP OF PRUNES

New crop prunes are beginning to move some in the market according to reports here, prices quoted being 11 cents for 30s and 8 1/2 cents for 40s.

The first of these 1925 crop sales was announced a time ago. In a report that the Washington Growers association had disposed of some prunes at these prices. The Drager Fruit company also has sold some new crop prunes at these prices, and there is a report that sales along the same line have been made by the North Pacific Exchange.

All told, it is estimated, not more than 10 cars of the new crop have been contracted for although interest is being shown.

ALBANY CANNERY TO HANDLE BEETS

Albany, July 17.—Operations at the Albany cannery will take on a new face today when the first beets will be processed and canned.

Mr. Spencer said that he expects the beets to run about 10 tons for today's run and that about 40 tons will be canned in the fall, after the last pull. Most of these beets come from near Lebanon, where they were being raised for the Oregon Canning company, whose contracts the Hunt Brothers cannery purchased when the Lebanon plant was taken by the Oregon company.

It is planned to run about 150 tons of stringless beans as soon as the Eugene growers of beans start shipping. The beans and what few evergreen blackberries can be obtained will keep the plant open and in operation until about September 15, according to the manager.

The Athletics hung up their consecutive victory when they beat the White Sox for the third time in a row yesterday, behind the great pitching of Slim Harris and the timely hitting of his teammates.

GOVERNOR ASKS DRUNKEN DRIVER ACT BE ENFORCED

That the courts of the state enforce the drunken driver act of the 1925 legislature, and not substitute charges of "reckless driving" for "driving while intoxicated" is the plea of Governor Pierce in a statement issued today. He states that he does not want it to become necessary to call upon the attorney general to appear as a prosecuting officer in these cases.

"I ask all courts in the state," says the governor, "to enforce this act, and to refuse to accept a plea for reckless driving when in fact the crime is the greater one of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. I do not wish to call upon the attorney general to appear in any of the courts of this state as a prosecuting officer, but it may be necessary to do so should complaints continue to come to this office that the intent of this statute is being nullified and set aside by the substitution in our courts of the lesser charge of 'reckless driving.' I call upon all enforcement officers of the state to cooperate to the utmost in the strict enforcement of this law."

Receipts of letters asking executive clemency in two cases of violation of the law, and several complaints that the courts are substituting the lesser charge caused the governor to make the statement.

The penalty under the drunken driver act is fine, imprisonment and revocation of driver's license.

"As a result of pleading guilty to the lesser crime of 'reckless driving,'" says the statement, "a small fine is assessed and the defendants escape the more drastic law. They are given their liberty and may again go upon our highways and menace life and property."

WEARING CLOTHES IN SWIMMING ASSAILED

London.—By way of a change from religious and philosophical topics, Dean Inge has entered the realm of hygiene. Preaching at a dinner of the Sunlight league, which aims at the abolition of smoke and slums, he said in his opinion sea bathing could be employed to the betterment of health.

"The present practice," he continued, "of mixed bathing, with the body completely clothed may be an agreeable social function, but hygienically it is practically useless. I deprecate the absurd restrictions of some of the town councils of our seaports in this connection. I suggest that at certain hours of the day on certain parts of the beach, men be encouraged to run about with the minimum amount of clothing, an exceedingly healthy recreation.

"As for women, another portion of the beach, properly safeguarded from intrusion, might be reserved and enclosed for their similar recreation."
