

CALIFORNIA BAN ON CHERRIES IS OVERWORKED

How strictly the state of California put its ban on Oregon black cherries became apparent today when an express bill for two boxes of cherries shipped to Los Angeles early in the season was thrown back here for collection, with the statement that the cherries were under the ban and consequently were destroyed.

The cherries, produced by the Pacific Fruit & Produce company early in the season for the black cherry association, being sent to Los Angeles as samples of the cherries here this season. The cherries were in absolutely perfect condition, not a sign of a worm or blemish on them. No mention was made of anything wrong with cherries in the notice sent of their rejection and destruction, merely that the cherries from this district were banned and consequently seized and destroyed.

Because of the quality of the cherries shippers here are satisfied that their destruction was by the mouth route of California officials, as no official in his right mind would have destroyed the brand of cherries sent out in any other way.

EQUIPMENT OF FRUIT UNION IS GIVEN CREDITORS

Another order, this time turning over to the Northwest Fruit Products company property belonging to the Salem Fruit Union of an estimated value of $5000, has been entered in circuit court on petition of C. M. Mial, receiver for the Salem Fruit Union. The Salem Fruit Union building already has been turned over to the fruit products company on court order, being taken in at a valuation of $35,000. With the two orders the fruit union has been left with $40,000 of the $10,000 judgment held against it by the Phez company, of which the Northwest Fruit Products company is the successor.

The property included in the latest order is made up of personal holdings of the Salem Fruit Union, such as prune grader, prune processor, barrel processor, motors, scales, trucks, lifting and pulling machines, safe, stove, desks and similar property.

By this transaction it is understood about all of the available property of the Salem Fruit Union has come into the hands of the Northwest Fruit Products company and the judgment cleaned up about as far as it ever will be.

THOMAS A. WISE 85 "SIR ANTHONY"

All Star Cast in "The Rivals"

CHAUNCEY OLCOTT of "SIR LUCIUS" JAMES T. POWERS of "BOB ACRES"

MRS. FISKE of "MRS. MALAPROP"

CRITIC PRAISES "THE RIVALS" IN LECTURE HERE

One of the three only plays written in three centuries, produced by the best cast assembled for its production in twenty-nine years, and probably the best production from the artistic standpoint in all the three hundred years, will be offered at the Sale public at the Grand theater next Saturday evening, said Clayton Hamilton, teacher, author and famous dramatic critic, in a lecture at the Oregon theater this morning. Mr. Hamilton appeared before the local audience under the auspices of the Salem branch of the American Association of University Women and spoke for an hour on Richard Brinsley Sheridan's famous play, "The Rivals," which Mrs. Fiske, Chauncey Olcott, Thomas A. Wise, James T. Powers, and others will present in person here next week.

The play which Sheridan wrote at the age of twenty-three, and his second famous comedy, "The School for Scandal," produced when he was twenty-five, and Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," are the only three plays written in the English language which have lived through the three hundred years following Shakespeare's death. Hamilton says Sheridan wrote two thirds of the only real drama in three centuries not because he attempted something new and different but because he took a plot that he knew had always been a good plot, and therefore all ways would be, and inventing it applied his life's motto—doing conventionally what everyone else was doing and doing it better than anyone else could possibly do it. In his droll and inimitable way

Hamilton graphically described Sheridan—the man, his manners, his "front page" personality, and the period in which he lived. He told humorous anecdotes of his boyhood days, of his romantic elopement and marriage at the age of twenty-one, of his writing "The Rivals" between dinner engagements, because he was sorely pressed for money. He drew vivid pictures of fascinating personality which dominated "the entertaining and thoroughly delightful" period in history.

During the twenty years that he was dramatic critic for leading American magazines Hamilton said he viewed perhaps a half hundred professional productions of "The Rivals." Only once during that time was it produced by a cast that equaled the group which is touring the leading cities of the United States this year with the play in observance of the sesquicentennial celebration of the first production at Covent Garden on January 17, 1775. That was in 1896, said Mr. Hamilton, when Joseph Jefferson, Nat. C. Goodwin, Mrs. John Drew, and Julia Marlowe appeared together.

The present company has been touring together since November. They will appear here only one night—Saturday, July 25.

PRODUCE DEALER PRAISES LABISH CELERY HIGHLY

Brooks, July 18—M. H. Anderson, of the Randolph Marketing company of Los Angeles, stopped on his way from a coast trip to interview R. E. Jones and look over the Labish celery crop. He stated that Labish celery had gained so much favor in the markets throughout the middle west and south that he wished to see some of it in the process of making and the kind of land that produced it. When asked after his inspection of the fields and some of the cut stock, what his opinion was of it, he said, "That's great celery!"

WHEAT HARVEST IN LANE COUNTY STARTS

Eugene, July 18—Fall sown wheat is being cut in Lane county, the harvesting operations starting this week. The harvest is expected to carry over into next week and possibly a little longer. Excessive heat of the past few days has not damaged the wheat to any extent, as no winds accompanied the hot spell. A slight shriveling has been noticed in some parts however.

Spring sown wheat is looking well, and the stands hold every indication of good yields.

DEFENSE PREPARING SCIENTIFIC DATA FOR COURT SUBMISSION

ments should be prepared and admitted in the record.

While Dayton moved calmly and seemingly untroubled about his business heated statements from members of the defense counsel seemed to indicate that storm clouds were breaking in those quarters.

The first indication came yesterday in the form of a none too closely veiled expression from Clarence Darrow to Judge Raubston.

Several of the scientific experts called to testify today were preparing to return to their respective homes after placing their testimony in affidavit form. Maynard M. Metcalf, former head of the zoological department of Oberlin college and first scientific witness for the defense, left early today.

The exclusion of expert testimony was characterized by John H. Neal, chief counsel for the defense, as the death of the last hope of the defense for winning the trial.

Clarence Darrow was more vehement in his declaration that the defense would seek "justice in the higher courts." In a statement issued last yesterday he asserted that William Jennings Bryan was responsible for shifting the scales in favor of the prosecution.

Mr. Bryan, himself, declared that under the rules governing the admission of evidence in Tennessee courts, Judge Raubston could not have done otherwise than exclude it.

Attorney General A. T. Stewart, pronounced the decision a glorious victory for the state. The taking of testimony from the scientific witnesses proceeded far into the night as under the direction of Mr. Darrow, a corps of court stenographers busied themselves in preparing affidavits.

Frankie Finch, star second sacker of the Giants, failed to hit Malls, after hitting safely in 19 consecutive games.

BRAZILIAN RADIO FANS PAY FOR THEIR PROGRAMS

Rio de Janeiro—The honesty of radio fans in Brazil is the basis used by the principal broadcasting station at Rio de Janeiro for securing operating funds. Persons with sets who listen in on the programs are expected to enroll as members, the fee being $5.00 a year. There are now 2000 members.

Broadcasting is developing slowly in Brazil due to the high duty on foreign sets. Doubtless any those would be a big expansion in business if the broadcasters in the United States could force their nuclei through the heavy sea of stifle which prevents Brazil listening to American entertainments.
