

CIRCULATION
Daily average net paid circulation for month ending June 30, 1925
6729
Average daily distribution 7089.
Member Audit Bureau of Circulations.

Capital Journal

OREGON
AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE
JUL 21 1925
LIBRARY

FAIR WEATHER
In the interior tonight and Tuesday, mild temperature, gentle winds, mostly northerly.
Local: Max., 85; min., 50; rain, none, river, -1.3; atmosphere, clear; wind, north.

FORTY-SEVENTH YEAR No. 171 SALEM, OREGON, MONDAY, JULY 20, 1925 PRICE THREE CENTS ON TRAINS AND NEWS STANDS FIVE CENTS

CITE DARROW FOR CONTEMPT

GIRL RIDING IN CAR SHOT 2 BOYS HELD

Youths Admit Firing; Say They Did Not Realize Rifle Loaded; Victim Not Seriously Hurt.

Pearl Moore, 15 year old daughter of Jesse Moore, of Hopewell, this county, was shot in the back of the neck Saturday evening while riding in an automobile on the Hopewell-Wheatland road, the bullet passing through the right side of her neck, denting the main artery and going on into her right cheek, where it lodged near the nose. She will recover barring possibilities of infection.

Oswald Koenig, 14 year old, who did the shooting, and Eddie Koenig, his 16-year old brother, with him at the time, were picked up by Deputy Sheriff Bert Smith and Sam Burkhardt this morning and brought to Salem for questioning by Sheriff Bowser.

Both boys acknowledge their connection with the shooting, but both aver it was purely accidental, arising from a fact that neither of the boys supposed the 22-calibre Winchester repeating rifle with which the shooting was done was loaded.

According to the boys' story, they had been at Hopewell, a few miles from their home at the top of the Wheatland hill, and with some other boys had been firing the rifle at various targets. Starting home about 8:15 o'clock, they had been shooting at a number of objects along the road. Believing there was but one shell in the gun they stated that Oswald put the gun on the pavement, turned it toward the woods on the side of the road and shot it in the brush.

Oswald then abandoned the gun and they walked on. The car carrying Mrs. Moore, with Lloyd Moore, her brother, 20 years; August Fetz, 20 years and Walter

(Continued on Page Six)

MONTANA AGAIN SHAKEN BY QUAKE DAMAGE SLIGHT

Great Falls, Mont., July 20.—Slight earthquake was felt here at 10:07 this morning. It was not felt by pedestrians but people in buildings reported they felt a light shaking.

Helena, Mont., July 20.—(A. P.)—A distinct earthquake was felt here at 10:05 this morning. Beyond the stopping of a clock in a downtown business house, no damage was reported.

San Francisco, July 20.—(A. P.)—The sharp earthquake which was felt yesterday morning in the San Francisco bay district and south along the peninsula for a distance of 50 miles subsided without causing any damage, although momentary alarm was occasioned.

GRAIN SPECULATOR PLUNGES TO DEATH

Chicago, July 20.—(AP)—E. W. Wagner, formerly one of the biggest figures in the Chicago grain trade, whose firm failed for several years ago, was plunged to death today from the fifteenth story of the Westminster building, in the central business district.

The body dived to the roof of the Monroe theater. Mr. Wagner was about 60 years of age.

CARDINAL BEGIN IS DEAD

Quebec, Que., July 20.—(AP)—The body of Cardinal Begin, archbishop of Quebec and primate of Canada, who died yesterday, lay in state today in the chapel of the archbishop's palace. Next Saturday the son of a humble farmer, who became a prince of the Roman Catholic church will be buried in the crypt of the palace.

Despite his 55 years, the cardinal had resisted with fortitude an attack of uremia with which he was stricken a week ago.

napier

Mrs. MARY JONES

Mrs. Mary Jones faces a long prison term in New York following her conviction on a charge of kidnapping the young son of a woman who boarded her husband after he left her. The child, Raimonde Vos Maluski, has not been seen since Mrs. Jones is alleged to have taken him away in a taxi.

FRENCH PLAN TO LAUNCH DRIVE UPON RIFFIANS

Paris, July 20.—(A. P.)—France will start a great military offensive in Morocco against Abdel-Krim, Premier Painleve said today, if the Riffian leaders refuse peace terms offered him by semi-official Franco-Spanish agents.

The premier told today's cabinet meeting that Abdel-Krim knows the terms upon which he can have peace with France and Spain in Morocco and that the Riffian leader can open negotiations immediately, he desires.

The French front is so strengthened, the premier said, that there is no longer justification for any uneasiness.

Fez, Morocco, July 20.—(A. P.)—A lessening of the pressure by the Riffian tribesmen on the center of the French line has in some measure facilitated the work of flying columns in relieving outlying posts. Nevertheless the situation is as serious as ever for the propaganda of the Riffian chief, Abdel-Krim, continues to spread in the rear of the French line, notwithstanding the activities of the sultan's officers to prevent it.

The effort by Abdel-Krim to persuade tribesmen still loyal to the sultan and the French to join his cause constitutes a source of uneasiness, while the principal Riffian forces which are not engaged are known to be massing for a maneuver against Fez.

Marshal Petain, who has just reached Morocco from France to advise the French commanders, spent most of Sunday in consultation with the military leaders.

BOXER INDEMNITY OF SIX MILLION REMITTED

Washington, July 20.—The balance of $6,127,523 due the United States from the Chinese government on Boxer indemnity payments has been remitted by President Coolidge under congressional authority granted in May, 1924.

Coolidge Advised of Necessity of Strong Pacific Naval Base

Swampscott, Mass., July 20.—(AP)—Senator Hale, chairman of the senate naval committee, told President Coolidge today that he believed immediate steps should be taken to establish a strong base on the Pacific coast and to strengthen the Pearl Harbor, Hawaii defenses.

An optimistic report on farm conditions and the hope for a tax reduction were brought to the president today by Senator Curtis of Kansas, the republican leader.

STORY FAKED TO PREVENT EXECUTION

Detroit Telegrapher Confesses Claim He Witnessed Murder Made Up To Save Scott.

Chicago, July 20.—(AP)—Another ray of hope that of the amazing last hour developments that saved him from death on the gallows last Friday would become tangible enough to prove his innocence during a seven day reprieve has gone out for Russell Scott.

James M. Ball, a Detroit telegrapher, who last Friday declared that he witnessed the shooting of Joseph Maurer, Chicago drug clerk and that Russell was innocent of the slaying has admitted that the story was a romance, concocted "for the sake of humanity."

Thinks Scott Innocent
Ball said that he "told a lie to save one whom I believe innocent," but that when he found that his story was not accomplishing anything, he decided to admit the fact.

This was the second blow that Scott has received since his dramatic reprieve six hours before he was to hang. The stay of execution was ordered by Governor Len Small when a telegram from Detroit purporting to be from Robert Scott, the condemned man's brother, confessing the murder was received. According to Russell's story, Robert Scott, also under indictment did the shooting.

The sender of the telegram promised to surrender the next day, but nothing developed. Various other communications were received, however, one a letter purporting also to be from Robert, mailed in Chicago last Thursday night. In this it was stated that he was seriously ill, but would give himself up as soon as he was able.

May Have Faked Message
Scott's attorneys still are pinning hope for commutation on affidavits they said they had from two unnamed women, declaring to have been in the drugstore at the time of the shooting. So far as known, no official action has been taken in the case.

Ball indicated that he may have been the one who sent the Detroit telegram to the governor. Declaring that Scott's predicament preyed on his mind, the operator said he first decided to concoct a telegram purporting to be from Russell's brother. "But I thought it a little further and lastly struck the idea of representing myself as a witness."

GERMAN REPLY IS DELIVERED

Paris, July 20.—(AP)—The German security note was delivered to Foreign Minister Briand this afternoon. It will be published Wednesday.

Three Killed in Revolt
Lisbon, July 20.—(AP)—Three were killed and 15 were wounded in yesterday's revolution here. Lisbon is under martial law and the situation is calm.

Coolidge Busy SHAPING PLANS FOR CONGRESS

Swampscott, Mass., July 20.—With the congressional recess half gone, President Coolidge today began formulation of the administration's program for the December session.

The visit to the summer White House of Senator Curtis, the republican leader afforded the executive an opportunity of going over the legislative situation with one who will be called upon to carry into effect proposals of importance.

SCIENTISTS SAY CONFLICT IS IMAGINARY

Literal Interpretation of Bible Held Insult To Both God and Human Intelligence.

Court House, Dayton, Tenn., July 20.—Defense attorneys put into the Scopes trial record today statements by scientists upholding the theory of evolution.

Maynard M. Metcalf, zoologist, former head of the zoological department of Oberlin college, declared:

"There is no conflict, no least degree of conflict, between the Bible and the fact of evolution, but literal interpretation of the words of the Bible is not only futile; it is insulting both to God and to the human intelligence."

Would Stifle Minds.
"The fundamentalist," he said, "is trying to shut man's mind to God's ever growing revelation of himself to the human soul."

Evolution is visible today in both plant and animal world. It is (Continued on Page Five)

USE FEW HORSES ON ROADS HERE SURVEY SHOWS

Horsedrawn vehicles constitute less than one per cent of the total traffic on Oregon's highways, according to a survey conducted by the state highway department on June 17. The survey which covered 185 points on 33 different state highways accounted for a total of 110,655 vehicles of all descriptions of which only 1092 or .98 per cent were horsedrawn.

Passenger automobile constituted by far the heaviest part of the traffic with a total of 93,599 cars accounted for or 89.15 per cent of the total. Of this number 71,931 were Oregon cars and 21,668 were cars from other states. A total of 65,109 light trucks were accounted for and 3980 heavy trucks. Motorcycles numbered 814.

The heaviest traffic was found at a point on the Tualatin Valley highway, west of the junction near Beaverton, where 2819 vehicles were counted during the day, only five of which were horse drawn. Only ten vehicles were counted on the Ochoco highway at its junction with the John Day highway, all of this number being passenger automobiles bearing the Oregon license.

THREE INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Graham and their son, Robert, of 349 Oak street, Portland, were all badly out and bruised in an automobile accident on the Jefferson road just south of the point where the road joins South Commercial street, at about 5:15 o'clock Sunday night. The car in which they were riding, a sedan, was almost completely wrecked. The accident resulted from a collision with an automobile driven by P. F. Hobson of Albany, who was practically unharmed. Hobson's car struck through a wire fence beside the road and into a field, suffering considerable damage.

Graham's car, which was proceeding northward when the accident took place, was thrown into the ditch and turned completely around. Graham, who arrived at the scene a few minutes after the auto pointing south, but was brought to Salem.

HOT SESSION OF COUNCIL IN PROSPECT

Election of New Alderman, Vote On Parking Plan and Other Matters On Schedule Tonight.

Enough legislative dynamite to reduce the city hall to a tangle of ruins are stored up in the tentative program upon which the council is to be called to take action when it meets in regular session this evening. Holding the center of the stage are the election of an alderman from the sixth ward to succeed Damon Fleener, resigned, and acceptance of the new traffic ordinance carrying the head on system for Salem.

Contest for the seat resigned by Fleener will be between Fred Williams and Ray Smith, both local attorneys, and their friends, and the result was considered much in doubt this afternoon. Petitions for both of the candidates have been circulated in the ward and liberally signed, according to reports, but they had not been filed with the city recorder this afternoon.

Members of the council closely in touch with the situation this afternoon understood the council to be called to five between the two candidates this afternoon with three members still undecided.

Perhaps the warmest battle of the evening will be fought over the head-on parking plan, which will come in from the ordinance committee carrying. It is reported, a two-to-one report favoring its adoption. Here, also, the council is said to be closely divided and it is known that every effort to defeat the ordinance will be made by the jitney and taxi drivers of the city, who claim they would be compelled to move from their present stands on the downtown streets if the ordinance carries.

The proposal that the council call a special election for the purpose of submitting to the voters a $20,000 bond issue for the purchase of two additional buses will also be presented tonight, according to Alderman Dancy, who is sponsoring the scheme. Opposition to the proposal is expected to center chiefly around the condition of the city's finances. It is declared that the city has not got the $800 necessary to meet the expenses of a special election at this time.

Dancy seeks to have the special election held late in September or early in October, so that the new equipment might be purchased and placed in service by next summer if the bonds are approved.

It is further anticipated that the question of compelling or waiving compliance with the ordinance calling for covering of the north hill race upon which hinge the location of a $200,000 paper products mill in Salem, will come up for discussion.

The long-delayed consideration of a plumbing code for the city as framed in an ordinance already in file in the schedule tonight, and there is also the likelihood that this matter will be further complicated by the proposal to establish the office of city electrical inspector.

PAINTED KNEES EDICT FOR FALL

Chicago, July 19.—Landscaping such feminine knees as may from time to time be exposed by rolled stockings and perverse winds is advocated by beauty specialists who began a week's convention here today.

"Painted knees are the latest thing," said Mrs. Ruth Maxwell, presiding at the opening session. "Hand painted" notices on the knees are interesting. Some girls are already some elaborate, some girls prefer a flower or a group of blossoms. Others like a "painted" or "little landscape."

Women of the United States are expected to spend $2,000,000,000 to make themselves more attractively beautiful, one report to the convention asserted.

Location of Plant Here To Hinge on Council Attitude

A. D. Alpine of Seattle, one of the main movers in the proposed new $20,000 Western Paper Converting company, which is giving consideration to location in Salem on the old flouring mill site on Front street near the river, has arrived in Salem as forerunner of a meeting scheduled for some time this afternoon when it is expected backers of the project will make some definite decision as to what plans it proposes to work out in regard to Salem.

E. J. Moseley of Los Angeles, another leading backer of the project is on his way here by automobile expecting to reach here shortly after noon, and others are expected from Seattle and Portland.

It is known that the matter of covering and paving the Division street ditch which goes along with the property the new mill will secure from the Oregon Pulp & Paper company, if decision is reached to locate here, is a matter of distinct concern to the men behind the project. In fact it is understood from outside sources that the paving of this ditch may be a stumbling block over which location of the mill here may fall into the discard. Location of the mill in Salem is not yet a definite certainty, although there is no question that the company will go ahead with ample capital and develop a large project here or at some other point.

Men who have been long in the business of manufacturing paper products into envelopes and other manufactured commodities from (Continued on Page Five)

MEXICO ORDERS INQUIRY INTO SHOOTING FRAY

Mexico City, July 20.—(AP)—The department of the interior has ordered an investigation of the shooting of Harold G. Brotherton, United States vice-consul at Aguas Calientes.

Information here is that Brotherton was only slightly wounded but no details of the shooting have been received.

(Washington was advised Saturday that Mr. Brotherton was shot at Aguas Calientes on July 16. The cause was not explained, but the belief was expressed that the shot was intended for some one else. The American embassy at Mexico City was instructed by the state department to ask the Mexican for sign office to investigate and for punishment of the assailant.)

STAGE AND TRUCK RATES EXAMINED

Investigation into the rates and charges of a number of truck and stage lines operating in Oregon was instituted by the public service commission today on its own motion.

The lines under investigation include the Whitely Transfer company operating in Washington county; the Hillsboro Transfer company; Grant & King operating between Marshfield and Roseburg; Oregon Stages, operating from Portland south over the Pacific highway; Portland-Hillsboro-McMinnville Stages; Howard & Grimes, operating between Medford and Klamath Falls; Interurban Stage Co., operating between Ashland and Roseburg; Omas Stage Co., operating between Portland and Camas; Coast Auto Lines, operating between Coquille-Crescent City and Grants Pass; Portland-Newberg-McMinnville-Tillamook Stages; Portland-Salem-Albany Stages.

The investigation follows the receipt of numerous informal complaints to the effect that the rates and charges of these companies are unreasonable.

THREE SERIOUS FOREST FIRES ARE REPORTED

Seattle, Wash., July 20.—Three serious forest fires entailing heavy loss were burning today in different sections of western Washington. One blaze had destroyed green timber at Lyman, 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was blazing in the edge of green timber in the Doty lumber company's holdings in Lewis county after destroying timber at Lyman. 100 miles north of Seattle, in the Skagit mill company's holdings; another was burning in standing timber in the Olympic national forest west of Quilcane in eastern Jefferson county, and the third was