

PAPERMAKERS AND EAGLES VIE FOR TOP PLACE

Tonight the second of the three game series will be played between the Eagles and the Papermakers of the Soudown league. The Papermakers won the first game and are planning on copying the second game and make it unnecessary for a third one. The Eagles are also working hard and it should be a great battle.

The Eagles lost their first game but were handicapped to a certain extent as several of their regular players were out of the lineup and it was necessary to replace them with substitutes. They will have the regular lineup for the game tonight and are planning on making things even if they do, a third game will have to be played, the date to be decided at a later meeting. The Eagles have a good team and if they get in and play ball they will make the going rather rough for the Papermakers who have the best team in the league.

tached to it, but somehow people did seem to want their money when they thought it was coming to them and the bank was just auburn enough not to cash his checks when they ought to be able to see they were made out just like anyone else's.

He was discharged from the asylum here in February, 1920.

In again, out again Dutton came back, committed by Multnomah county authorities, in April, 1922. He left again the following June. It was the same old story—those people down there in Portland were so unreasonably about his checks.

He first broke into the limelight in Salem in 1922, during the time of the state fair. He was promoting a community house proposition this time, which was to represent the Santiana district—put it definitely on the map, and all that. He was to secure exhibits from Stanton and other thriving cities in the same general neck of the woods, and the theme of the state fair were to pass through the magnificent structure built especially for the purpose, and be duly impressed. It was a wonderful idea, but again he was met with a disgusting lack of confidence among business men. He wrote checks in payment for various materials with which to build the house, only to be met with that same failure of consideration, that same want of appreciation, which had marked his other magnificent schemes. They wouldn't even cash his checks. So the whole project went on the rocks, served them right, thought Dutton.

In the meantime, however, lumber dealers and others were making it hot for the promising promoter. But by now Dutton knew what came next. Of his own accord he walked out to the state hospital and reported for duty. There were some few details that may have influenced his going, it is true, but Dutton is given credit for volunteering that once, anyway.

A few months later he was sent out again into a waiting world. He went to work for a cand and gravel company in Portland, but soon felt himself slipping once more. So on June 22 he appeared again at the door of the building which had some to seem more or less of a

PERMIT FOR GAS STATION STANDS

The city council last night refused to rescind its action of two weeks ago by which it granted a permit for the erection of a gasoline service station on the Tuelson property at Capitol and Court streets.

A petition from property owners, headed by A. N. Bush, was read, asking that the action be rescinded, and R. K. Page appeared as attorney for the petitioners. Page said he would not go as far as to ask that the action be rescinded then and there, but he wanted a hearing on the question.

As a result of his talk before the council Alderman Patton, who supported the permit, moved for a reconsideration, but it was voted down.

It is understood that the injunction that was started against the establishment of the service station will now proceed.

home to him, and was welcomed by his associates. He had detoured all the way from Portland, acting upon the advice of friends and alienists who had examined him, not to say the stimulus inspired by more escapades in the financial world. He was locked up for several days, and then allowed parole privileges, being permitted to wander here and there at will. "Ordinarily he's just as normal as you or I," said Dr. Steiner yesterday. "It's just occasionally that he takes these spells and cashes a bunch of checks."

At any rate, during a period of exhilaration or something, he yesterday cashed three checks in Salem and there at will. "Ordinarily he's just as normal as you or I," said Dr. Steiner yesterday. "It's just occasionally that he takes these spells and cashes a bunch of checks."

He presented a check to Dr. H. H. Olinger in payment for dental services. The check said $50. Again the bank did not cooperate.

He presented a check to the Scotch Woollen Mill store for $20, receiving $4 in actual cash, $16 being in payment for clothing. Still the same result when the check turned up at the bank.

Dr. Steiner gave him no money, only undertaking to cash his check for him, so is out nothing. The woollen mill store has a suit of Dutton's, worth perhaps $50, that was to be cleaned and pressed, so probably will be able to recover. Whether or not Dr. Olinger can get back the teeth that he installed in Dutton's mouth, however, is considered a more serious question.

In the meantime Dutton is remaining at his home at the end of Center street, having well high lost his confidence in Salem business houses. Maybe he'll advise all his friends to use the west side highway or something—he isn't just sure.

FRED WILLIAMS NEW ALDERMAN FOR SIXTH WARD

By a vote of 8 to 5, Fred A. Williams was last night elected by the city council as a member of that body to succeed Damon Fleener as alderman from ward 6. Mr. Fleener resigned two weeks ago. Williams' opponent in the race was Ray L. Smith, former city attorney, and on the first ballot they were tied. Williams was elected on the second ballot.

Smith was placed in nomination by Alderman Galloway of ward 6 and Alderman Patton nominated Williams. An election was attempted immediately upon the resignation of Fleener two weeks ago when Patton nominated Williams. Galloway objected to the election at that time, however, explaining that he wanted to make a canvass of the sentiment in the ward, and out of consideration for Galloway the election was deferred two weeks.

Omit Wasted Footsteps Shop Through the Columns of the Capital Journal

PLODDING, plodding, ever trodding—trips here, trips there, all about the town—and most steps wasted because Madame Shopper goes unguided. Really, it's the end of a wasted day. Madame Shopper is worn and weary—without having accomplished her quest.

Of course, you can't expect Madam Shopper to know of all the good things, the good stores and the good values in town—no, not unless Madam Shopper reads the advertising each day in the Capital Journal.

How much easier everything moves in one's shopping tour, when one has first consulted the advertisements. There are the best offerings of the day listed in an orderly manner, the special services rendered by each store—where the stores are located—just like buying from a huge catalog in your home.

You'll profit by shopping through Capital Journal Advertisements
