INJUNCTION TO BLOCK BUILDING OF TOWER ASKED

Injunction proceedings have been started in circuit court against the Portland Electric Power company by A. J. Anderson and Elnis Wait to prevent the company from going ahead with completion of its 69 foot tower at Center and Water streets which is proposed to carry the high tension wires to be stretched across the river from the new station in West Salem.

In the complaint Anderson and Wait declare that they each own property on Water street and that the Portland Electric Power company is constructing its tower so that holes for the tower concrete foundations for the tower extend out into the intersection of Water and Center streets.

This construction, the complaint avers, will interfere with the development of those streets, prohibit the building up of such streets and interfere with travel on them and consequently damage their property.

At the company's offices today it was stated that the council had given permission for construction of the tower and immediate abutting property owners signed a statement saying there was no objection to such construction.

It is stated that the company is compelled to move the tower if it will be at great expense as it will necessitate placing part of it in the river, bringing a dredge up here from Portland and constructing a cofferdam and going to all of the expense incident to the construction of a pier for a large bridge.

TEST OF PLANES HELD SUCCESS

San Francisco, July 24.—Great satisfaction with the performance of the six new Curtiss pursuit planes which arrived here yesterday from Mount Clemens, Mich., to test the feasibility of the air mail route, for major purposes was expressed by Major Thomas G. Lanphier, commander of the flight.

The new 75 miles an hour machines, Major Lanphier said are economical, reliable and fast.

"With favorable winds it is possible to make a long no stop flight. We backed head winds coming into California and still were good for nearly 500 miles without refueling."

The last flight had been from Elko, Nev., where the planes were refueled.

Four days of easy flying brought the planes from the Michigan field from where they started Monday morning.

If squadrons of planes instead of single units are to be engaged in the air mail service, landing fields at many points will have to be enlarged. This was the chief fault found along the route by the commanding officer, who will make recommendations for the improvement of air mail facilities.

The planes will leave here on the return flight Sunday or Monday. Part of the return trip will be made at night.

DITCH FILL COMPROMISE IS FORSEEN

to the representatives of the proposed new Western Paper Converting company which is considering construction of a new plant on the Front street site. Along with this property goes the easement of the old ditch and it is because of this fact that the new company has an interest in the proposition. The company has virtually stated if the ditch proves to be too expensive a proposition to handle that it will seek other fields than Salem for the selection of a site.

Alderman Patton will approach the paper company representatives with a compromise plan on the expense which he believes is equitable.

Under the city charter abutting property owners, when a street is being graded for paving, can be assessed only for the cost of hauling the dirt a distance of four blocks from the point that it is taken out. If it is hauled further the city bears the extra expense.

By using dirt from streets that are being graded to fill the ditch, after it is filled as far as possible with dirt on the premises, Alderman Patton proposes to make a proposition to the company that they get together on the expense of hauling the dirt into the ditch any place from over the four-block limit. By this plan he believes the ditch can be filled at an expense of not to exceed $5000 or $6000 to the company, which would reduce a cost otherwise estimated in the neighborhood of $15,000 in event the company were required to bear all of the expense of the improvement.

Under a charter amendment passed last year the city is em-stated he agreed to the proposal and that Bloch showed up with the mash that afternoon. Five days later, Muno testified, Bloch started to run off the mash, which wasn't ready but Bloch ran it off anyway. Later, Muno stated, when he had learned to operate the still, he operated it himself over a period up to May 1, sometimes Bloch running it.

Muno declared the reason he reported Bloch to the officers was because Bloch had given him worthless checks in payment for Muno's work with the still, and when Muno tried to collect the money Bloch told him that he couldn't collect the rest and dared him to turn him in to the officer. Muno stated that he had one
