AGED DUMP TENDER FOUND NEARLY STARVED

Roseburg, Or., July 28.—Wilbur Atkinson, 85 years old, for 40 years a resident of Wasco county, and for ten years city dump tender at The Dalles, was found this morning helpless and slowly dying of starvation, at a point along the bank of the South Umpqua river within a few blocks of the heart of the city. For a month he had lain ill with disease and too sick to work and for two weeks had tasted no food other than a clover tea which he brewed himself. His health forced him to quit heavy work a year ago, he said, and he remained in The Dalles tending the city dump for 16 years. Finally he was unable to do that any longer and with his savings practically gone he came to Roseburg in search of something to do. At last almost penniless, and too proud to seek help or charity he crawled off to die. His condition finally attracted attention and he was removed this morning to the county hospital.

NO PLANS BY BRYAN TO MAKE 4TH CAMPAIGN

Dayton, Tenn., July 28.—(A. P.)—Reports that William Jennings Bryan hoped to make another campaign for the presidency or he planned to make his advocacy of fundamentalism a means to such an end, are without foundation in truth, insofar as intimate associates of the dead statesman are able to know with certainty. Will E. Thomson, secretary to Mr. Bryan for the past four years told the Associated Press today.

"I base this assertion, not only on my intimate acquaintance with Mr. Bryan but on his own recent statement," Mr. Thomson said. "Mr. Bryan emphatically repudiated in this utterance any such purpose or expectation."

The last years of the commoner, the secretary asserted, were given over largely to religious affairs, advocacy of his principles of orthodox having supplanted to a large extent his active participation in the political world.

"Although his active political life was long before my connection with Mr. Bryan, I know from my close association with those who were with his household in those days and from Mr. Bryan's own remarks, that the deaths he sustained in his candidacies for the presidency had no embittering effect on his spirit," Mr. Thomson said.

"The former secretary of state used frequently to refer in good humor to his bitterness in the political campaign. He never lost his full confidence in the right and the ability of people to rule."

AUTO OWNERS URGED TO APPLY FOR CERTIFICATES

No law enacted within recent years affects as many of the residents of Oregon as the act enacted at the 1925 legislature for the re-enactment of title of motor vehicles within the state through the issuance of certificates of title and evidence of registration, and to regulate the purchase, sale or other transfer of ownership of motor vehicles. Declares Secretary of State Koser.

The law went into effect July 1, and allowed only a little more than thirty days within which to make provision for its administration, while in practically every other state having a similar law, six months to a year was allowed for the purpose. It has been physically impossible to provide the necessary machinery and facilities within the limited time, but it is expected that certificates of title for every motor vehicle operated in Oregon will be issued by December 1, 1925. Every motor vehicle owner in the state who has not already applied for the required certificate of title is urged to do so immediately. It is estimated that by the end of 1925 there will be between 210,000 and 215,000 motor vehicles in Oregon.

Ten or twelve states have a similar law to the Oregon law. In those states it is claimed that vehicle thefts have been greatly reduced, and also that the existence of such a law has had a material effect upon the rates charged by insurance companies in connection with insurance on motor vehicles.

Applications are being returned to the secretary of state at the rate of from 2000 to 5000 per day, and it will require the issuance of from 2000 to 3000 certificates each day every motor vehicle owner will be provided with a certificate of title by that time.

"No motor vehicle can be transferred from one person to another without a certificate of title," said Koser today, "and in those cases of transfer since July 1 the record owner at that date will be required to make application for certificate of title, which certificate can then be transferred by him to the person to whom he has sold the vehicle subsequent to that date."

"Again, no 1926 motor vehicle license can be issued for any motor vehicle owned and operated in this state unless a certificate of title is first issued. In view of this it becomes necessary for every motor vehicle owner in Oregon to secure a certificate of title for his motor vehicle so as to pave the way for the issuing of 1926 licenses which will be taken up early in the month of November as has been the practice for many years past."

JURY DECIDES PARENTAGE OF GIRL'S INFANT

The constitutionality of it has gone through a court case in this county. The statute was enacted in 1917.

Under the provisions of the statute upon conviction the father of an illegitimate child becomes responsible for its support for a period of 14 years, the child is permitted to take the name of its father and is granted equal rights of inheritance with all children born in lawful wedlock.

Validity Upheld. Attorney Walter Z. Keyes for Zielski attacked the constitutionality of the statute on the completion of testimony, setting up the following contentions:

That it provides for imprisonment for debt.

That it provides for imprisonment without limitation of time.

That it requires the accused to give a bond or to go to jail through failure to post a bond.

All of these contentions were overruled by the court.

Arguments were made this morning by Attorney Walter C. Winslow for Helen Ganiard, mother of the child involved in the case, and by Keyes for Zielski, reputed to be father of the child, according to the complaint.

Defendant's Letter. One of the central bits of evidence was a letter written by Zielski to the girl on March 15, 1923, in which he used numerous endearing terms, and which the plaintiff's attorney declared, the defendant by intimation admitted the charge against him.

Contentions by the defense were that the girl had associated with a number of young men in the community and that such association threw a cloud over the allegation that Zielski was parent of the child.

A peculiar situation arose in the court room this morning when Attorney Winslow, pleading for the future of the child, terrified the infant with his thundering tones and it cried lustily, recalling that its future social welfare largely depended upon what was being said to the jury.

The jury was made up of ten men and two women.

WATTS CASE GUARDIANSHIP HELD LEGAL

Dismisses Attorneys Because Mr. Ford advised her against a certain lease she took the management from his hands, after she became acquainted with the McElroy and Mrs. Watson, and placed it into the hands of the late A. O. Condit, her father, who she relieved Condit of her affairs. She followed this by making two separate warranty deeds, conveying to McElroy and Mrs. Watson all of her real property for the consideration of $500 for one tract and the nominal sum of $10 for another. At the same time she assigned and transferred to McElroy and Mrs. Watson several notes.

OSWALD WEST WINS JUDGMENT OF $19,685 FROM COOS COUNTY

West entered into an agreement with the county judges of Coos and Douglas counties whereby his compensation would be 4 per cent of the amount recovered by Coos county for taxes, or $19,685.65. This agreement was approved by the Coos county court and a contract made with West. But when West presented the claim the court would allow him only $1,000. It was held that the employment of West was illegal and contrary to public policy, that the services of West were lobbying secured by mortgages. The only actual consideration received by Miss Watt was the alleged care given her by the McElroys and Mrs. Watson, their promise to maintain her during her life and to pay her an annuity of $200 in installments of $100. An agreement to this effect was drawn up and officially recorded. No security was given by the McElroys and Mrs. Watson for the faithful performance of their part of the agreement.

Given To Strangers. At the time these transactions were made the McElroy and Mrs. Watson were comparative strangers in Salem, says the opinion, and after Miss Watt became acquainted with Mrs. Watson and had lived with her awhile, they moved from the house owned by Miss Watt on Chemekeka street to a four-acre tract a short distance south of the city limits of Salem where they have lived since in a small cheap house, a part of which was formerly used as a chicken house. Since this removal her property on Chemekeka street has been occupied by Mrs. McElroy while McElroy himself has spent part of the time with her and part of it with Mrs. Watson and Miss Watt on the four-acre tract.

The foregoing statement of facts, says the opinion, is undisputed and is taken from the testimony of McElroy and Mrs. Watson.

Distant Relatives. The court finds that Attorneys Ford and Condit acted for Miss Watt with the utmost integrity. There is evidence that McElroy made disparaging remarks about Ford and referred to Condit as being "worse than Ford."

The conduct of the petitioners, the opinion says, has been above reproach relative to Miss Watt, as far as disclosed by the record. They are related to her, though not next of kin, and the probability of their ever receiving any of her property is remote, so there is no evidence of selfish motives.

Testimony as to the mental capacity of Miss Watt was conflicting but all the witnesses for the petitioners were of the opinion that she was not capable unassisted to manage her business affairs, and this also is the opinion of the court.

Johns age 72 years, husband of Mrs. Edith Johns, father of Miss Mamie Johns, Mrs. Beattie Schultz and Jesse Johns all of Salem, Mrs. Isabel Rutherford of Mill City, Miss Gabriella Johns and Eugene Johns of San Francisco. Mr. Johns was a member of the pioneer family of Johns, his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. John A. Johns, settling on a donation claim just south of Salem on the Riverside drive, where the deceased was born May 27th, 1853. Funeral services will be held Wednesday July 29, at 2 p. m. instead of on Tuesday, as previously announced. The Rigdon mortuary will be in charge. Rev. J. J. Evans will officiate, with interment in St. Barbara cemetery.

services and the contract a lobbying contract. It was alleged that County Judge James Watson was recalled at an election June 3, '19, and that when West entered into the agreement with Watson and County Judge R. W. Marsters of Douglas county both he and Watson knew the outcome of that election.

The supreme court opinion states that the supreme court has found no error in the record, and on that basis upholds the lower court.

BOOTLEGGER BLOCH GETS YEAR IN PEN AND FINE OF $1000

Arcadia. According to the evidence he put up to Muno, a rancher living a few miles from the city with his wife and his 13 and 15 year old daughters, that he is permitted to operate a still on the Muno place for a considerable time. Poor returns from farm products and lack of ready money caused Muno to fall for the temptation.

It came out in the testimony that Bloch not only provided the still for Muno to operate, but helped operate it, and that Muno's wife and young daughters assisted in the operations.

There also were strong intimations that the Bloch repeated presence at the place came near disrupting the family ties of the Munos.

Bloch was arrested on information furnished by Muno. Muno pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 60 days and a fine of $1000. Bloch stood trial, was convicted.

When the sentence was imposed this morning Bloch staggered as though he had been hit between the eyes and walked from the court room in a seaming daze.

Officers stated that Bloch would be removed to the penitentiary as soon as commitment papers could be prepared.
