LEWIS MONUMENT TO BE DEDICATED

Hohenwald, Tenn., Aug. 17.—(A. P.)—The 151st birthday of one of the explorers of the American northwest will be celebrated tomorrow by the dedication of the Meriwether Lewis national monument on the spot where he met his death.

Thirteen states included in the Louisiana purchase have been invited to send representatives.

The monument built in 1848 through a legislative appropriation has become a national affair by the donation of 50 acres of land about it by the federal government and the agreement of the federal government to maintain it.

The monument is surrounded by an iron fence and the epitaph was written by President Thomas Jefferson, who Lewis served as private secretary. Lewis was buried in 1809.

BIG DIRIGIBLE MOORS AT SEA

Lakehurst, N. J., Aug. 17.—After successfully mooring to the tender Patoka at sea the first time this act has been performed, the navy dirigible Shenandoah returned last night to the naval air station from Newport, R. I.

Another new maneuver was successfully executed when the dirigible dropped a sea anchor and rode at it. Commander Zachary Landowne in charge of the flight said last night the tests were as successful as could be expected.

While the air ship was attached to the Patoka's mooring mast, however, he said, it was demonstrated that additional equipment would be needed before this can be done in rough weather.

The sea anchor, a large umbrella-shaped canvas bag, was dropped from a height of 800 and the Shenandoah road on it for an hour, Commander Landowne said.

It was recently discovered that through oversight no provision had been made in the ordinances already drawn for the special election for the financing of the election, and if the three measures pass tonight it will be necessary to draw a fourth to take care of this difficulty.

STATE TO SETTLE FLORIDA CONFLICT

Palm Beach, Fla., Aug. 17.—(A. P.)—An early settlement of the everglades boundary question which has kept part of Collier county in a state of virtual civil war for the past few days, was seen yesterday in the announcement of John J. Martin, of his decision to sell the lands to squatters all over the everglades.

"We've been working on this squatter question and we're not going to take the land away from them," he said in a statement.

Governor Martin said that despite the apparent seriousness of the Collier situation where a group of homesteaders on the land of Baron G. Collier to the land, he expected the situation to quiet down quickly.

"However, the state will not hesitate to handle the situation in whatever way it deems best if any emergency arises," he said.

4 MEN TAKE MONITOR CAR EARLY TODAY

morning and his actions since have not been accounted for.

The report of the car thief took on a new angle and added significance in the minds of the prison authorities with the report of Deputy Warden Lilley about two o'clock this afternoon.

Lilley corrected the first report that the car was taken by four boys, explaining that four men, all well known, and believed to be in the Monitor neighborhood, were playing cards in a pool room there about 1 o'clock last night when another of their number left.

Today all four of the boys are missing, and a quantity of canned goods kept in the pool room, including fish, beans and the like, is also missing.

John Wilde, who lives near the pool room, says that he found his Grant six roadster backed out of the garage this morning and the wiring had been tampered, indicating that someone had attempted to start it.

TAX REDUCTION PROMISE MADE

Plymouth, Vt., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Final action on a tax reduction bill by the house before the Christmas recess or soon thereafter was promised by President Coolidge today to Representative Tilson of Connecticut, who will be the republican floor leader in the next session.

Taking advantage of the visit here of Secretary Mellon and Senator Smoot who is chairman of the finance committee on the Belgian debt problem, the president went over the tax reduction program with the representatives of the house, senate and treasury.

Secretary Mellon presented tentative estimates showing the effect on the treasury of certain reductions and later Mr. Tilson predicted a cut in the surtax rate to a minimum of 20 per cent or even 15 per cent on the basis of the treasury figures.

NEAL SHOCKED BY RAULSTON

Chattanooga, Tenn., Aug. 7.—(A. P.)—Dr. John T. Neal, senior defense counsel in the Scopes evolution case at Dayton, today declared that he was astounded at the speeches reported to have been made by Judge John Raulston at Chicago and Dayton recently. He said that it was "unthinkable" that a judge could be "guilty of such impropriety" while a case was pending in his court.

Dr. Neal discussing the appointment of R. V. Tress to succeed John T. Hoopes declared that teachers of the country must "blush with shame" that a member of the profession must submit to the ordeal of religious questioning in order to get a position.

Dr. Neal said it would be actually scandalous of him to do such and "I can hardly believe it of him."

DENTIST ON TRIAL FOR MURDERING HIS WIFE

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 17.—Dr. Thomas Young, dentist, accused of murdering his wife, Grace Grogan Young, last February and burying her body in a cistern of his country cottage in Beverly Glen near here, came into court today to be tried for his life, dapper and calm.

The legal fight opened with a motion for continuance of the case put forward by the defense and while arguments on this proceeded, the crowd strained necks and eyes to watch every movement of the little dental surgeon who is charged with killing his wife to get the fortune left her by a former husband, Patrick Grogan, olive millionaire.

BE CAREFUL ACCIDENTS IN SALEM THIS WEEK

It seemed problematical today whether the resolution drawn up some time ago but never presented to the council calling for the appropriation of $16,000 for a survey on the water question would be proposed tonight. There has been considerable adverse sentiment expressed against the plan and it is predicted by some that the council will choose an entirely different way of opening the question of a municipal water supply.

Two Aces in One Game.

Parkersburg, W. Va., Aug. 17.—(A. P.)—Two aces, a golf match here yesterday. N. C. Burwell made a hole in one on the No. 2 green, a distance of 116 yards. W. B. Ragsdale, a companion player in a foursome, accomplished the same feat on the sixth green with a shot at 150 yards.

PROBE OF PRISON BATTLE AND ESCAPE TO PLACE BLAME

over the prisoners is entirely responsible for the break. Others will be prison officials, guards and other employees at the prison who witnessed the escape, or who participated in the battle with the convicts.

Among the points that have been raised and which the investigation will seek to clear up are included the following:

How were the convicts able to separate themselves from the rest of the convicts and make their way to the top of the cell tier within reach of the roof?

How were they able to smuggle the rope, auger, chisel, knives and other instruments used in making their escape into the cell house without being detected?

How were the four, or any one of them able to escape the eyes of guards sufficiently long to bore the 70 holes that were found in the roof where they made their exit?

Why did Warden Dalrymple take the circuitous route through the main gate of the prison yard to his house in quest of a gun instead of running half the distance across the yard to tower No. 1, where he knew a rifle was available? Did he give the alarm as he ran for the gate?

Why was it that the pursuit was so slow in organizing when there were at least half a dozen guards at the dinner table in the Scopes quarters less than 50 yards out the gate, and with an automobile and driver standing ready in the garage as the convicts ran a quarter of a mile through an open field to the state hospital?

Another angle to be investigated is regarding the conduct of Guard Davison, auxiliary guard in the turnkey's office at the time of the break. According to the statement of the warden he has been posting Davison in the office during the supper hour to back up the turnkey in case of emergency. Davison says that when Murray sought to enter the turnkey's office where the arsenal is kept he (Davison) kicked him in the abdomen and knocked him back against a staircase railing. Davison then ran across the yard to tower No. 1.

The investigations of newspapermen have revealed that the only arms about the prison, except those carried by the guards on their posts, are always locked in the arsenal, where they are inaccessible to the guards not on duty in such an emergency. It has also been revealed that requests made for an appropriation for a guard tower over the main gate, where the arsenal could more safely be kept.

Prison officials point out that such a tower over the main gate would have frustrated not only this break, but the one in which Jones, Tom Murray, Ellsworth Kelly and three other convicts were implicated a year ago last March. The guard in such a tower would have full view of the entire front of the prison, whereas the point where the convicts descended from the roof last Wednesday night is out of sight of both tower No. 1 and tower No. 7.

Why was it that the pursuit was so slow in organizing when there were at least half a dozen guards at the dinner table in the Scopes quarters less than 50 yards out the gate, and with an automobile and driver standing ready in the garage as the convicts ran a quarter of a mile through an open field to the state hospital?
