PHANTOM BANDIT PUTS BLAME UPON FRIENDS

Dayton, Ohio, Aug. 25.—Fred G. Nickel, prominent manufacturer and confessed "phantom" bandit who held up the North Dayton branch of the Dayton Savings Trust company two weeks ago and obtained $21,000, declared his friends were partially responsible for his downfall.

"Friends—there are no such things as friends," he said. "If I had any friends to help me out of my financial dilemma I would not be in trouble today."

PARENTS TO AID CONVICT DURING TRIAL

his family District Attorney John Carson, Sheriff O. D. Bower and their assistants were busy weaving the chain of evidence that will be submitted to the Marion county grand jury tomorrow in support of a request for first degree murder indictment against Murray and his two partners in the break and killing, Ellsworth Kelley and James Willos.

Evidence sufficient to insure the conviction and hanging of Murray is already in hand, the authorities believe. But in the case of Willos and Kelley it is a different matter.

Before they hang it will be necessary for the state to prove that individuals they fired the shots that resulted in the death of one of the guards, or that they were parties to a conspiracy to kill if necessary in making their escape.

Defense Ground Work

The prosecution has a third opportunity to ask the death penalty for either Willos or Kelley, or both, if they can prove that either or both actually assaulted an officer in making the break.

Kelley and Willos have both laid the ground work for their defense in statements declaring that neither fired a shot. But counterbalancing this on the part of Willos is the statement that he signed and fingerprinted at the Newman home in New Era, in which it was asserted that he shot Milt Holman, one of the guards killed.

The claim of Kelley that he did not fire a shot and never had a gun is discounted by officers, who point out that besides the rifle and revolver each that Murray and Willos carried in the break, the trio took with them a shotgun.

Shotgun Used

Guard Holman was killed with a charge of buckshot from a shot-
