SENATORS PLAY TOLEDO IN TWO GAME SERIES

Tomorrow afternoon, weather permitting, the Salem Senators will cross bats with the fast Toledo baseball team on the Oxford park grounds in the first of a two-game series. The Toledo team has one of the fastest clubs around here and have lost only one game in the last two years. Last season they finished the year with 23 wins and no losses and have done almost as well this year.

"Frisco" Edwards had started negotiations with Albany for the two games but dropped them for the time being when the Toledo team issued their challenge as he thought that Toledo would furnish a better game than Albany, due to Toledo's two victories over Albany.

Dave Strietmater, left handed hurler, has been pitching excellent ball for Toledo and with stellar backing of some of the best college players available the Senators will be in for one of the toughest games of the season. Strietmater is a dimunitive player but has an excellent curve ball with a good change of pace. He worked on the mound for the Senators for a game or so two years ago but left as he had a sore arm at that time and was unable to give his best. He is back in form now, however, and if he is right will likely take the Senators to a trimming.

Strietmater will be opposed on the mound by Wayne Barham, Salem star twirler, who has baffled many of the opposing batters. Barham works his best with a good hot day to loosen him up. If the day happens to be right he will have the Toledo sluggers biting at the air. Ashby is scheduled to work the Monday game. He will have to be in better fettle than he was for the game last Sunday when he walked the first two men and let the next two get bingles. Bidd, Bishop and Quieenberry will be on hand in case they are needed to fill in. The game will start at 3 o'clock.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Emil "Irish" Meusel, Giants outfielder, hit his 20th home run of the season in the fifth inning of Friday's game between New York and the Phillies. No one was on base.

Koran at the Bligh

The usual seer, better than most, with the usual two bespangled pretty assistants to pass the usual sealed envelopes through the audience for the usual questions on lost rings, mining stocks and does-my-husband-love-me, features the current bill at the Bligh Sunday.

"The Great Koran" goes into intricate detail in mystifying fashion on each yesterday asked, and gives authentic answers. Rather puzzling to those of us who cannot see beyond the veil of tomorrow, but interesting, still.

Lew Sully, who weighs admittedly 250 pounds, and probably much more, is the typical fat man. Jolly, with a fast line of patter and some clever songs and poems, he gets by heavily.

Bobby and Barbee, late stars of "Shuffle Along," open the bill in riotous fashion. They are old, experienced troupers with a good bit.

Jack Lipton and Terrell have a neat song and dance sketch. Lipton sings, while Miss Terell is a dancer of considerable training.

Add a bit of violining to the stock song an ddance act, and you have Grace and Wallace's act.

JURY ACQUITS DRIVER THROUGH GIRL'S EVIDENCE

Carl G Waldespel was acquitted in police court yesterday by a jury on a charge of driving an automobile while drunk. Ten witnesses were heard over a period of several hours, and the jury of five members took more than two hours more to reach a verdict.

Five of the witnesses for Waldespel were girls who danced with him at the Crystal Gardens on the night of August 18, shortly before he was arrested. Among those who testified in his favor were Frank Waldorf, Ella Bennett, Burdetta Bennett, Margaret Porteous of Oakland, Cal., Wallace Bennett, Anna Kunkel, Ursek Erion and Wesley Ellis. One girl, Connie Clark, refused to testify.

Police Officers Olson, Smart and Night Sergeant Edwards testified that Waldespel was drunk.

The members of the jury were W. E. Hanson, C. C. Locke, Fred Gahladorf, S. W. Cooley and H. C. McWhorter.

Of the five girls who testified, three were in Waldespel's car when he was arrested.

Sitting Bull First Called Locomotive 'Iron Horse' In Buffalo Bill's Memoirs

Now that the William Fox production, "The Iron Horse" is scheduled to start an engagement at the Heilig theater next Saturday, many thousands of people are wondering how this picture obtained its name. To those acquainted with the ways of thinking of the American aborigineee, it is self evident that the phrase, "The Iron Horse," is of Indian origin. As a matter of fact, during the vast amount of research done by the Fox ecenario department, it was found that the originator of this phrase was Sitting Bull, the great war chief of the Sioux.

Sitting Bull was one of the most indomitable leaders of the red revolt against the invasion of the west by the white man. As a youth in the '50's and '60's, he sought to arouse his people to resist the invasion of their lands and the destruction of the game which was one of their chief means of sustenance. Together with Red Cloud and other war chiefs he led the Sioux in numerous attempts to stop the progress of the Central Pacific railroad. The chief evidence in this matter is to be found in the autobiography of Colonel William F. Cody (Buffalo Bill.)

Two Killed in Airplane.

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 5.—(A. P.)—A 12-year-old boy and a man were killed here today when an airplane crashed more than 1000 feet into Highland Park cemetery. The plane had been circling above the municipal golf course and the cemetery when it seemed to develop trouble.

For the Good Conduct of Business

Not so many years ago, it was an uncommon thing for anyone but business firms to have bank accounts.

Not so today! If we were to classify the patrons here at the United States National, we would find individuals from every walk of life, both men and women, who are benefiting from a connection at this serviceable institution. It promotes the general conduct of business both commercially and in the home.
