PLAN SCHOOL FOR PLUMBERS' APPRENTICES

Theo. Barr, local plumber and president of the Oregon State Plumbers' association, returned to Salem at midnight Saturday night, having been away since early Monday morning on a trip into southern and central Oregon in the interests of the state association. The state association was considerably enlarged by the addition of numerous plumbers, Barr stated this morning. "We succeeded in signing up every plumber we wanted, all along the way," he said. The party, which included Bart D. Coffey, director in the national plumbers' association; H. T. Sheriff, prominent figure in the organization, and A. R. Nichols, superintendent of training and industrial education, visited 14 towns and traveled 1023 miles.

A proposition was successfully launched, Mr. Barr states, whereby classes will be held, sponsored by the local plumbers' unions, for the instruction of apprentices. A. R. Nichols of Corvallis, who was a member of the party last week, and is connected with Oregon agricultural college, will be general supervisor of the movement. Funds to help pay the salary of such a supervisor were authorized at the last session of the state legislature, Barr says. "The national government also pays a part, under the Smith-Hughes act, and each individual school district will be expected to pay a part, which will amount to very little in each individual district. The apprentices' school will be held in each district 4 hours a week, 9 months a year, for a period of years.

The school at Salem will be begun within a month. Local districts will furnish school rooms in which the classes may be held after school hours.

The project has been launched in an effort to raise the standards among plumbers, it is stated by Mr. Barr. "There are one-third less journeymen in the United States today than there were before the war," he declares, attributing the fact to the practice of hiring plumbers' helpers rather than using the apprentice system. A helper will not learn the trade thoroughly, but will eventually set up in competition with experienced plumbers, Barr claims.

The plan as outlined by him to the various plumbers he met on his trip, and accepted by them, involves having the apprentice paid by the employer for the time spent studying in class. The wages now paid will be reserved from him, however, until he graduates into the class of a skilled plumber.

Albany and Corvallis will hold their class for apprentices together.

CITY DESERTED ON LABOR DAY

With city stores and business houses closed in observance of Labor day, downtown streets were deserted today and Salem presented a generally deserted appearance. The general exodus to the beaches and other resorts in the state, began Saturday afternoon and continued Sunday. Threatening weather did little to halt the program. Most people left the city by private automobile, a few by auto buses and trains. Local offices of railway companies reported only slight increased activity during the past two days.

A few local stores, such as confectionery stores, restaurants and cigar stores, remained open, keeping company with newspaper offices. Hotels saw a considerable influx of people come here to celebrate Labor day, along with the rest, by not laboring. Nearly twice the usual number of names were noted on hotel registers.

Medford, Or., Sept. 7.—Rain fell in the Rogue river valley yesterday and this morning, but the rain, which broke through the clouds this forenoon and the local weather bureau predicted clearing skies for the afternoon. Labor day is being observed very quietly, with all stores closed, but with no celebration.

history. The rights of the workers should be recognized. No opposition will prevent laboring men and women from organizing, Mr. Green said, adding: "The need for organization and cooperation is keenly felt and the workers are determined to join with their fellow men in their efforts to raise their standards of living. The hearts and minds of men are being aroused. The individual worker realizes how weak and feeble is his position. Organized labor is also determined, Mr. Green said, to oust communism as a destructive force within its own ranks.

"In view of the fact that the communists have challenged and are challenging the hosts of organized labor," he said, "and by every means at their disposal are seeking to secure supreme control of the trade union movement of America, we the local members and officers of the organized labor movement will strike back and strike hard. We will not cease our efforts until communism and the communistic philosophy, and those who represent it are driven from the ranks of organized labor."

SENATORS TAKE DOUBLE HEADER

Shibe Park, Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 7.—(A. P.)—The Washington Senator stretched their lead over the Athletics in the American league race to nine games today by taking both games of the holiday bill. They captured a sensational slugfest in the afternoon, 7 to 6, after Walter Johnson turned in a 2-1 victory in the morning. The scores were:

Washington	7	13	0
Philadelphia	3	13	3
Cleveland	Ballou, Zachary and Ruel; Quinn, Walberg and Cochran.

The double defeat wiped out any lingering hope that the Athletics still were pennant factors. They still have a mathematical chance but with only a month of campaigning left, they face a hopeless task. The Mackmen fought hard for both games but caused their own undoing by poor playing at critical times. A ninth inning rally in the first game was nipped when Miller overran third base and was thrown out. Loose infielding was responsible for several Washington runs this afternoon. Washington used four twirlers in the second game.

DAMAGE DONE TOTALS OVER HALF MILLION

was done by hail and rain among the orchards of East Wenatchee and Rock Island as at the Apple Yard terminal at South Wenatchee as far as property damage is concerned.

It is estimated that fully $500,000 worth of injury was done to fruit when a hail storm lashed the orchards intermittently all the way from Rock Island to the southern end of the Rock Island pavement. The hail struck savagely in spots and then seemed to skip over for a considerable distance.

In many orchards it is believed that the crop will be almost a total loss. Insurance adjusters will be here later in the week to examine the orchards which are insured, at which time it will be possible to make an estimate of the loss though many were not covered by hail insurance.

Several miles of the Wenatchee reclamation district canal was filled up with sand and mud or washed out. Flumes were taken out below the Hankell orchard and other damage done which will cost several thousand dollars to repair. Superintendent L. L. Horton declares that it is the worst disaster that has ever befallen the canal since the present district was formed. No estimate can yet be made as to when the damage can be repaired.

Money and teams are badly needed to aid in this work. All the forces that can be secured are being organized today and the district is sending out an urgent call for help.

Fortunately the heavy rain which fell Saturday has soaked the ground so that water is not needed for irrigation during the next two weeks.

YOUTH TELLS OF MURDER OF LITTLE GIRL

Montclair, N. J., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Having confessed that he kidnaped and murdered six year old Mary Day, Harrison Noel, 18, son of a New York lawyer and formerly a college student and inmate of an insane asylum, was held in jail today.

The motive for the kidnaping was ransom, but why the girl was killed is not clear. Part of the confession is withheld by the authorities. Noel confessed that he also shot and killed Raymond Pierce, a negro taxi driver, to get an automobile different from his own and then shot and wounded another chauffeur who gave chase after the kidnaping. At first it was thought that a negro had abducted the girl.

Boasts of Crime
Grinning and with a tinge of boastfulness, he stood over the girl's body in a clump of bushes on Breakneck mountain, Little Falls N. J., to which he had led the police. Noel said:
"Well, I put two bullets into her."

The body was lying face upward. Mary's hands were crossed on her breast. There were bullet holes in her head and neck. Noel said he led the girl out of the car at 2 o'clock Saturday morning. Too frightened to utter a sound, she was left standing while he backed away and fired many shots, he said, as if at a fence post. Then he dragged the body into the underbrush.

Escaped Lunatic
Noel escaped June 28 from the Essex county insane asylum at Overbrook, where he had been confined at the request of his parents, February 23. He was believed to have suffered a mental breakdown from over study. For a short time he had been a student at Harvard but had left by request of the university authorities.

"At one point I saw broken tops and other parts of automobiles scattered along below where the road was buried by the slide and it is my opinion that cars with people in them may be buried there. If so, the people must certainly have been killed, as the weight of the rock and mud was terrific. An effort should be made to clear up this slide as soon as possible."

At noon today Captain Leavell and Captain Vermilya of the national guard in charge of relief work at the scene of the cloudburst, stated that in their opinion, there is little likelihood that any tourists have lost their lives. A careful check has been made and most of the tourists were on ground higher than the flood. A check of the cars has not yet been made. It will be necessary to get the engine numbers and check upon those.

Wenatchee, Wash., Sept. 7.—With the American Legion, Salvation Army and the American Red Cross on duty, relief is being extended to all those who suffered in the cloudburst and flood which wiped out 12 lives in upper Squilchuck canyon Saturday afternoon. While the water has subsided considerably this morning, mud, stones and wreckage are piled high. Boxes and locomotives are buried over their wheels in mud. While the bodies so far recovered are held in nearby undertaking establishments, arrangements for funerals are being withheld until the remainder of those killed are recovered.

The work early today is in clearing the wreckage from the railroad tracks and highways and intensifying the efforts to recover the bodies. A roaring wall of water, 12 feet high, swept down from the canyon upon the Great Northern railway terminal at Springwater, picked up five dwellings in its 100 yard path, tore them to splinters and buried the three-story Springwater hotel, a frame structure, sixty feet across the street. The building crashed into the Terminal hotel wrecking it.

The disaster came without warning. Occupants of the hotel building heard the sudden roar of the waters and attempted to escape, but many were caught and carried down with the torrent. For the most part, the victims were occupants of the dwellings. Those rescued absolutely no warning and few were saved.
