POLK COUNTY FAIR OPENS AT DALLAS THURSDAY

Polk county 1925 fair, September 10, 11 and 12, opens tomorrow and the train Saturday afternoon from the busy and bustling indications are that the exhibits and displays will be up to the standard that in past years has made the county famous for its agricultural products and livestock. Practically all exhibit space in the big pavilion has been taken while the industrial and commercial display spaces have been spoken for.

Community friendly rivalry is putting a great deal of spirit into the exhibits for six communities are pooling their products in an effort to take the banner for agricultural displays in their particular part of the county.

A close second of interest to the community displays will be the exhibits of the boys and girls enrolled in club work projects throughout the county. This includes livestock and poultry, agricultural products and various other projects. It is expected that at least 150 members of boys and girls clubs will exhibit at the fair.

Livestock, with dairy cattle as the feature, will also be an attraction at the fair. The livestock pavilion near the main pavilion has also been the center of much activity and a praiseworthy exhibit of Polk county pure breeds will be on hand for the inspection of visitors tomorrow.

The 1925 fair is the first held in Polk county for two years, but the fact that no fair was held last year is expected to add more interest to the present showing. The fair board, composed of L. D. Brown, P. O. Powell and L. H. McBee, has been striving in every way possible to bring interest to a high point and all funds possible have been used as premium awards. They have been ably assisted by Mrs. Winnie Braden, secretary of the fair board and a specialist in fairs, and Josiah Willis, county school superintendent and ex-officio member of the board.

The entertainment for the opening night will be handled by the Polk county granges with Mrs. A. W. Bartlett in charge. The Farmers' Union provides Friday night's entertainment.

The fair is operating this year with a free gate, a feature which is being tried as an experiment, to be made permanent if successful.

INDIAN SCHOOL OPENS WITH FAIR ENROLLMENT

Chemawa, Sept. 9.—Class room work at the Indian school started in earnest yesterday with the opening of the Indian school and it is expected to have one of the best years in the history of the school. Registration held sway all last week when more than 600 pupils were enrolled. Trains are arriving daily with new students and it is thought that by the close of the Oregon state fair there will be the full quota back for school.

Many of the students are not expected back until fair time as they will be busy harvesting but after that they will all be here. The Alaskan children expected to be here this year have not yet returned and they will add materially to the new growing figure. This is the first year that the Alaskan children who have not been students before this year will be forced to attend the schools built lately in Alaska instead of coming to the states. The Alaskan children who have been enrolled in the local school prior to this time are allowed to finish their high school and college education at Chemawa, provided they pay their fare both ways if they go to their home before finishing their education.

Most of the classes are now full with the exception of the new addition to the system. In former years the school has only carried up to and including the second year in high school and those wishing to take the last two years in the Salem school. Last year it was decided to extend the course and take in the entire high school course. The eleventh grade is rather small so far but several more students are expected to swell the class.

UPPER SANTIAM SWEEP BY STORM

Mill City, Or., Sept. 9.—The whole Santiam valley, from Stayton to Detroit, has been in the grasp of a storm which at times amounted to almost a cloudburst since Sunday evening. The rain has been accompanied by a brilliant display of lightning which set fire to trees at various points, but the heavy rains put the fire out before any damage was done. Near Fox Valley a twister of a wind storm was reported which uprooted several large trees and lightning hit near several residents there, severing telephone lines. The telephone line to Detroit is also out of commission.
