

CONSTITUTION DAY PROCLAIMED BY GOVERNOR

The schools of thought represented by Hamilton and Jefferson are set over against each other in a Constitution Day proclamation issued yesterday by Governor Pierce, the latter termed that which Lincoln later described as "a government of the people, by the people and for the people." The proclamation urges a celebration of the day throughout the state. It follows:

"On September 17, 1787, is a memorable day in American history. It was on that day that the constitution of our government was finally signed. The constitutional convention had been in session many weeks, and its deliberations were the source of much struggle. Two schools of thought struggled to write into this constitution their opposite views. On the one hand was the able and brilliant Hamilton, seeking to create a strong central government with the wealthy class in control; the full intent was to array property on the side of government, distrust the ability of the people to govern themselves, he was a firm advocate of the old-world aristocracy.

"On the other hand was Madison, representing the Jeffersonian ideas, advocating a government which was later so aptly described by Lincoln as a government 'of the people, by the people and for the people.' He held that personal liberty was vastly more important than property rights. It was this idea that won the contest and forever wrote into our constitution such terms as 'inalienable rights,' 'equal rights and privileges before the law,' 'freedom of religion,' 'freedom of the press,' 'freedom of speech,' 'freedom of assembly,' 'freedom of petition' and 'due process of law.'

"Under this constitution the United States government has grown from a narrow strip along the Atlantic coast, consisting of but thirteen colonies, to the mightiest nation in the world.

"Human nature is the same today as it ever has been. Predatory interests still seek special privileges; gigantic combinations of wealth strive to build up a moneyed aristocracy; we still have with us those who would deny the people of their dearly-bought rights. Never in the 138 years of our history has there been greater need for our people to read again and again the real story of the making of that wonderful document, the constitution of the United States. A study of the issues then discussed will aid in understanding the vital issues of today, the age-old struggle between the aristocrat and the democrat. It is especially fitting on this 138th anniversary of the signing of that great document that our people turn once more to a study of the foundation on which our government rests.

"Now, therefore, I, Walter M. Pierce, governor of the state of Oregon, do hereby proclaim Thursday, September 17, 1925, as Constitution Day and I urge that its suitable observance be celebrated throughout the state."

AMITY PHONE RATE PROTEST CANCELLED

The public service commission yesterday rescinded a recent order for investigation of the rates and practices of the Amity Mutual Telephone company. This was done because the city of Amity withdrew its protest against an increase in the rates.

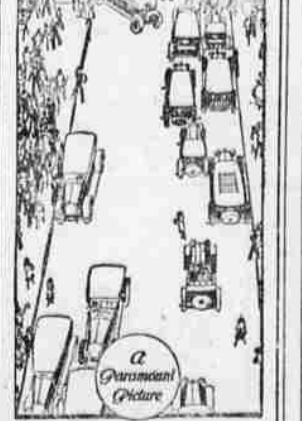

The commission, in the case of Mrs. Lillian A. Blough against the Southern Pacific company, issued an order for a farm crossing near Lafayette.

Application of the city of Portland for a grade crossing on D street was denied.

An application of the Jackson county court for a grade crossing over the Southern Pacific tracks near Talent was denied.

San Francisco, Cal.—The Olympic club football team defeated St. Ignace college in the first game of the football season here. The score was 20 to 6.

Helps Husband Brand Rival

MRS. ROSE FELICI & WALTER JOHNSON

With the aid of his wife, Mrs. Rose Felici (left), Victor Felici of Chicago was alleged to have branded his initials on the cheek of Walter Johnson (right), who is said to have forced his attentions on Mrs. Felici. Johnson said Mrs. Felici held him while her husband burned him with a hot wire.

To the Editor: It seems that it is the custom of the American people to try every known wrong thing or way before they try the known right way. The recent prison break is a climax, locally, of this custom. I predicted before the investigation of the course of the break by Atty. Carson, that tolerance step by step, led to the tragedy. This investigation was non political, and as it revealed political tolerance, there was a political investigation to discredit the fault finding. Unless there is a thorough house cleaning at the state penitentiary the public should investigate the investigators at the polls. I voted for La Follette because he was on a platform for national house cleaning, there was nothing better for me to do than to rebuke by my vote, our representatives for their perfidy. As voiced by the people, the moral conditions at Washington are no better than they are at the Oregon state penitentiary, and it seems that the hope have all fallen off the state criminal side.

In America there are two outstanding protective forces, the public schools and our police force. I have more confidence in the force without that fixes my moral vote, our representatives for their moral control, the city, and state, fix the bounds, and the police bind the fix. I have more admiration for the two prison guards who lost their lives as a result of tolerance than I have for all the prisoners and officials who show no signs of reform.

The head in parking, spaced as it is, illustrates another custom of trying the known wrong way for trying the known right way. This reminds me of the back in plan on the league of nations, England, France, Japan and the United States, are on the crawling back in policy, while the world's tally are decidedly in favor of the head in parking for world's peace spaced and policed.

The remedy for America's moral ills, as it appears, is the ten commandments applied with their pre fix. Thou shalt not, stressed. This must be England's remedy, and it is a repeated statement that there is less crime in the whole of England than in Chicago or New York. Our laws are too defective and thereby discriminating. Lawful tolerance that hangs the poor and condones the rich for the same offense is intolerable, and crime producing. The state and national legislators who vote to pass a moral law which they do not intend to observe and obey are not worthy of the trust imposed in them. If the reader is not in sympathy with my views, I would suggest the advice of Dawes or Hughes.

Respectfully,
D. H. CLARK.

trying to kill Kelly, for no other reason I suppose, than to be blabbing, about something. Surely they have not looked beneath the surface. Elsworth Kelly tried to release the Jones boys from jail. (Perhaps they were his schoolmates and his sympathy got the best of him) and for that, he was sent to the Pen for 20 years, not because he did release them, but just because he did it. In mentally he is caused for above the average, he got out of the Pen once, in a load of flax, who wouldn't, he tried again, and again, because, he was smarter than those who should have been smart enough to keep him in. In the battle of the break for freedom, Kelly risked his life. But did not intend to kill. His own words, so often repeated while he fled, did not reveal a murderous heart. He was sorry for the guards, and kept saying, "we have done an awful thing now we have killed a man." he was sorry, sorry, his pals had done the awful thing. If Kelly hangs for a murder he didn't do, Salem will keep saying, we have done an awful thing now, we have killed another innocent man, and why do you, beamer, so little, the beautiful name Elsworth, taboos it for babies. Raving about Willies, or was it Wallies, and Ellys and Sillies and Sillies, and Ellys, and Sillies and bunk. Riddleme slung out to intimidate, they have to be torn to pieces, even for so noble a cause as saving a mans life. I am not defending a animal, Kelly committed no actual crime yet you, class him on the same level as the man held in the Pen, only for a year and a half, for forgery, turned loose a murderous murderer of a one who was befriending him. Justice why are you hiding behind the law, Kelly stopped to grasp the hand of his dying friend (fatal though that friendship had been

PORTLAND GIRL AND GRANDMOTHER HURT

Roseburg, Or., Sept. 11.—Miss Mamie Moe, 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Moe, Portland, and her grandmother, Mrs. S. H. Luck, Portland, were injured Thursday in an auto accident a mile north of Oakland. The large enclosed car in which Mrs. Henry Moe and her three daughters and Mrs. Luck were riding, turned turtle on a straight road, the cause of the accident not being known by any member of the party.

Mamie Moe and her grandmother, who were in the rear seat, were both cut and bruised quite severely, but it is believed that their injuries are not necessarily of a serious nature.

San Francisco, Cal.—Approximately 200 spectators of the Admission day parade Wednesday collapsed during the five hours the lawfully stopped to grasp the hand of his dying friend (fatal though that friendship had been

Can success in life be achieved by constipation? Indeed it can. The poisons of this disease live you out, wear you down, make you listless and make you lose interest in things in general. Ambition is most often prompted by a thoroughly healthy body. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brings permanent relief from constipation.

HIGH SHOES AGAIN STYLISH FOR WOMEN

London, Sept. 11.—(A. P.)—High shoes for women, after banishment for eleven years again will be fashionable in London this winter.

The shoes will not be the plain black and tan ones of years ago, but will be of highly colored leathers and snake and crocodile skins. Jeweled and other fancy heels will add a piquant touch to them.

Men's footwear also will undergo some arid changes—green, red, blue and brown—to match clothing worn. Also the heels will be higher than usual.

He didn't have the energy to fight

LOST . . . another big order . . . the fourth defeat that day. All because he didn't have the energy to fight when his prospect said "No." Something had blunted his senses and stolen his strength.

That "something" was constipation. What a shame so many people suffer from constipation when there is an easy, pleasant, sure way to permanent relief—the regular use of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—two tablespoonfuls daily, or in chronic cases, with every meal.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is what doctors call a bulk food. As it travels through the system, its fiber remains unchanged. Therefore, it sweeps the intestine clean and drives out the vicious poisons of constipation. ALL-BRAN also absorbs and carries moisture through the intestinal tract, stimulating it to healthy, normal action. ALL-BRAN works as nature works.

Serve Kellogg's ALL-BRAN with milk or cream, sprinkled over cereals, or cooked with cereals; in soups, or made into many recipes given on the package. Delicious with fruits too. If eaten regularly, it is guaranteed to bring permanent relief or your grocer returns the purchase price.

Caution! Be sure to get Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Only ALL-BRAN brings sure results. Kellogg's is the original and only ALL-BRAN. All grocers sell it. Leading restaurants serve it. Buy a package today.
