

397 AUTHORIZED MOTOR VEHICLE LIGHT ADJUSTERS

To date an aggregate of 397 motor vehicle headlight adjustment stations have been inspected and authorized throughout the state by the traffic division of the department of secretary of state and 50 applications for inspection are on hand which will probably be inspected and passed upon by the close of the present week, according to Secretary Kozer. It is estimated that there will be approximately between 450 and 500 adjustment stations authorized in the state when all applications are in and acted upon.

A survey of the reports received from the adjusting stations as to cost of adjustments upon the average basis shows that such cost ranges from the minimum of 75 cents, the maximum adjustment charge provided by law, to several dollars, according to the amount and value of the equipment purchased by the owner. An examination of 1001 charge receipts issued by stations over the state and selected at random reveals that the general average of cost for equipment and adjustment on these 1000 cars was $2.07 per car.

One hundred adjustments, selected at random, from each of three adjusting stations in Portland, show an average cost per car for the three stations and 300 cars of $2.43; 200 adjustment at two stations at Salem show an average cost of $2.19 per car. The same basis of investigation applied to one station each in the following list of cities in the state show average costs per car to be: Oregon City, $1.54; Canby, $1.40; Tillamook, $2.14; Marshfield,

$2.08; Medford, $2.44; Grants Pass, $1.96; state average for 1000 cars, $2.07.

BEND-KLAMATH RAIL SURVEY COMPLETED

Klamath Falls, Or., Sept. 12.—Completion of final surveys for the Oregon Trunk was announced here late yesterday by local officials of the road. The entire right of way between here and Bend is now dotted with survey stakes. If the interstate commerce commission grants the right to build, the road can be completed within one year, officials said.
