

BEARCATS WEAK FOR CLASH WITH SEATTLE STARS

With the majority of his players inexperienced men, Coach Guy Rathbun led today for Seattle with the Williams football squad. The game at Seattle tomorrow with the University of Washington will be the first of the season for both teams.

Dopsters who have viewed the Bearcats in practice state that there is material available for a strong line, with a backfield almost entirely green material.

Huston, veteran center, will not be used in the Washington game, Rathbun stated before leaving. Although Huston has been out for practice most of the week, a recent sickness was given by the Bearcat mentor as reason for withholding him from the game. In his absence Scott, a sophomore without varsity experience, will probably hold down the center berth, Rathbun said.

Hatson and Evans will probably start the game in the same positions, with Rhodes and Mudra playing tackle, according to Rathbun. Short, a 185 pound freshman who has been working out at tackle, will not start the game, he stated. The two ends will be chosen from among Winslow, Hartley and C. Zeller.

With an over supply of tackles this season and a dearth in other positions, Rathbun has shifted Hartley and Stolohise to other places. Hartley has been working out at end, and Stolohise has been brought back to full.

Reidell is hooked to start the game at quarterback. The halves will be chosen from among T. Zeller, Collingsworth and Wadell. Both T. and C. Zeller are brothers to Wadde Zeller, who graduated in 1923, and was one of the best back end field runners Willamette has ever produced. The brothers both show some promise, but are inexperienced.

Following the Washington game the Bearcat eleven is expected to be strengthened by the addition of Huston at center, Schweining at half back and possibly Robertson at end. Schweining, who played half last season, came from Central high school, where he was picked as an all-American high school half back.

Robertson, an end from last year's squad, last spring made arrangements to take a position as physical instructor in junior high school here. If he takes the position he will be declared ineligible for athletics, Rathbun declares.

Fasmacht, an end of last season, hurt his shoulder at the opening practice of the season, and will probably not be out again. Molerom, a lineman from last year, had an operation for appendicitis during the summer. He may be out for football later in the season.

CARDS AND BEARS BOTH HAVE GAMES

Stanford University, Cal., Sept. 25.—(AP)—A team whipped out of considerable green material will represent Stanford university Saturday when the Cards open their football season with the San Francisco Olympic club here.

Regardless of the fact, observers concede that the Stanford backfield will be stronger than that of last season. Captain Ernie Nevers, star fullback who was out of the game most of last year with weak ankles is back in the line-up. His work during scrimmage indicates that he will be a tower of strength to the Cards.

Around Nevers, Coach Glenn Warner has built a quick acting, fast combination in Dick Hyland, a former Rugby star; Hogue, who substituted for Nevers most of last year; Don Hill and Mike Murphy. Both Hill and Murphy were members of the freshman team last year.

Berkeley, Cal., Sept. 25.—Topping off a week of intensive scrimmage, the University of California football eleven was scheduled today to run through light signal practice preparatory for their game Saturday with the University of Santa Clara. That the exact lineup of the blue and gold squad would not become known until the day of play became apparent today. Coach Andy Smith provided surprise in the way of a change when he replaced Bert Cook at tackle with Fred Coltrin, captain of last year's freshman team. It was believed today however, that the shift was only as a trial for Coltrin.

Basil Woon, whose "Paris That's Not in the Guide Books" is to be published this fall by Cosmopolitan Book Corporation, has led a life of dramatic contrasts. A runaway from his English public school at fourteen, he reached Canada by steamer, landing with $5. In the next few years he worked all over the continent, alternating as farmer, deck-hand, dishwasher, reporter and hobo. He ran a newspaper in Alaska and then served in various offices on newspapers throughout the United States. The war took him back to Europe, and since the war he has been Paris correspondent for Universal News Service. What Basil Woon knows about Paris, Americans in Paris and Parisians he has put into "The Paris That's Not in the Guide Books."

MRS. FRY OF NEWPORT PASSES AWAY AT DALLAS

Dallas, Or., Sept. 25.—Mrs. Clara Fry of Newport died Thursday morning, September 24, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. A. Crowder in Dallas. Death came after an illness of about three months. Mrs. Fry had been with Mrs. Crowder since July and was taken down in June.

Funeral services will be held at the Chapman & Henkle chapel at 2 p. m., Friday.

Mrs. Fry had lived in Dallas and Falls City for a number of years, but for the past four years has lived at Newport, where her husband, G. Fry, is street commissioner.

She is survived by her husband, one daughter, Mrs. A. A. Crowder of Dallas, two sons, Will Hill of Toledo and Leo Fry of Walla Walla, Wash. She has three brothers and two sisters living in Michigan and one brother at Ilwaco, Wash.

Mrs. Fry was born March 3, 1864.

Dallas, Or., Sept. 25.—(A. P.)—Nora Bayes, vaudeville actress, who used to do a comedy holdup stunt on the stage, was suffering today from the shock of a real holdup by four armed men who mauled and threatened her in an attempt to strip her of her jewelry.

The men surrounded Miss Bayes' automobile as it drew up in front of her home last night. Her chauffeur, John Carlow, grappled with one of the bandits and was shot in the right side. Miss Bayes and her secretary screamed and the men hit them. Frightened eventually by the women's screams, the robbers fled to a waiting automobile firing as they ran.

Attracted by the shots, Benjamin Friedman, Miss Bayes' fifth husband, rushed from their home. He called an ambulance for Carlow and assisted his wife into the house. She was in a highly nervous state.

The lavish array of paste jewelry which Miss Bayes wears on the stage apparently led the men to plot the holdup.

CATHOLICS ARE TO DEDICATE CHURCH SUNDAY

The division of the Catholic church in Salem into two parishes, ordered early in the present year, will go into effect next Sunday, when dedication ceremonies will be held, and blessing given, on the new St. Vincent De Paul chapel and school which was built in the north end of Salem last summer. Rev. Thomas V. Keenan, who has been associated with Rev. Buck of the St. Joseph parish for some three years, moved out to his new quarters today. He will have the Mission of Independence included in his new St. Vincent De Paul parish, holding services there each Sunday, beginning Oct. 4. Services were formerly held there only once a month.

Masses and preaching will be held in the new St. Vincent De Paul building at 8 o'clock and again at 10 Sunday morning. Rev. J. M. O'Farrell of St. Rose's church, Portland, will have charge.

The dedication ceremonies, with the blessing upon the chapel and the school, will be given at 2:30 in the afternoon. The Rt. Rev. Meagr. Hillebrand, Admx., will officiate with the blessing. The Rt. Rev. Meagr. Lane, P. A., will preach at the dedication ceremonies.

The St. Joseph parish here was divided into the St. Joseph and the St. Vincent De Paul parishes shortly before the death of Archbishop Christie early in the present year. The two have been administered together, however, up to the present time. A church and a parish rectory will be built soon, according to Father Keenan, and added to the parochial school and chapel which was built this summer. The enrollment at the parochial school, which was opened the middle of this month, now stands at 55 pupils. At present it teaches the first 6 grades of school.

Father Keenan was appointed as state chaplain on Sept. 17.

JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD RETURNS FROM EUROPE

James Oliver Curwood has just returned to the United States after his first European tour. The novel set laid on landing that nothing he saw abroad of old-world civilization has tempted him as a scene for his future romances to forsake the wilderness where man still draws his strength from the contest with nature. At a luncheon which was given in London in honor of Mr. Curwood, at which many distinguished persons were present, Lloyd George who sat next to the American writer was heard to remark: "I consider you a public benefactor, Mr. Curwood, because you bring the spirit of the great outdoors to millions who can in no other way come in touch with it. For myself, your books helped to hold me up through the darkest hours of the war."

TUNNEY HOPES TO WIN CHANCE AT HEAVY TITLE

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 25.—Gene Tunney, American light heavyweight champion, hopes to stamp himself as the outstanding contender for Jack Dempsey's crown in his fight here tonight with Bartley Madden of New York.

The fight, scheduled for 10 rounds, will be in the Minneapolis hockey arena, the largest auditorium in the city. There will be no referee or judges decision, only the usual newspaper verdict. Tunney hopes to do what no other heavyweight has done—knock out Madden. Madden stayed 16 rounds with Harry Wills, the negro heavyweight, losing the fight on points. "I feel that if I can stop Madden," Tunney said today. "It will
