

DAIRY PRODUCTS CLIMB UPWARDS DURING WEEK

Portland, Oct. 3.—Dairy products continue on the upward trend in the local market with butter, eggs, and cheese showing a firm advance at the close of the week.

Quotations on cube butter held steady and unchanged during the last session of the exchange. Good butter is very scarce and in demand. Creamery men, however, do not anticipate any change in print prices over the week end.

All kinds of fat prices have prevailed in the local territory during the past week. General quotations at shipping point remain at 52 cents in zone one. Delivered fats ranged as high as 55 cents during the week.

Eggs continue firm in the fact of large storages holdings. Local dealers do not look for fresh values to go much higher, feeling that popular prices will prevail in order to move heavy holdings into consumption. Fresh stocks are scarce. Peewees were in demand and advanced a cent to 23 cents.

Current receipt eggs also closed a half cent higher on the exchange. Although business is quite in the cheese market, offerings are limited and the demand strong even at the prevailing high levels.

Dealers have some difficulty obtaining their full requirements. No change in prices shown for the week.

Weakness in wheat has resulted in further declines in the flour market. Portland millers reduced the entire list 20 cents a barrel to-day with bakera bluestem and pastry flour off 40 cents a barrel.

Country dressed veal was slightly easier at close of week. Bulk choice light calves 17 to 17 1/2 cents. Choice light hogs steady at 17 1/2 to 18 cents.

Poultry list generally firm and unchanged.

The local potato market has steadied again after the earlier trend shown earlier in the week. Wholesale prices are around $2 to $2.25 for Burbanks and $2.25 to $2.40 for United States No. 1 Gem. Buying prices range from $1.50 to $1.75 in the country.

The onion market closed steady at around $2 to $2.25. Buying prices range around $1.50 in the country for good stock.

PRUNE MARKET IS WEAKENING

While the California prune market is reported to be weakening and some packers have been shading prices the past few days, the Oregon market is holding firm as packers are busy getting out orders from the early season and no offers have been made. Were the situation different, it is likely there may have been some shading here due to the California situation. As it is less than 15 per cent of the 1925 prune crop here is said to be in growers hands and it is considered likely these will go at good prices when they do so.

ENGLISH READY TO PAY HIGHER PRICE FOR HOPS

That English brewers will be willing to pay a good price for their hops is an assertion contained in a recent hop circular issued by Thornton & Manger, English hop dealers. The crop is considerably heavier than expected a few weeks ago, says the circular, which is as follows:

Messrs. Thornton and Manger, of 99 Borough High Street, E.C.1, in their annual circular dated September 28th state:

Picking has been in progress over a week and is now general. According to its appearance in the garden, the crop promises to be unusually fine, both in quality and quantity. Climatic conditions have varied extremely during the growing period, and the plant was subjected to an attack of mildew, which was overcome by persistent washing and powdering. We are of opinion that the quality of this crop will greatly attract brewers and we have the confidence that they will be willing to pay a reasonable price for it. They know that the cost of production has enormously increased in recent years, everything that a grower needs is 100 per cent dearer than in previous times. The crop is heavier than was anticipated a few weeks ago. Its average already in hand, the management is very good and the color bright.

It is apparent it is now demonstrated that, unless weather conditions are unfavorable in late July and in August, a crop of hops can always be secured. This fact should cause growers to consider very seriously the vital question of the adjustment of average to remunerative returns. Some control over the position has been secured by the imposition of a duty of 4 pounds per cwt. which will prevent the flooding of our market by low quality foreign hops, but such duty will not prevent the English grower if the home production is in excess of the requirements of the trade.

We are convinced that the co-operative scheme, registered as "English Hop Growers Limited," will be of great advantage to every branch of the trade. By stabilizing values, business can be done better between the grower and the enabled growers to continue the average necessary for the needs of consumers.

BALLET SURVIVES IN RUSSIA

Moscow, Russia.—The Russian ballet stands in "the front row" among the pleasing things of life that have survived the bolshevik revolution. It is a form of entertainment that brightens up the otherwise somber picture which the visitor finds in soviet Russia. As an art, the ballet has suffered but little as a result of the great 1917 upheaval which profoundly affected every form of social activity.

ENGLISH HOP CROP HEAVIER THAN EXPECTED

English analysis of crop conditions in English hop yards was contained in the Kentish Observer of September 27th, which is contained in London, show that with picking about half over at that time the crop was coming down generally fully grown as expected and in some instances with a few weeks more equally over expectations. Quality generally was reported of the best.

Analysis of conditions in various hop producing sections as made by correspondents of the English newspaper follow:

Ashford district.—In spite of the cool—or even cold—weather the hops are coming down well. Some growers are finding the crop come down 20 per cent above their estimates, but others complain that owing to the paucity of seeds, the weight per acre has not been satisfactory. Many at 120 bushels to the acre are mentioned as not being needed in some cases against a normal requirement of about 70 bushels to the acre. It is a matter of "the acre" means only 10 bushels to the acre, but that is seldom seen nowadays, at any rate.

Bridge and Patricourt.—The hops continue coming down well and are practically free from mildew. The yield will be greater than was anticipated, averaging, approximately, about 18 cwt. per acre. It will be a three weeks' hopping, or thereabouts, the price per basket being one shilling and fivepence.

Canterbury district.—Picking is proceeding most satisfactorily and the hops are keeping extraordinarily well. The late varieties will be even finer in quality than the mid-season crop and apparently the weight per acre will be very heavy. The average yield per acre being but little short of last year. This statement applies not only to the Canterbury district but to the plantations in the immediate neighborhood, north, west, and south. Since the astonishing development which occurred in the rains at the end of July and was followed by subsequently all idea of over setting the growth had to be cast aside, and the erstwhile pessimists became optimists.

Chartham.—Picking is nearly halfway through; hops are keeping wonderfully well, and the late sorts are even finer in quality and content than those already gathered. The average to the acre exceeds all the estimates.

Cranbrook (Weald).—Picking is now in full swing and the weather, so far, has been fairly good. May be the lack of sunshine is an advantage as it tends towards keeping the hops from ripening too fast. In some instances the quality required for the market is obtained quite early in the afternoon, consequently the picking will be rather a lengthy job. Prices are about five bushels for 1c, with which the pickers are generally satisfied. I have not heard of any strikes yet.

Dunkirk district.—The hops are coming down well and in very good condition. There is very little loss of hops, and the crop is a good sample. I should think the yield will average about the same per acre as last year.

Harbledown district (near Canterbury).—All that need be said is that the yield per acre is fully up to expectations and that the crop is an exceptionally fine one.

Littlebourne and Ickham.—The ingathering of the hops in these parishes will last longer than was anticipated owing to the big crop, which is turning out a good deal larger than was expected a few weeks ago. They are keeping wonderfully well, and better quality has never been grown here. Picking will be exceedingly well.

Maidstone district.—Medway Valley.—Hops continue to come down fully up to expectations—in several instances the results are beyond the most sanguine expectations. The yield per acre, through this extensive area will be above the average. At Barning the hops are extraordinarily large, splendid in quality and condition, and having heavy foliage. The crop is so heavy that the tally has been fixed at six bushels for a shilling as against five bushels last season. East Farleigh and West Farleigh are particularly favored districts—most of the Mid-Kent growers are reaping that their crops are so large, as it may, in the existing state of the market, the price of lower prices than last year.

North Kent.—Picking around Strood and Rochester became general last Friday. The extra-early start which was made three weeks ago has had the effect of adding at least a couple of hundredweights to the acre in the whole of the North Kent gardens, and the quality is better than had been expected. The hops are of excellent quality and apparently all will be picked.

Tadlock Wood and district.—I have the impression that the crop is up to the situation in this district, and everybody is satisfied, even the "foreign" pickers, who if they were not doing well would be the first to give up the work. The hops are large in size and of fine quality; very little loss of hops is in evidence, and down to the present no deterioration from atmospheric causes. There is a particularly fine crop in the famous Tadlock farm, now owned by a great brewing firm.

Petham and district.—The hops are coming down a good average crop and keeping well. The yield in this district is 5d. per bushel, but other ten or twelve days.

St. Stephen's, Canterbury.—The ingathering is proceeding in a most satisfactory manner. The crop is of fine quality, and is maturing and ripening to perfection.

Wingham district.—A considerable proportion of the crop in this district will have been got down by the end of the present week, but there will then be about a fortnight's further work to complete the ingathering. Hops keep well and there is very little mildew and practically fine figure will not be reached, though a few growths may be quite as heavy.

Yalding and Hunton.—The picking in the Mid-Kent parishes proceeds rapidly and satisfactorily. Fuggles and Brantlings are as fine now as have ever been grown about here and they are giving a good yield to the acre—not far short of 18 cwt.

West Midlands
The Shireleys, Stockton, Orleton and Stafor-on-Teme—Picking became general all round by Tuesday last. Fuggles were ready a week ago, but mid-season and late hops have ripened off slowly. The cones are very well developed and beautifully bright and free from disease. These parishes should average 21 cwt. per statute acre. The vine, which in most yards is high, is very fruitful, and the last month has improved the crop by several cwt. per acre.

PIONEERS TELL OF FIRST FAIR

There are many pioneers on the camp grounds at the fair this year who recall with ease the origin of the present all-embracing yearly event. Oregon's first state fair was held, they remember, on the north bank of the Clackamas river near the present site of Gladstone, October 1, 2, 3 and 4, 1841. The weather was the same as on the same dates, this year.

Hon. E. H. Flagg, a member of the legislature from Marion county, in the 1859 session, introduced the bill that took over the property of the Oregon state agricultural society, and placing the fair under state management.

On April 8, 1854, Governor John W. Davis was chairman of a meeting held for the purpose of holding a county fair in Marion county. A constitution was adopted May 13, 1854, and a fair was held October 11, 1854, in Salem. The secretary of that original meeting was J. G. Wilson, W. J. Herren, for whom one of the streets in tented city is named, was president of Marion's first fair.

AIMEE CROCKER GOURARD BRINGS FIFTH HUSBAND

New York, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Mrs. Aimee Crocker Gourard, who inherited $10,000,000 from her father, Edwin B. Crocker of San Francisco, is back from Paris with another prince for her fifth husband. He is 25; she is 51.

Though they occupied separate suites on the liner Berengaria, Mrs. Gourard admitted to immigration authorities that Prince Maelsidlaw Galatine and she were married in Paris September 23, after a courtship of one month. Prince Alexander Mielnikoff whom she married in 1914 and divorced a year later, her husband is Russian, tall and handsome. He has a point of black moustache. The princess is five feet six and inclined to plumpness.

"I am exceedingly opposed to divorce," she said, when photographers asked them to pose for a picture.

At the Waldorf they registered as Prince and Princess Galatine. Two maids and a valet accompanied them. Prince said his ancestry went back into the Russian and Polish nobility.

Eloping with R. Porter Ashe, a woman, as a girl, the princess had been divorced three times. Her first husband in 24 years, Herk, Jackson Gourard, New York clubman, died in Paris she had been known as the queen of pearls because of her display and entertainment. Her divorce from Prince Alexander attracted attention because it was hinted that the prince had fallen in love with Yvonne Gourard, 16 year old foster daughter of the princess. The princess said later: "No more foreign titles in 1920." She was sued for $100,000 in 1920 by Mrs. Brainer Schill of New York on a charge of alienating the affections of Mr. Schill. The case has never been settled.

In Paris, Count Perri Pissal sued her for $900 salary as her confidential secretary. The princess confessed that he was her husband's first but a sailor and said she had bought all of the count's clothing. Her second husband was Henry F. Gillis, former commodore of the Larchmont Yacht club, whom she divorced.

Littlebourne and Ickham.—The ingathering of the hops in these parishes will last longer than was anticipated owing to the big crop, which is turning out a good deal larger than was expected a few weeks ago. They are keeping wonderfully well, and better quality has never been grown here. Picking will be exceedingly well.

VAUDEVILLE AT BLIGH TONIGHT

Vaudeville with all its frills and fancies and a well selected company of talented artists in comedy, novelty, song and dance will be seen at the Bligh theater tonight.

The location of the present age in "Surprises and Thrills." The Aerial Ballets, without a doubt, have the best act of its kind that has played the circuit in years. Their work is the last word in cleverness and daring. Ambassador Crowley, "One of the Four Horsemen," in his pleasing monologue and yodling offering. His act borders on a current event and is full of laughter and song. Jack Jackson Trio in "Jazz and Jazzes," present about the fastest act in vaudeville when it comes to pep and speed—a fast dancing and musical number. Hollins Sisters in "Mirthful Moments," are two talented young ladies, tastefully costumed. Their songs are new and their voices blend in perfect harmony and they are pleasing to behold. Shadowettes is a show within a show, a mature stage showing a transparency with several brilliantly colored scenes and a series of animated apints; also human and animal comedy effects.

ROUMANIAN WHEAT SURPLUS

Bucharest, Roumania.—A grain surplus of $,000,000 acres of deep ground land in Roumania in the present year is shown by government statistics recently issued. Despite the decreased sowing, the crop conditions are reported as excellent, the weather throughout may have been exceptionally favorable. Agricultural experts are predicting that the 1925 wheat crop will leave a large exportable surplus.
